Cuba Has Legal Circus With Death in the Wings

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

His wrists handcuffed before him, his false teeth nibbling on his upper lip, Sosa stood in his blue prison garb in the blazingly lighted center of Havana's Sports Palace and took the verdict without any outburst.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

4 Are Killed, 100 Injured in Tank Car Blast

MONROE, La. —(UPI)— At least four persons were killed and more than 100 spectators and workers injured late Friday night when a derailed tank car of liquid butane exploded.

All available ambulances were dispatched to the scene and Monroe hospitals issued a call for emergency donations of blood.

An unidentified fireman who was one-half block away from the tracks said his coat was scorched by the tremendous fire and heat. He said the liquid petroleum gas flowed from the tank car onto a nearby field, setting up a wall of fire as it advanced.

The force of the explosion shook the ground five miles away.

Authorities at Conway Hospital said another 12 or 13 persons were missing.

More than 100 spectators had gathered at the scene of an early morning derailment and explosion of some 30 railway cars. There were no injuries reported at the first explosion, in which several butane tanks exploded.

However, spectators who came to watch a smoldering butane tank explode, as predicted by firemen, paid a tragic price for the diversion.

Monroe's two main hospitals were reported jammed with the injured and with persons seeking relatives. A third small clinic was pressed into service and doctors set up an emergency aid center at a National Guard armory.

Curiosity seekers were reported in the area after the second explosion, hampering the work of rescuers.

The dead and injured were not immediately identified.

A fire department official said railway workers and firemen had begun clearing the tracks of the wreckage when the second explosion occurred. He said he thought all of his men escaped serious injuries, but that he didn't know for sure.

Thirty of 33 cars derailed were demolished in the first explosion. The blast crumpled boxcars like matchsticks. The heat of the fires melted railroad tracks and fused the wheels of freight cars to the rails.

No More Trials in Arena

Castro Also Calls Off TV

HAVANA — (UPI) — Cuba's revolutionary leaders have decided to move the "war crimes" trials out of Havana's big Sports Palace and its circus-like atmosphere, it was learned Friday night.

An army major was convicted and sentenced to death early Friday in Havana's first spectacular trial of alleged "war criminals."

Fidel Castro demanded an end to the television and radio broadcasts of the trials.

The second trial was abruptly postponed Friday until Monday. It may be moved into a military courtroom at Cabana Fortress here, where 600 officers and men of deposed Dictator Fulgencio Batista's government are awaiting trial.

The first man tried, Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, was condemned to death at a marathon, 12-hour and 19-minute trial in the Sports Palace which ended early Friday. The sentence was announced at about 6 a.m.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

His three sisters visited him at his cell in a dimly-lighted corridor. They brought him a rum bottle filled with coffee.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

U.S. Aid Ordered By Ike

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(UPI)— The worst floods in 46 years smashed through a levee into Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday, covering one third of the historic city and driving 10,000 persons from their homes.

Another flood, the worst on record, forced the evacuation of 20 per cent of Meadville, Pa., and filled the city's hospitals with refugees suffering from exposure.

President Eisenhower Friday declared the flood stricken regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania as disaster areas and authorized immediate federal aid.

The president took the action in response to urgent pleas from Govs. Michael V. Disalle of Ohio and David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania.

"The distress suffered by the people in the stricken areas is of deep concern to me," the president said, "and I am hopeful that the situation may rapidly improve."

The American Red Cross announced it was rushing aid to the 11,000 families victimized by flood waters in the five-state area of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and New York.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, National Red Cross president, called the floods a "major disaster."

He said 82 shelters had been set up in stricken areas and that 6,000 persons already had received food or lodging. Gruenther said the Red Cross would move quickly to rehabilitate families who still need medical or other assistance when the immediate emergency ends.

More flood threats on ice-clogged rivers built up in New York State and Kentucky in the wake of the most bitter storm of the year. A sub-zero cold wave increased the misery of millions and iced the eastern flood-waters.

Damage from the storm and floods neared 100 million dollars and the weather death count passed the 100 mark.

A count since the start of the great storm Tuesday showed 107 deaths from the Rockies to the Appalachians blamed on weather-caused traffic acci-

Mother Victim of Ruse

Woman Is Sought In Baby Kidnaping

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

New Threat to Tourist Industry

PAA Peace Parley Broken Off: Union Committee Votes Strike

The Transport Workers Union called off negotiations with Pan American World Airways Friday night, paving the way for an 8,000-man walkout that would cripple PAA and slap Greater Miami's tourist industry with a second airline strike.

But William Grogan, international vice president of the TWU, told The Herald from New York Friday night that no strike date would be announced before union meetings throughout Pan American's system Thursday.

Grogan said, however, the union's negotiating committee has voted to recommend a strike to the members.

"The members have already voted us the authority to strike," Grogan said. "Thursday we will discuss the situation with them, bring them up to date, then announce what we are going to do."

There is also the possibility of federal arbitration of the dispute if both sides agree, or a 30-day cooling off period before any strike begins.

The dispute involves some 3,000 TWU workers stationed at Miami and about 1,500 more who work for Pan American at the Cape Canaveral missile test center.

Water Bars Rescue of Trapped 12

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

An Exclusive Interview With Batista

Unhappy Life of a Dictator Without Country

He's hated in his own country and scorned by the rest of the world.

What's ahead for Fulgencio Batista, the onetime strong man of Cuba who had to start the new year by fleeing for safety to another country?

An unusual insight into the ex-dictator's unhappy life in his Dominican Republic refuge was gained by George Beebe, Herald managing editor. The setting for the exclusive interview was vastly different than the last time they talked aboard Batista's palatial yacht.

Batista tells of his plans and thoughts in the first of Beebe's absorbing series which starts in Sunday's Herald.

Cost of Living Declines; First Drop Since August

Food Price Dip Leads Decrease

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The cost of living dropped two-tenths of one per cent in December in the first monthly decline since August, the government reported Friday. It attributed the drop primarily to a dip in food prices.

The decline lowered the Labor Department's consumer price index to 123.7 per cent of the base period 1947-49. The November index equalled the all-time high of 123.9 per cent set last July, and the December index still was 1.7 per cent above a year ago.

The Labor Department also reported that the earnings of the average factory worker after taxes last month reached an all-time high of $79.60 a week for a man with three dependents and $72.10 for a single man. This was $1.20 above November.

The December drop in the cost of living was too slight to affect the wages of 700,000 workers whose pay is pegged by their collective bargaining contracts to the department's price index.

H. E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the lower food prices reflected decreases in the cost of oranges, eggs, coffee, poultry and pork. Also down were prices of new autos, women's and girls coats, suits and dresses, recreation, and personal care.

Riley said food prices probably will rise again this month. But he doubted there would be any substantial change in the overall cost of living.

Ike Sets Up Cost Group

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower set up a special committee Friday to make sure government purchases and other federal activities do not fan inflationary fires by driving up prices unduly.

In ordering the move, the President said the committee will help him decide whether the government is being run in such a way as to contribute as much as possible to "reasonable price stability." If not, he said, action must be taken.

The new presidential committee will be headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Other members will consist of representatives of at least 10 government agencies.

Tot's Body Is Found On Stove

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A young mother told police her nine-month-old son was found burned to death on top of a kitchen gas stove Friday.

The burned body of Taylor Carter, son of Mrs. Ursala Carter, 25, was found by a grandmother, Mrs. Emma Cabell.

Detective Lt. Howard Dando and Detective Ralph Geary quoted Mrs. Carter as saying someone broke into the house while she was at her sister's home for about 20 minutes.

They said she gave this story:

She went around the corner to visit her sister, Mrs. Leon White. She left the infant on the living room couch and took with her her two other children, Richard Jr., four, and Lisa, 3.

A short time later she sent a niece, Linda White, to check on the baby. Linda returned and said she couldn't find the baby.

Mrs. Carter and her mother Mrs. Cabell, hurried to the house. Mrs. Cabell found the baby on the stove, three burners alight under his body. His clothing has been removed.

Detectives continued to question Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Cabell. They said they will issue no statement until the investigation is finished.

At Chillicothe, a storied, 163-year-old city of 27,000 which served as Ohio's capital between 1803 and 1807, the rain-swollen Scioto River swept out of its banks at a height of 32.5 feet, 16.5 feet over flood stage, and crashed through a levee guarding the business section.

The icy river surged over a third of the city. It spread so quickly that many families were unable to reach safety on foot. Their only escape was by helicopter, army ducks, rowboat or high-wheeled cattle trucks.

Practically every able-bodied man in the city, along with National Guard troopers and Army and Navy reservists, fought the floods throughout the day.

The refugees were housed in churches, schools, lodge halls and private homes.

The waters of French Creek spilled into the northwest Pennsylvania town of Meadeville at six feet over flood stage and sent 1,300 families — 20 per cent of the town's population — running.

Meanwhile, new floods and blizzards struck upper New York State in a sequel to the raging storm which swept the nation's midcontinent earlier in the week and gorged rivers with record rainfalls.

Weather-wise Watertown, N.Y., reported its worst blizzard of the winter, with more than a foot of wind-blown snow blocking roads, closing schools, and cutting visibility to zero.

Cold's Gone, Clouds Stay

"It looks like another bad weekend," Forecaster Robert Rowlee predicted gloomily Friday night.

Drizzling cloudiness is expected until late today, and 15 to 25 mile an hour winds should keep fishing waters choppy, Rowlee said.

But he said the moist weather may drift away in time for a sunny Sunday.

Temperatures will be balmy, however — 70 to 74 today and in the high 60s tonight.

2 Pinball Machines Are Seized

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

One of two pinball machines seized Friday by gambling investigators was labeled with the sticker of airport concessionaire Sam Marino's H & S Amusement Co., State Attorney Richard Gerstein said.

Gerstein promised to file gambling charges after further investigation to "place responsibility" for operation of the free-game type machines.

Marino, awarded the coin machine concession at the new airport terminal, said he owned neither the pinball machine bearing the H & S service label, or the one with the label of the Major Music Co.

But Marino's name was known at the separate telephone numbers listed on the two stickers.

He denied connection with the Major Music Co., and said "we service machines as a service company only. If the machines are used illegally for gambling, we cannot be blamed for it anymore than the city can be blamed for issuing the licenses."

He said the H & S sticker was put on the one machine by a service man.

The machine marked with the Major Music sticker reportedly was owned by a "new operator" in this area.

It was the second time in a week that the name of a concession holder at the new airport terminal was connected by Gerstein's office with gambling operations.

Gerstein said the pinball machines were taken from the Steak King Restaurant, 14220 NW Seventh Ave. Owner Jack Silver said he didn't know the owners or distributors.

Mexico City Flights Off

A pilots strike in Mexico City Friday caused Guest Airways to cancel its flights at least through today.

Guest, which flies between Miami and Mexico City, was one of six Mexican airlines shut down by the walkout.

Joseph Purdy, Guest district sales manager in Miami, said service will be resumed as soon as the pilots dispute is resolved.

Meanwhile, another international airline, Riddle Airlines, announced it had signed a union contract with 150 workers represented by the Air Carrier Mechanics Association.

The agreement provides for progressive two year wage increases and is retroactive to Dec. 1, 1958.

'Soup' Delays Planes

'Stacked Up' A Mile High

By CHARLES TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

Soupy weather caused a major traffic jam in the skyways over Miami Friday, forcing some planes to circle for two and a half hours before they could land.

At one point during the late afternoon rush hours, planes filled with grumbling passengers were stacked a mile high at a half-dozen "hold" points around the city, waiting their turns to be guided by instruments to weathered-in Miami International Airport.

Planes landed at three-minute intervals almost day-long, but the control tower at the airport said that during the worst of the crush as many as 32 planes were circling at once in widely separated areas. Takeoffs were also held up.

The delay had been cut to 15 or 20 minutes Friday evening, and the tower said schedules should be back to normal by early today.

Some planes which ran low on gas and were diverted to landings at other airports earlier in the day were coming into Miami Friday night.

The airways traffic jam resulted from the thick overcast. Under instrument flying conditions, an official at the control tower explained, aircraft are required to stay at different altitudes and circle in widely separated areas when they arrive at their destination.

"In clear weather, one plane can see the one in front of him in the landing pattern and follow it on in," an official explained. "When we go on instruments, things get complicated and it takes longer."

Pan American World Airways said four passenger flights and one cargo flight were diverted to Nassau to wait out the jam-up over Miami. Two PAA flights to Havana were canceled due to bad weather there.

Between landings every three minutes, outgoing planes were taking off. A plane was landing or taking off every minute and a half most of the day Friday.

"We've got them stacked up to 18,000 feet in some places," the control tower said.

The area below 6,000 feet is kept clear for planes taking off. The outbound aircraft stay below that level until they are clear of the Miami area.

Some of the circling areas are located near Elliott Key, Fowey Rock, east of Miami Beach, and near Lake Okeechobee in the Everglades north of Miami.

The control tower said planes were landing almost 100 per cent on instruments. Visibility was limited to about a mile and a half, and incoming pilots didn't break out of the overcast until their planes were down to about 500-foot altitude.

"They don't see the runway until they're almost on it," a tower spokesman said. "But there's nothing to worry about. This is routine. It goes on in bad weather all the time."

National Summary

High pressure covering most of the region from the mid and lower Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast accounted for widespread sunshine but continued cold temperatures through Friday afternoon.

Readings in the teens persisted in the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians at midday and freezing levels were noted in the mountains of Tennessee while 40s ranged across the Gulf region.

Blustery winds sweeping across the Great Lakes region into the northeast held temperatures to 10 degrees or lower in many sections and maintained snow flurries and local squalls from Michigan across New York and Pennsylvania into northern New England.

Warmer weather from the northwest and over most of the midsection of the country during the night is expected to nudge into the southeast on Saturday.

Colder weather from the Carolinas into New England over night is expected to linger.

Showers will accompany mild temperatures in the Pacific northwest while snow flurries will be scattered across the mountains from Montana into Colorado.

Today's Cele-Birthday

* * *

Sandys is the man most responsible for England's program of preparedness. Appalled at past defense failures, he's determined to see that past mistakes aren't repeated—has been studying America's rocket and military installations. Tall, red-haired Sandys is shy, but an excellent orator. During the war he served with the Royal Artillery in the "too-little, too-late" campaign on France's beaches.

Joe's Car Made Issue In Politics

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Joe Martin's spanking-new $11,000 limousine, an "auld lang syne" gift from the House membership, appeared Friday to have become a political issue.

Rep. William H. Ayres (R., Ohio) is telling the voters back home that Democrats got the House to provide the chauffeur-driven Cadillac to the ousted GOP leader "just to embarrass Republicans."

Ayres said 22 constituents have written him to protest the decision to keep Martin supplied at taxpayer expense with the limousine and extra clerical help that normally goes only with the floor leader's position.

Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, said there was no foundation to Ayres' charge. "I thought it was the decent and proper thing to do," he told a reporter.

Ayres wrote his constituents that McCormack's resolution to provide Martin with the car was approved at the very time that "a movement was under way among Republicans to present a car to Mr. Martin through private contributions."

Therefore, he wrote, "the resolution was clearly political and calculated to embarrass Republicans.

"Let us hope it is no indication of the manner in which your money will be appropriated during the next two years by the 86th Congress."

McCormack's office said the Democratic leader has received about 50 letters commenting on the House action two weeks ago and "90 per cent of them were favorable."

Bus Line Sues Union

ST. LOUIS —(P)— American Bus Lines Inc., of Lincoln, Neb., has filed a two million dollar damage suit against the union which is on strike against it.

The suit said the figure represented the amount of money the company had lost because of the strike, which began July 1.

Death Lurks in 'Circus' Wings

Batistan Offers No Defense

so did the handful of Latin Americans and U.S. newsmen who stayed until the end, along with a scattering of Cubans who wanted to be in on the kill.

The public address system knocked your ears out at the very moment you were straining to hear; nobody bothered to swear in a witness after the first three or four, and photographers were able to move those testifying to the right or left for the best picture angle.

Recesses, infrequent as they were, were a bedlam of confusion as citizens came down from their seats and strode into the center of the "courtroom" to get a closer look at the accused man.

They had to push aside beer and soda pop vendors to get there, and kick their way through the newspaper-littered floor but those who could fight their way through the forest of microphones got the job done.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

Maj. Sosa Blanco, Right Arrow, Hears Sentence of Death From Judge, Left Arrow

This was a case where the prosecution had a "hands down" case but went out of its way to prove it. Thirty-six witnesses paraded before the microphones and their stories were anything but pretty.

There were only a few among the 36 witnesses who actually saw the defendant kill a man.

The others weren't ashamed to admit that when Sosa shot most of his victims they (the witnesses) were lying face down in the dirt or were hidden somewhere in their homes.

A 12-year-old boy told how the army commander came to his home in Oriente Province and pulled his father from the house, telling the lad he would send the old man back in a few minutes.

The father knew better, and handed his watch to his son before he went out in the front yard to be shot.

Then there was the story of Miguel Llorente, a relative of the Argote family in Bayamo, who had the misfortune of visiting them when Sosa decided to make an example of a few civilians.

Miguel was in the home when Sosa ordered all 10 males present into the front yard to be shot.

But he scared the devil out of the religious townspeople when he interrupted those who had come immediately to pray and bury the dead by rolling over and sitting up in the midst of their services.

The most damning witness of all was a young rebel who once had been a member of Sosa Blanco's army command, Antonio Froenza. He deserted and joined Castro after the commander ordered the burning of 200 homes in one village "because there must be some rebels there."

On another occasion Froenza said, a soldier on an assassination squad was killed himself because Sosa saw him turn his gun away from the target at the last second.

There were other witnesses to testify that Sosa shot a half dozen more of his own soldiers to justify his reports that all of the killings of civilians were the result of rebel fights.

That was his defense in the only time he accepted the court's offer to speak.

Sosa, who is about 45 years old, is living out his last hours in La Cabana Fortress.

There were three judges in the overnight trial and a fire-eating prosecutor by the name of Capt. Jorge Sergera, a two-year rebel and Havana University graduate who is 24 years old.

Sosa had no witnesses in his own defense. The only possible people to help him might have been his own army comrades. But it is hard to find any former army men these days — least of all one who would appear on behalf of Sosa.

The defense counsel, Aristides de Costa, did a great job in arguing law and had some newsmen convinced that he might have won an acquittal in an American court.

The rebels claimed Sosa should die under a revolutionary government penal code set up in February last year, before they were in control of the government.

The defense quoted portions of the constitution to show such a law couldn't be applied.

But the judges checkmated the defense, ruling that Batista's long nullification of civil liberties removed his army commander from that protection.

To Sosa it didn't make much difference.

He knew, when he walked into that sports arena, that he was a dead man.

His only consolation was the fact that it would be a firing squad — not a howling mob — that got to him first.

Oust 5 Pro-Commies

Anti-Red Forces Win Victory in Cuban Unions

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Anti-Communist forces have won an important initial victory in the struggle to fill the leadership vacuum in the labor movement of Cuba.

Five Communists or pro-Communist labor leaders who had climbed aboard the driver's seat of Cuban labor after the downfall of Fulgencio Batista have been "reorganized out" in the last few days, it was learned here.

The anti-Communist labor forces in Havana have had the advice and help of AFL-CIO leaders in Washington.

"It's a good beginning," said an AFL-CIO representative here. "But we better not brag about it. There's a long and difficult fight ahead."

Immediately after the downfall of Batista, the shattered Cuban Confederation of Labor was put under the control of a 20-man "directorate." Five of these 20 were known Communists or pro-Communists.

An advisory mission was soon sent into Cuba by Serafino Romualdi, the inter-American representative of the AFL-CIO.

The mission was headed by Luis Alberto Monge, a members of the Costa Rican Parliament, and an active anti-Communist trade unionist. Officially, the "mission" represented a group known as ORIT, which is the Latin American wing of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

At least partly as a result of the "mission" which visited the demoralized Cuban labor leaders, there has been a sudden "reorganization" of the "directorate" of the Cuban Confederation within the past few days.

The "directorate" has been reduced from 22 to nine members.

All five of the Communists and pro-Communists on the "directorate" found themselves on the outside after the reorganization which had the secret blessing of Fidel Castro.

Fidel's Colors On New Stamp

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — The revolutionary government will issue two million two-cent stamps Wednesday commemorating Cuba's Jan. 1 liberation.

The stamps will be red and black, the colors of Fidel Castro's movement, and will depict a bearded rebel guerrilla raising his rifle aloft against a spangled background.

Larson Backed on Auto Insurance

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — The attorney general ruled Friday that Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson was right when he used a technicality to turn down a request for higher auto insurance rates.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters had asked for a statewide increase of 26.3 per cent. In Dade County, where rates are among the nation's highest, the proposed boost would have amounted to 33.3 per cent.

The bureau represents about 40 per cent of the state's insurance companies.

Larson denied the request for the rate increase on grounds the bureau had not supplied adequate information to support its request.

Larson said the information in the bureau's application was based on less than half the total liability coverage written by all companies operating in Florida.

He said the experience of other companies should have been considered in the petition.

Ervin said in his advisory opinion that the insurance commissioner's authority "includes the right to consider all elements and factors that properly have a bearing on the rates to be established."

He added: "It is well settled that insurance is a business affected with a public interest which is subject to state control and regulations."

The attorney general said the rate laws are designed to "protect the public interest in obtaining safe insurance at reasonable rates. This is the guiding star when construing statutes relating to insurance and insurance rates."

A tentative public hearing on the rate increase is set for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11, in the Florida House chamber here.

Ervin said that this hearing could not be considered a final hearing to determine whether rates should be increased—only a basis to determine whether the original application must be considered by Larson as meeting legal requirements.

Probers To Keep It 50-50

Rackets Group Alignment Stays

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has voted to continue its membership on a 50-50 split between Democrats and Republicans.

In These U.S.

It did so in asking that the Senate extend its life as a bipartisan group for another year. It now is scheduled to go out of existence at the end of this month. The Senate may act next week.

There had been talk of a move to give the Democrats a numerical majority. But in a unanimous vote the group made it clear it wants no change in the numerical makeup of four Democrats and four Republicans.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) indicated he has reason to believe there was some substance to the rumors about a change.

The committee, asking for an extension of its authority until Jan. 31, 1960, sought $750,000 to finance its work for the added year. That is the same amount it received last year.

Lost Jet Canopy Found on Farm

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(UPI) — A canopy believed to be one reported lost Tuesday from a jet trainer was found seven miles south of Knoxville.

The plexiglass and steel device was discovered near a barn on the B. A. Bowers farm. Air Force officials said it contained an "extremely dangerous" explosive charge used for ejection emergencies.

The canopy blew off a T33 jet trainer in flight over the Great Smoky Mountains. The plane landed safely at Donaldson Air Force Base and authorities sent out an alarm saying the charge could cause death or injury.

Ike Designates Junior Week

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower Friday designated the week of Jan. 25 as National Junior Achievement Week.

In a proclamation, Eisenhower said many of the nation's young people, under the auspices of a junior achievement organization, are learning the lessons of American business initiative by organizing and operating their own small-scale enterprises.

Such experience, Eisenhower added, will assist them in later life and stimulate their spirit of achievement, independence and community responsibility.

Florida's Science Teaching Rapped by Investigators

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A special state committee Friday severely criticized science and mathematics training in Florida schools and put a six million dollar price tag on the cost of bringing this vital field up to par.

A special committee of the Florida Nuclear Development Commission said the six million dollars state contribution would entitle Florida to 10 million dollars in matching federal funds.

The committee on science and mathematics said a year-long study of the Florida public school system showed glaring deficiencies in this vital field.

Most of the teachers do not have the proper training or equipment for the job and the science courses now being taught are "poorly organized, repetitive and unchallenging," the committee said.

The legislative committee took no action. But members' questions indicated that while the program was desirable, the state cannot afford it unless spending is cut in some other programs.

Sen. Wilson Carraway of Tallahassee, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he thinks Florida could participate at less than the estimated two million dollars a year state contribution.

Spokesmen indicated improvement of science, mathematics and language courses in the elementary and high schools is more important than many educational programs now financed by the state.

(Dade County has agreed to use local funds to match up to $132,000 in federal grants for science, mathematics, and language equipment. School Board members have indicated they will put up more if the federal cash becomes available.)

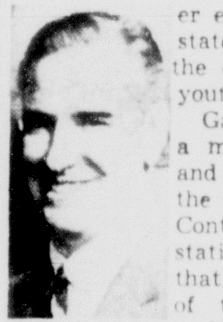
'Florida Could Lose Cream of Its Youth'

By JOHN McDERMOTT
Herald Political Writer

William C. Gaither warned Friday that unless Floridians move swiftly to meet growing need of more facilities for higher education the state will lose the cream of its youth.



GAITHER

Gaither, a Miami attorney and member of the Board of Control, said statistics show that 30 per cent of the nation's college-age youths today are seeking and getting a college education.

"By 1970, that figure will be up to 50 per cent," he told the Miami Kiwanis club luncheon at the Columbus hotel.

In Florida, the figures are even more demanding and more significant, he said.

"Florida now has about 54,000 students in higher education," Gaither explained. "By 1970, there will be 158,000 seeking a college education here."

Unless Florida provides more opportunity in the graduate fields, more and more of the top students will be leaving—as they now are—for completion of their education in other states.

"Once they leave, it is difficult to get them back," he declared.

"We lose twice as many of our graduate students as we gain."

The answer, he said, is to increase the state's graduate program.

"If we fail to make adequate preparations now . . . you are going to find that your children and grandchildren will be deprived of a college education," Gaither declared.

Dormitory Wrecked By Fire

Students Believed Safe at Miss. State

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. — (AP) — Fire believed caused by defective wiring raced through the main men's dormitory at Mississippi State University early Friday, leaving nothing but a mass of rubble of the 78-year-old brick and wood frame structure.

About 1,000 students lived in the four-section building. Officials said they believed all escaped. The flames broke out about 2:45 a.m. and many of the students were still up studying for final examinations. One student received burns on the hands.

Malcolm Gray, supervisor of student housing, said it would be impossible to tell whether all got out until an impromptu roll call later.

Damage estimates were unavailable, but Gray said it would cost three million dollars to replace the dormitory.

The fire broke out in Room 371 of the four-story building. Flames were shooting out the window when the first alarm was sounded.

The building, part of which was started in 1878, was a mass of flames by the time firemen from neighboring West Point and Columbus arrived.

The task of checking for missing students was especially difficult because many students who lived in the area went home. Several hundred students also had finished final examinations and had gone for the semester holiday.

Lyndon Johnson On Civil Rights

The Thoughtful Approach

SEN. Lyndon Johnson of Texas is assuming a position in Congress reminds ful of another Southerner of influence, Henry Clay. But though he stands like Clay between two extremes of political thought he is not likely to be remembered as a great compromiser. His proposals thus far in the new Congress have the mark of original leadership.

Sen. Johnson's personal "State of the Union" speech to his Democratic colleagues and his brilliant victory in the filibuster fight underscore his firm control. His proposals for civil rights legislation offer soothing action in an area so often marked by bitterness. His approach is thoughtful. Both the Southern conservatives who want no civil rights bills at all and the liberals who want the strongest possible laws can find some merit in them. They are the best proposals yet that have a chance of enactment without splitting the majority party down the middle.

That this was Senator Johnson's hope is plain in his speech of introduction:

> The civil rights issue is one which divides our country. We can use it to continue to divide our country. Or we can reason together as prudent men charged with the heavy responsibility of finding a solution.

THE Johnson proposals are four-fold: a federal community relations service to mediate civil rights disputes, subpena powers for the Attorney General in investigating voting rights cases, a law making bombing a federal offense, and extension of the Civil Rights Commission until Jan. 31, 1961.

Senator Johnson has outmaneuvered the extremists. He has exposed opposition to the tag of obstructionist. Already the betting is that two measures — the anti-bombing bill and the extension of the Commission — will pass easily. The proposal for a conciliation service has strong backing because the principle has been successfully demonstrated in some labor-management disputes.

The Senator from Texas has also outmaneuvered the White House. The President has indicated a need for civil rights legislation but has not yet made definite proposals, and in his National Press Club appearance made statements on the school segregation issue which many considered less than firm.

Senator Johnson has stepped into the vacuum. His suggestions are concrete. They are simple. Most significantly, they have aroused no serious protest from either side.

What the Senate majority leader has done is exactly what he himself said was needed:

> Let us see whether we here cannot take another step by providing the leadership the American people yearn for.

Footnote

Collins Adds One

GOV. LeRoy Collins, in both his capacities as head of the state and as chairman of the National Governors' Conference, has been searching earnestly for ways to end racial strife.

A middle-roader like Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Collins believes the Johnson civil rights program has merit. But it does not go far enough.

The Governor wants state commissions, appointed by the President on recommendation of the governors, to handle racial disputes on the local level, with an eye to local conditions, beliefs and traditions.

There is no reason why this should not be a valuable adjunct to the Johnson program. Such state commissions, responsible to the President, would hardly be used for local foot-dragging. Under some conditions they could become vital factors for good. It is not likely, for example, that the Little Rock crisis would have occurred had such a commission been functioning in Arkansas.

The Collins proposal deserves serious consideration as a means of smoothing the troubled path of race relations, not only in the South but throughout the land.

Above The Fray, There It Stands

MIAMIANS who have snatched a sneak preview of the new 20th Street terminal at International Airport describe it as an eye-popping adventure.

The terminal is a giant by any measure. Its length is the equivalent of two Empire State buildings laid end to end. Viewed from the ample approach roads, the structure has the appearance of a giant ocean liner on a restless, multi-colored sea.

The arrival and departure ramps, one above the other, are broad boulevards that would seem to swallow the heaviest conceivable traffic, but bear in mind that this largest central-type airport terminal in the world will soon be the nation's busiest.

Indeed, but for the people, the bustle is already there. There is a literal sense of smooth-running efficiency with each area designed for full utility but losing nothing in grace and eye appeal. The decor is tasteful. Even the huge girders rising above the lower ramp are painted (some are still in the process) in colors that enliven this great cavern of steel and stone.

A gimmick: native Florida plantings along the walls of the "fingers" will greet the deplaning visitor from the northlands, and they're being tested for survival against the blasts of jets.

WE HADN'T meant to peek—really. But we think Miamians can be proud of this swift achievement which accommodates their city to the jet age.

The terminal is ready for operation many weeks ahead of schedule, and there is nothing makeshift about it.

The traveler — this season, and next—will take away with him a startling impression of a dynamic city which has put its best talent to work in forging an aerial gateway second to none.

Those who dreamed and planned for this approaching day deserve the gratitude of the community. When the achievement of a functioning terminal is set beside the petty differences which have arisen, it casts them in its shadow.

We are thinking in this connection of the master-builder's role of Director George McSherry. This terminal-in-being is his vindication. For there it stands.

Rediscovering A Lost 'Island'

AN OLD skeleton may take on flesh and become a beauty if city officials and taxpayers of Miami Beach approve the latest proposal for Pelican Island.

It isn't really an island. It's under three feet of water. Its rectangular outline can be traced in piles projecting above water north of Di Lido Island. The rotting posts, enclosing an area of slightly more than 100 acres, are little more than a roost for water birds and a hazard to boating.

The piling is all that's left of work started more than 30 years ago to dredge up an island on the spot. Originally a private development, the site was acquired in 1944 by the City of Miami Beach for $35,000.

That may prove a very good investment if Pelican Island emerges as a public recreation area, as recommended by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, consulting engineers.

OF COURSE, the project is little more than an idea at present. Beach councilmen first will be called on to decide whether the "island" should be a family recreation center or a golf course. For golf, it would have to be enlarged, and there is strong sentiment against any additional filling of Biscayne Bay.

Then there's the matter of a bridge to link the island with either Di Lido on the south or the new 36th St. causeway being built to the north.

Money is a major hurdle. The $3 million for the island is part of a multi-million-dollar program proposed by the Bartholomew firm. Beach taxpayers would have to vote bonds for that.

Meantime, it's tempting to think of that old eyesore transformed into a prize attraction for Miami Beach's residents and visitors.

Same Difference, Though In Error

A RECENT item written by Herald Staff Writer John Morton, and our comment on it on this page, tripped a bit of a flap at Miami's City Hall.

Morton had checked payrolls for the last pay periods of 1957 and 1958 and concluded there were 71 more employes at the end of 1958 than a year earlier.

This touched off an official tally by Meyer Stoller, city internal auditor and budget director. Stoller found there were only 36—not 71—more employes on the roster.

Another inquiry by Morton showed these figures for total payroll of City Hall and the Department of Water and Sewers: for the 12 months of 1957, $15,982,289; for 1958, $16,887,173. That's an increase of $904,884.

Whether the number of additional employes was 36 or 71, we still say: "Now that Metropolitan Government here is a going concern, you'd naturally think that City Hall payrolls should be getting smaller."

Don't you—still?

Editorial Background - - The Juvenile Court

No More 'Lock Up, Investigate Later'

By BERT COLLIER
Herald Editorial Writer

SOMETHING of a minor miracle has taken place in the Dade County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

Collier

Nine months ago this court was under heavy fire. A Grand Jury had lashed out at its ineffectiveness and lack of employe morale. A group of civic leaders, after a lengthy study, reported it was falling down badly in serving boys and girls in trouble.

Today, a reoriented and revitalized court is on its way to becoming, in many respects, one of the best in the South.

As the result of new policies and new personnel average population at Youth Hall has been cut in half and commitments to the detention home at Kendall have fallen off so markedly that the jobs of five cottage parents may be eliminated soon by the County Welfare Department.

THESE accomplishments have not been made because juvenile delinquency or dependency have fallen off. On the contrary, rates continue to climb in keeping with community growth. Just as many or more cases are handled, but it is the way in which they are handled that makes the difference.

There is a new philosophy and a new point of view in the court and this is true all the way from the two judges, Walter H. Beckham and William R. Culbreath, down to the newest attendant at Youth Hall and the newest employe in the probation division.

TWO MAJOR changes are creation of a central intake department and a probation services division.

Jack V. Blanton, appointed chief probation officer less than a year ago, set up the intake department on his first day in office. Lack of such service was a chief complaint of the Grand Jury. Today it is functioning well.

"We used to slap kids in Youth Hall and investigate later," said Blanton. "Now we check first. No child is detained unless he clearly needs court action. Result is a tremendous decrease in Youth Hall population."

CASES ASSIGNED to an investigator are already screened with full background information. Every possible community and family resource is exhausted before the court takes over, Blanton said.

Intake checks back on every case. If the investigators and probation officers don't make prompt decisions they are prodded. The result: Stays in Youth Hall before final disposition have been drastically reduced.

Another innovation is that every police officer who refers a case and every complainant gets a report on the disposition of the case.

"That's worked wonders," said Blanton. "Police cooperation is now the finest we could ask."

ON THE dependency side, the court, in cooperation with Metro Welfare, has established three temporary shelters for dependent children under 6. They are conveniently located where youngsters may be placed in emergencies instead of being taken to Kendall.

Welfare agencies are notified, and in the new atmosphere of cooperation, move swiftly to find solutions other than detention which the critical study group last year said was often harmful to the child.

This pretty well solves the problem of detention for smaller dependents. Plans are being made for similar care of older dependents. In fact, court and Metro officials are hopeful that with present progress continued, temporary care for dependent children at Kendall may be discontinued.

THE NEW Probation Service Division which was created last July, is just moving into high gear. Its experienced officers, headed by Hillis B. Holman, handle all outside cases and provide followup care for every boy and girl released from an institution.

For the first time the Dade Juvenile Court has a genuine probation system.

"The secret of good juvenile court work is good probation," said Blanton. "Judges may commit serious offenders, but without good probation and follow up, the problem remains the same. We must do what we can to correct conditions and that is where probation comes in."

Holman's staff of six — it will be nine after April 1 — have assigned jobs and territories and work closely with homes, schools, churches and welfare agencies.

Judges are using probation more, instead of committing to institutions, because probation is proving effective. As for after-care, it has reduced repeaters, who formerly made up two-fifths of the delinquency cases, almost to the vanishing point.

MORALE, which was so low a year ago, is at an all-time high. Employes voluntarily attend weekly inservice training classes to increase their skills.

A recent check by Metro, to decide whether to pay personnel on an hourly or weekly basis, showed many of the staff gladly working 60 or more hours weekly. Personnel is gradually being added to ease that load.

Much remains to be done, as the judges and probation officers admit. But much has been done and a box score proves the point.

★ ★ ★

THE WELFARE Planning Council's study last year, which was so critical of the Juvenile Court, made specific recommendations. Here are major points, with action taken since:

AN EFFECTIVE intake department should be developed. (Accomplished.)

A PROBATION policy should be established so officers don't have to depend on day-to-day decisions. (Accomplished).

GOOD case records should be kept. (Accomplished.)

THE NUMBER of probation officers should be increased. (Accomplished.)

QUALIFICATIONS of staff should be upgraded. (Accomplished.)

"We realize we still have a long way to go," said Blanton. "Complaints are running about 700 a month and about 250 of these reach the Court for disposition. We can look for a steady increase in this volume.

"But the big point is that we are now in control of the situation."

Congressmen Help Themselves

In this instance it was to pacify the infantile whims of two very decadent politicians. Joe Martin and Charlie Halleck just would not work unless each had a new Cadillac and chauffeur at his disposal.

In my considered opinion it is very difficult to evaluate the worth of these two men to their constituents in the most trying months ahead. However, I am mindful of the fact that they very generously voted a 7 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, which will allow the pensioner to continue eating "sowbelly" in lieu of steak.

These two men are very prominent in helping to appropriate billions of dollars to fight communism abroad, but our greatest potential for communism is right here at home in groups like the mistreated Social Security folks, and these self-righteous congressmen are responsible for this deplorable condition.

No Gratitude For Cooper

Editor The Herald: Washington is wondering what Sen. John Sherman Cooper thinks of presidential gratitude as he ponders his position in the Senate after his defeat for Republican Leader.

They recall that the senator was a uniquely well-suited ambassador to India, the most vital post in our diplomatic field, when Eisenhower made a personal plea in 1956 for him to come home and run for the Senate.

As a climax to two years of loyal and earnest effort to advance the Eisenhower program, the Modern Republicanism bloc in the Senate put him up for Leader.

Did Eisenhower straightaway show his appreciation by an endorsement? No indeed! Eisenhower allowed his old guard opponent, Sen. Everett Dirksen, to announce the President's plea for no conflict — a virtual endorsement of Dirksen. Result, defeat of Cooper.

Does Sen. Cooper recall that old maxim: Put not your faith in princes?

Luis' Recipe Is The Best

Editor The Herald: I am sure that you did not realize the tremendous import of an AP story in The Herald. It concerned a 100-year-old man named Luis Carrizales who is now thoroughly enjoying life in Des Moines, Iowa. I suppose one can enjoy life in Iowa, but that is neither here nor there.

The important thing about this story is that the centenarian did not give the reporter any longevity recipes like, say: drink a quart of whisky every day, or vote for the return of prohibition; have six wives, or live like a good hermit, eat only bird seed and dried grasshoppers, or eat only pizza. And so on.

SECRET OF LONGEVITY— JUST KEEP ON LIVING—

Luis, I gather, has been a pretty bright boy about living to 100. He hasn't been fanatical one way or the other — and that's good.

Trials In Cuba Sign Of Justice

Editor The Herald: The trials that are going on right now at Cuba are nothing but a sign of justice, the kind of justice that the French Revolution taught the whole world, including the United States. It is a kind of justice that should serve as a lesson to the few remaining dictators in Latin America and, as a matter of fact, to Russia and communism, itself.

Communism cannot grow in a prosperous and growing land where people are free and happy. Freedom, prosperity and happiness is what a good democratic government can bring to a country and we Latin Americans know it.

Sparks Unmasked True Mikoyan

Editor The Herald: Bravo to Fred Sparks on his column unmasking Mikoyan's real intentions on his shameful cross country tour. Every patriotic American should clip this article out, and give it publicity among the more gullible of our people.

Mikoyan was here to pal around with students, business men, entertainers in order to plant seeds more favorable for the reception of communism. No one should whitewash the facts.

Mikoyan is an avowed atheist who represents a government with a list of crimes so long that it puts the Hitler regime in the novice class.

All Isn't Serene In Our City Hall

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

TWO MEMBERS of the city's official family stopped in within a few hours of each other.

One was a city commissioner, the other a department head.

"There is so much to be done, and nothing is getting done," said the department head. "I see several points at which the city's services and the county's services could be meshed for greater effectiveness.

"I don't say that it would save money, but certainly it would give the taxpayers a better break. Might save money, too.

Pennekamp

"However, only a few pet projects, some of them debatable, seem to be pushed.

"For the rest we seem to sit around and wait until something has to be done. Then we make a hasty decision which throws it into controversial areas. The result is more delays, and the things that need to be done, aren't."

SAID the city commissioner:

"I don't think we're functioning as policy makers. The city is being run by directives. The only time we act in our capacity, it seems to me, is when some directive comes to our attention that we don't like.

"Don't get me wrong. I think that some of the directives are all right. But, to have the force of law or ordinance in our kind of government they should first have the approval of the city commission.

"I don't think that the people ever intended that the city manager, the police chief or the judges of the municipal courts should make the laws.

"Those are appointive offices, and beyond the reach of the voters. If there is anything to democratic processes it is that the people should have a voice in the decisions. This they can do through their vote control over their elected officials.

"Of course," he added, "I realize that there are some elected officials who are willing to shift the responsibility to those who are willing to assume it. When they do, they make it a little more difficult for the voters to see where the responsibility lies!"

I ASKED him did he have any examples.

"Sure," he said.

"There was the decision to compel automobile owners to have their automobile hub caps stamped with numbers and registered. I don't say that was a good or bad decision, but I do say that the city commission should have made it, not an appointed individual.

"Again, there was the decision to issue warrants for owners of rejected automobiles who fail to return to the inspection station within 24 hours with the corrections made.

"Why within 24 hours? Maybe the correction couldn't be made in that time. So long as the driver wasn't using his automobile what law was he violating? That decision, too, if it should have been made at all, was one for the commission.

"Some time ago a contract was considered to sell Miami's police records for television programs. The commission wasn't consulted. What would have been the result had that gone through?

"Records we needed would not have been available when we wanted them, and, uncontrolled, the scripts might have made us the most lawless-appearing city in the world.

"I agree with the ruling that there should be no parade of Castro sympathizers in Miami. But I insist the decision should have been the responsibility of the city commission, not the police chief.

"Also, the road block for driver's license inspections I'd like to hear it argued out, then have the commission make its own ruling. As it is we were confronted with it after orders had been given by the police chief and probably under the persuasion of the judges before whom the causes will be tried.

"I'm getting tired of being a city commissioner and yielding my responsibilities, obligations and prerogatives to people I employ on behalf of the taxpayers they're shoving around."

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER SAID

Mikoyan Intelligent, Offered Nothing New

In view of the public interest in issues discussed by President Eisenhower in his press conference Wednesday, The Herald today publishes some of the more important questions and answers.

Federal Posts' Desegregation

Q. (Merriman Smith, United Press International) In Virginia, the state and federal have ruled against laws that would have preserved school segregation.

Now, if these schools remain closed, are you going to do anything to assure a public school education in Virginia and elsewhere for children of federal personnel so situated?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it's a very difficult question, and I have been going into it for a considerable time. I am told that HEW and the Navy are now authorized by law to work out or to conduct educational operations that would be legal on the post.

Mikoyan Talks Accomplished?

Q. (Ray L. Scherer, N.B.C.) Mr. President, about the Mikoyan visit—first, what kind of a man did you find him to be; and second, what do you think that your talks with him might have accomplished?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, it would be pretty hard to give a real worthwhile opinion of an individual based on one fairly long conversation and one brief meeting with him, I think, back in 1945, probably on top of Lenin's Tomb in Moscow.

There is no question he is able, clever and quick, and he is consistently, I might say, emphatic in his argument for and in favor of the Marxist doctrine. . . He is extremely intelligent.

Now, as to what might have been accomplished, as all of you know, there was no attempt at any negotiation. It was a statement of problems on both sides, trying to show some of the reasons why the positions in these issues were taken, as they are taken, by each side, and in an effort, therefore, to get a clearer understanding of the problems now existing. There were no new proposals of which I am aware at all.

Executive's Job To Back the Law

Q (William McGaffin, Miami Herald - Chicago Daily News) Mr. President, you have always appealed for implementation of school desegregation on the grounds that Supreme Court orders must be obeyed. But many persons feel you could exert a strong moral backing for desegregation if you said that you personally favored it. If you favor it, sir, why have you not said so; if you are opposed to it, could you tell us why?

THE PRESIDENT: Because, I'll tell you why. I do not believe it is the function or indeed it is desirable for a President to express his approval or disapproval of any Supreme Court decision. His job is, for which he takes an oath, to execute the laws.

Minimum Wage Vs. Inflation

Q (Lloyd M. Schwartz, Fairchild Publications) Mr. President, your economic report to Congress yesterday omits any proposal to raise the federal minimum wage. I wonder whether this signifies that you feel any increase would not be justified and might be inflationary.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I am not prepared to discuss all the details that are still under argument within my own Administration in some places, in certain instances. I am soon to send down my recommendations with respect to the whole labor field.

But take the other part of your question. Anything, in my mind, now that is inflationary can almost be classed as bad.

Role of Unions And Business?

Q (Edward P. Morgan, ABC) In that same economic message yesterday, Mr. President, you clearly underlined your feeling that unions had, as you put it, a particular critical role to play against inflation. Does this mean that you have become convinced that wages are more dangerous as an inflationary factor than prices, or does it mean that you think that labor leaders have been less responsible than business in dealing with the problem?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, that's a very rather long and involved question, and you make me go into motives of people. I can take the facts. Now, the facts are these: That — and I have said this long ago — any wage increase that is justified by increased productivity from any reasonable standard that wanted to be taken, that is not inflationary, and it ought to be not only approved, but we ought to make certain that it takes place.

We have got a problem here that goes right across the board. You cannot excuse anybody in Government from responsibility, you cannot excuse the business leader, the labor leader, indeed, scarcely can you excuse any citizen. All of us have a problem to meet and to help solve.

More Visitors In the Offing?

Q (Mrs. May Craig, Portland (Maine) Press Herald) Mr. President, sir, now that the Mikoyan visit has gone off without serious unpleasantness, may we expect visits perhaps from such persons as President Tito and President Nasser of Egypt?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, maybe you better ask them, because I haven't had it suggested to me at the moment.

Cape Canaveral Future Sound?

Q (Edward H. Sims, Columbia (S. C.) State) Is Cape Canaveral in Florida going to continue to play an increasingly important part in the missiles program, or is emphasis going to be shifted gradually to the West Coast?

THE PRESIDENT: I know of no plans for diminishing the importance of Canaveral whatsoever.

A Cracker View Point by Nixon Smiley

Man Is So Very Ignorant

MAN'S IGNORANCE about the things around him can be a devastating thing, the Professor declared as he jerked himself out of the relaxed position he had taken in the ancient leather chair of his study.

I had mentioned the fire ant which the government is spending millions of dollars to eradicate from the Southeastern states.

And I had alluded to the many conflicting statements about the effects of strong insecticides on other living things where spraying is being done to kill the fire ant.

This subject was sure to get a rise from the Professor.

The American people, he shouted at me, are without doubt the most ignorant people in the world when it comes to understanding the immediate world about them. This fire ant thing is an example.

The fire ant was introduced to this country by accident several years ago. And during all the many years while it was spreading through the southeastern states no serious biological study was made of the ant.

* * *

ALL OF A SUDDEN, though, the government appropriates money to eradicate the ant.

"Here's the money," the government says. "Get out there and spend it. Do something. Scatter some poison. Get those farmers and cattlemen off our backs. Eradicate this pest."

And, without any further ado, thousands of gallons of very poisonous insecticides are scattered over the land, willy-nilly.

The results have been fantastic. An insecticide strong enough to kill fire ants, which normally live underground, is strong enough to kill most other small living things.

And this is just what has happened. There is a great toll of insects, birds, fish and small animals. And there are reports of cows being killed by the insecticides.

* * *

Now, don't get me wrong. I'm not all all against eradicating the fire ant. But I'm against the method being used.

I'm against the haste. It's a dangerous thing. It's really stupid — as stupid as anything I've seen the government do in many a year, and, brother, it sure has pulled some stupid things.

It's impossible to justify the methods used in fire ant control.

So far as I know the government has not sent any biologist to the country where the fire ant originated to study the insect in its native habitat. And until this is done we can't really say that we know much about it.

If the fire ant were fully researched we might find that it has enemies in its native habitat which keep its numbers in check.

Insects often become pests when they are taken from one part of the world to another, as, for instance, the Japanese beetle.

This insect is not nearly the pest in Japan that it is in America.

In its native habitat it has enemies — predators — which keep its numbers down.

In America it had no enemies and its numbers increased tremendously in a few years. Now we are beginning to introduce the beetle's predators, with the hope that they will multiply and aid in its control.

* * *

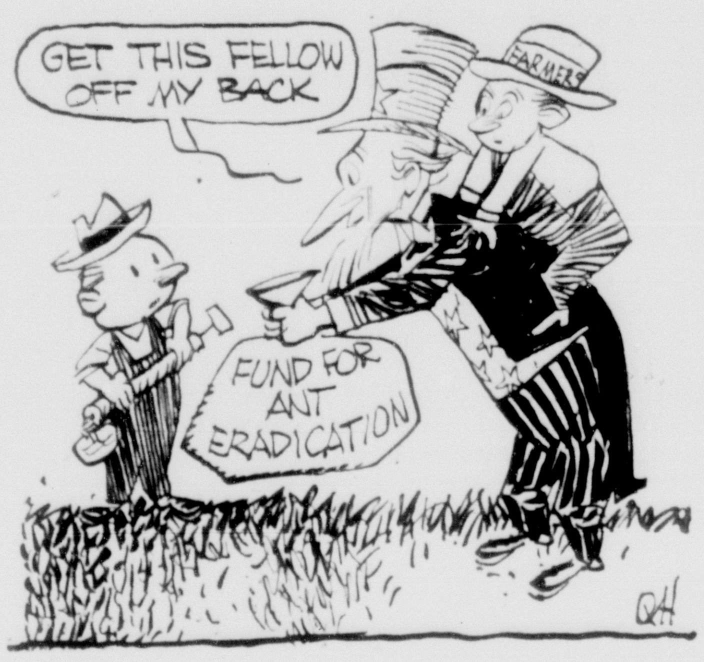
Students take the subject as a requirement for graduation, but they have little interest in it and really get very little out of it. And few students want to major in biology, unless it has to do with the study of medicine.

Biology is a poorly paid profession. It enjoys little prestige.



Haven't you ever noticed the owl look that people give an entomologist when he is introduced at a cocktail party? "So, you're a bug man!" somebody will exclaim. "How do you stand spiders and such things?"

* * *

THERE IS SMALL understanding about the role that the biologist plays. And, frankly, there is frightfully little research being done in biology today which adds basic knowledge about the subject.

Most biologists have to spend their time working out practical problems, such as the amount of an insecticide needed to kill a cabbage worm without making the cabbage unfit for human consumption.

But how many scientists are studying the cabbage worm from the standpoint of its place in nature?

Remember the tremendous flights of cabbage butterflies that took place over South Florida during most of last summer?

What plants were hosts to the cabbage worm from which these millions of adults developed?

What imbalance takes place in nature that permits this thing?

* * *

OH, I COULD ASK questions in biology for the rest of my life that need to be answered, and which can be answered only through research.

Yes, biology is a fascinating subject.

It's true that the biologist doing research among the spiders and the ants and the beetles may not enjoy much money returns, but the rewards from the standpoint of accomplishment are unlimited and satisfying.

Ivan Gets Told Off

HONOLULU —(AP)— What do a Russian submariner and an American flier say to each other in and over the vast Pacific?

Rear Adm. Benjamin E. Moore gave this version to the Rotary Club:

Asked the Russian in broken English over the radio: "How long is your hop and how many planes do you have in the air?"

The pilot of a Navy Super-constellation on radar patrol "told that Russian where he could go," said Moore.

He didn't identify the flier. He said he was flying two years ago between Midway Island and the Aleutians.

And he added, of course Russian submarines have been spotted in the Pacific, where the U. S. maintains a radar patrol.

Quiz Into Faubus Background Urged

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Congressman Francis Walter's Un-American Activities Committee has been bombarded with letters urging an investigation into Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus's pinko background.

PEARSON

The letter writers believe he should be given an opportunity, like other Ameicans misguided in their youth, to repent in public of his past political sins.

Faubus was student body president of Commonwealth College when it was run by the Reds. The governor has already assured Arkansas voters that his name didn't appear on the list of Commonwealth student leaders exposed in 1935 by Arkansas Join Legislative Investigating Committee.

This is true. But the truth also is that the committee concluded its investigation in February, 1935. Faubus was elected to office on the "United Front" ticket two months afterward

Significantly, the May Day, 1935, edition of Commonwealth College Fortnightly reports: "Orval Faubus, young farmer school teacher from Combs, Arkansas . . . (was) elected to two offices. Faubus is both student body president and member of the Disciplinary Committee." In other words, Faubus became student body leader after the Arkansas Legislature had exposed Commonwealth College as a Communist front.

WISE OLD LUIS MUNOZ MARIN, first native Puerto Rican ever elected governor of that island commonwealth, has been in Washington attending the dinner for Argentina President Frondizi and advising with various Senators.

He tells them that the most important thing to remember about the Cuban revolution is that it's a social revolution.

It's not a change of palace guard or politicians. It's from the people. After smoldering for months in eastern Cuba, it burst out and spread like wildfire. To have had this force, it had to come from the people.

Gov. Munoz Marin has seen a lot of Latin American revolutions come and go. He has even given asylum to some exiled presidents, such as President Betancourt of Venezuela. He is an expert on grass-roots movements.

"This revolution in Cuba," he confided to Senators, "looks like a genuine grass-roots reform. It should set up a new regime truly representative of the Cuban people. They are fed up with graft and corruption. The men who lead this movement are young, sincere idealists. It will surprise me if something permanent and very fine does not come out of this revolution."

HANDSOME WASHINGTON antique dealer Byung Choll Koh, a 35-year-old Korean, put on his Homburg the other day and picketed the White House all alone in 20-degree weather.

He had locked up his Connecticut Avenue shop which caters to such VIPs as Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Justice William O. Douglas, and Mrs. Allen Dulles, to protest President Syngman Rhee's latest police-state security laws.

More than 20 of them were railroaded through the Korean Congress the night before Christmas, though only after opposition politicians had staged a six-day sitdown strike in the Parliament Building until forcibly ejected by Rhee's police.

"It's a terrible thing," said Koh, "for the American government to be a party to the maintenance and perpetuation of an aged tyrant in office.

"To call Rheen a democrat and to say that Korea is part of the free world is as false as anything the Communists are saying up north. To say that Rhee is protecting Korea against communism is equally false.

"I don't think the American taxpayers want America to everlastingly bolster a police state. If they do, I'm afraid America will lose the respect not only of Koreans but millions throughout Asia, and you may have another Cuban revolt on your hands—this one in the Far East."

Orchids Flow from Fountains At Cancer Institute Benefit

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

EVEN THE GREEN CLOTH which covered the poinsettia carpet in Peacock Alley at the Surf Club was strewn with delicate vanda orchids . . . In fact, the Surf Club was smothered in these beautiful exotic blooms for the second annual Orchid Ball on Friday which benefits the building fund of the Cancer Institute of Miami.

Orchid 'trees' draped in Spanish moss bloomed in the foyer; fountains in the Fountain Room flowed orchids instead of water and the tables in the dining room were a sight to see with feathering orchid trees on each table and crowns of orchids on the Royal Orchid tables which were $1,000 per table.

On the walls of the dining room were vast lighted replicas of orchids.

Mrs. Lon Dulaney made the feathery orchid trees. Mrs. Paul Ochiltree decorated the pool which was afloat with orchids surrounding bride and groom French poodles.

Greeting guests in the Fountain Room were Helen (Mrs. Lloyd) Dilworth, in elegant green satin, chairman of this ball; her co-chairman, Laura (Mrs. Fred Hooper, in colorful brocade and Ruth (Mrs. Radford) Crane, in pink satin appliqued with darker shades of pink. Each wore an orchid corsage on her wrist.

Dr. J. Ernest Ayre, director of the Cancer Institute in Miami, was also in the receiving line.

ADMIRING the Crown of Orchids that distinguished the $1,000 Royal Orchid Tables are Helen (Mrs. Gilbert) Stevens and her brother, Charles W. Burkett III. Helen and her baby are visiting her parents, the junior Charles W. Burketts, while her husband is on a business trip to Europe.

"Miss Cytology of 1959," pretty blonde 'Jim' Etta Albert, was there. She has just completed a year of special training in cytology at the Cancer Institute in Miami.

A $100 prize was presented to her by the honorary treasurer of the Cancer Cytology Foundation, Patricia Murphy Kiernan of Hobe Sound and New York.

Mrs. Kierman also furnished some of the orchids for the ball.

Robert Pentland Jr., whose date was Sue Fitzgerald, hosted a Royal Orchid Table. Among his guests were Maebelle and John Haynsworth, Margaret and Judge Emmett Choate, Nina and Spratt Mangus who also furnished orchids for the ball.

The William S. Richardsons of Bal Harbour (he is the retired president of Goodrich) also entertained at a Royal Orchid table. Mrs. Richardson wore turquoise peau de soie. They had as their guests Marian and Edgar Lau, Irma and Ed Collins, the Lee Jacksons, who recently arrived from Akron, and the Milton Chapmans. Mr. Jackson is president of Firestone.

An original Fontana gown of orchid chiffon with draped bodice and long scarf was worn by Rial McCaffrey as she and Chuck entertained at one of the Royal Orchids tables.

Other "RO" tables were hosted by Arthur Vining Davis, Mrs. Clifford Heinz, the H. B. Hoopers, the George Kennedys, although Ethel was absent, recovering from her recent stay in Jackson Memorial Hospital.

"Phil" (W. L.) Philbrick, honorary chairman of the ball and his Christine, had as their guests Mae and Maurice Connell, the R. P. Hoovers, the Lloyd Farreys, Bert and Ted Reducka the Barry Ryans, the George Salleys, the Charles Sykes and the Tom Bomars.

Tom Raffington was a temporary bachelor host since Dorothy is still in California because of the illness of her mother.

The Ben Cohens had an "RO" table as did the Robert W. Rusts and Mrs. Raymond E. Crane.

'That's a Right Big Toy You've Bought'

"This is a right big toy, you two have bought to play with . . ." was a remark made to Florence and Kenneth Gifford at a cocktail party they gave on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford

The "toy" referred to is the new Shamrock Isle Hotel in Bal Harbour, formerly the Colonnade, where the party was held. The Giffords call themselves "veterans of the hotel business" with perfectly straight faces.

Actually, they've owned the hotel exactly six weeks and have never had any previous experience in hotel business. They only know what they like in a hotel when they travel!

Mrs. Gifford is the former Florence Schick, whose late husband Col. Jacob Schick founded the electric razor company of that name. At his death in 1937 Mr. Gifford became president and chairman of the board of the company. He and attractive Florence were married in 1943.

Mr. Gifford retired on Nov. 22, and they recently sold all interests in the company. Now they plan to have fun with their hotel, which, said Florence they have "had our eyes on for three years."

The Giffords have general manager John Duff to watch out for the pitfalls of hoteling, and they feel that with their inexperience they can bring a fresh outlook and ideas to the business.

Seated at one of the tables in the newly decorated lounge were Mary Steele and George Ross, his mother Nellie Tayloe Ross, Cici and Frank Mayer.

The senior Mrs. Ross, retired director of the U.S. Mint and a former governor of Wyoming, came down for a brief visit from her home in Washington. She had an amusing anecdote to tell of another long ago visit to Florida.

It seems that when she was Governor of Wyoming, she came to visit the late Gov. John Martin. A stag dinner was planned and all set in honor of the Governor of Wyoming.

Imagine the consternation of the planners when good looking and so-feminine Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross stepped off the train! They went scurrying about and rounded up wives to attend the dinner, too.

After the cocktail party we dined at La Bastille where we saw Jay Thomas and Margaret (Mrs. Robert) Butler doing fancy turns on the dance floor. With Mrs. Butler was her houseguest, Mrs. Edgar E. Glenn of San Antonio, Tex.

She is a long time friend of Margaret. They knew one another when the late Gen. Glenn, USAF, was attached to the Embassy in Cuba and Margaret's late husband, Robert Butler, was Ambassador there.

Alla Has Some Ideas For Russian Husbands

PHILADELPHIA — (P) — When Alla Masevich, famous Soviet astrophysicist, goes home she will have news for Russian husbands that may send them into orbit American style.

Mme. Masevich, whose pretty head is crammed with knowledge of things celestial, came to the U.S. on a cultural exchange mission. She likes especially American food, freezers, and men.

So much in American life has impressed her, she said, but nothing more than the way a married man pitches in at home and helps his wife.

"But do not Russian husbands dry the dishes, sweep the floor and dust the furniture?" she was asked in an interview.

"Oh, no," she replied, breaking into a broad and winning smile, "no indeed. I have been entertained in your homes and I have seen these husbands helping their wives. They are so efficient. Not so that way in my country."

But she definitely gave the impression that it might well be that way in her country once she spreads the word around.

Van Heflin—Intelligent, Many Sided and Charming

By BEVERLY PAULSON
Herald Staff Writer

Van Heflin paced the floor of his hotel suite.

His keen eyes were narrowed and his forehead creased. His voice was intense with feeling for the Cossack Pugachev who stood up against the total armies of Catherine The Great.

Celebrity Parade

"He was capable of fantastic brutalities," his scratchy voice said. "But he helped the peasantry."

He was far from Miami and the 20th Century as he wove the story of the 18th Century Russian revolution. I was with him on the bloody battlegrounds on which Pugachev fell in defeat.

Then the phone jangled. The spell was broken when he came back.

It was Van Heflin, the actor, who had been describing the scene.

Now he switched to the professor — the scholar — to tell about the research he had put into the role of Pugachev in The Tempest, his new film.

Heflin is in Miami for an advance sneak preview of the historical spectacular by Dina DeLaurentiss, the producer of War and Peace.

And he is convinced that it is a film great. "It's infinitely better than War and Peace."

"Oh, you have to. At least I do," he said of the months of research into Russian history that prepared him for the role of Pugachev.

"It made it more interesting to me. It would be pretty dull if I read the script every night and then let the producer interpret the part."

Actor Van Heflin
. . . 'I turn down scripts 20 to one'

Intense, intelligent and utterly charming, Heflin showed himself in a short hour to be a many-sided man.

He looked the successful business man in his black silk suit with crisp white shirt and black tie, socks and shoes.

He was the ex-seaman. His rugged face was serious and his voice almost reverent as he repeatedly walked to the balcony of his 10th floor Dupont Plaza suite and looked out at Biscayne Bay.

He was the academician who fluently drew from his knowledge and delivered short lectures on history and the stage.

And he IS all these things. "But I am essentially an actor," he said. "I love acting. If I didn't I would have returned to the sea."

* * *

ACTING was Heflin's first love. But for awhile, the sea took its place.

He had haunted the sets of University of Oklahoma productions in his early student days and then pitched aside college and took a berth as a seaman on a freighter.

"If I had stayed on the sea, I would have become a bum," he said.

"So I went back to UO and then took a scholarship at Yale. I figured that if I couldn't make a go of it as an actor, I'd have a master's degree and could teach."

"A misunderstanding" on how the theater should be taught ended Heflin's stay at Yale after a year. Then came a part in Philadelphia Story with Katherine Hepburn (that was in 1939) that gave him a start.

Hollywood came next.

Heflin's fame as an actor is based far more on the quality of his role than the number of pictures in which he has appeared.

That's basic, he said.

"I turn down scripts about 20 to 1. It was a constant hassle and harangue for nine years of staying out of the bad films and getting into good ones.

"If you don't have quality, you lose your reputation. If you do four or five bum pictures, the public begins to stay away."

Heflin's reputation as a heavy is the way he would have it. A good role is far better than light weights, he feels.

"Sometimes," as in The Tempest and Tennessee Johnson, "the character fascinated me in the script." Other times, as in Shane, "the character created by the imagination of the writer was enormously exciting."

"I am not always right," he admitted. "But I accept only roles I think will be good."

Heflin's lovely red-headed wife, Frances, agreed that the 48-year-old actor is business-like. "He isn't temperamental as a actor," she said. "It's a business for him."

It was she who told how proud her husband is of their three children, though he beamed when he talked of his four-year-old son ("a little monster") and daughters, who are 12 and 15.

That was another facet of this complicated man. He's an actor, a seaman, professor and businessman. He's also a fond family man.

Child, 7, Shackled Two Years

Mother Admits Chaining Girl

TOLEDO, Ohio —(AP)— Police said Friday the mother of seven-year-old Judith Ball admitted chaining her to a bedpost over the last two years, releasing her only to go to the bathroom and to school.

As soon as the girl got home from school, said Detective Sgt. James McCormick, on went a seven-pound, four-foot-long chain.

McCormick said Judith told him she slept on the floor in her underclothing. She said that was more comfortable than the bed, which had only a thin blanket over coil springs.

As she talked to detectives, Judith showed them her swollen and bruised ankles, to which she said the chain was attached daily.

McCormick quoted the mother, 39-year-old Ruth Ball, as saying she chained the girl because of her habits of getting up at night, raiding the refrigerator for food and otherwise causing trouble.

Once, the mother, said, the girl started a fire in a chair by playing with matches.

The father, Paul Ball, 40, is an unemployed laborer. The Balls have two other girls, eight and nine, and six boys, 14 to 22, all living at home.

No charges were filed immediately. Detective Capt. Norton Cassady said police will sign a warrant against the Balls unless the Child Welfare Board chooses to prosecute them.

Police learned of the circumstances from a phone call from a former neighbor of the Balls who was moving from the city.

The informant, a woman, said a relative of hers once was in the Ball home when a tray of food was taken into a bedroom and later brought out empty.

Mrs. Ball surrendered the heavy chain with padlocks at either end after Sgt. McCormick visited her home.

The three girls were placed in the Miami Children's Home here, pending a Child Welfare Board investigation. The six boys were permitted to remain in their home.

Smaller Units To Be Formed

Florida's 51st Division of the National Guard—second largest in the country — will be molded into "smaller, harder-hitting outfits" this summer, according to Brig. Gen. Henry W. McMillan.

McMillan, commander of the 51st, told 90 South Florida Guard officers the reorganization will be effected during the division's summer field training at Fort McClellan, Ala., June 7-21.

"From the inception of this nation, the National Guard has been an integral part of the front-line, national defense force," McMillan said, "and a reorganization along modern lines will enable us to better perform our mission."

Culbreath Plans to Appeal

Hillsborough Ex-Sheriff Convicted in Tax Case

TAMPA — (AP) — A Federal Court jury Friday convicted former Hillsborough County Sheriff Hugh Culbreath of evading payment of $25,898 in income taxes for the years 1946, 1947 and 1948.

It acquitted him of similar charges for the years 1949 and 1950. The government had charged he owed $804 for those years.

The verdict was handed down just after noon after the jury had deliberated 11½ hours. It came on the 79th day of a trial which broke Federal Court records here for duration and amount of testimony recorded.

Federal Judge William J. Barker deferred sentencing until after a probation officer's investigation, a customary procedure. Culbreath could get up to five years in prison and be fined up to $10,000 on each of the three counts.

The judge gave defense attorneys 10 days in which to file an appeal. They said they would do so. Culbreath was freed under $5,000 bond pending the appeal.

The 61-year-old Culbreath, sheriff from 1940 to 1952, flushed slightly and moved his hands nervously while the jury of 10 men and two women was polled on the verdict. He had nothing to say.

Hugh Culbreath
. . . guilty on 3 counts

The government charged Culbreath with five separate counts of wilfully filing fraudulent income tax returns for the five years. It claimed he evaded payment of $18,463 in 1946; $4,742 in 1947; $2,693 in 1948; $26 in 1949, and $777 in 1950.

In addition, the government last May filed a civil suit against Culbreath and his wife, Daphne, seeking to collect $271,943 which it claims they owe for back income tax for the years 1941 through 1947.

A pivotal point in the trial came when Judge Barker instructed the jury that political contributions diverted to personal use are taxable as income.

Defense attorneys claimed throughout the trial that much of the former sheriff's money came from excess political contributions which he put to his own use. They argued this money was not taxable.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Culbreath spent more money in each of the five years than he made as sheriff.

Leper! the World Said, and He Was Shunned

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

The leathery, lined face behind the steel wire screen was twisted with bitterness. The words exploded in a burst of hate.

"Damn society! Society shuns me."

"A leper doesn't stand a chance—even if his case is inactive. People won't give me a chance. That's why I'm here."

"Here" was the county jail.

But there is a question if 32-year-old William G. Demeritt, of Key West, ever gave society a full chance.

He's awaiting sentence for his part in a $400 safe robbery.

There is a restlessness about him—a restlessness in his eyes, hands, body movements, in the pattern of his life.

"My wife had a baby girl just a week ago. I've never seen the baby. Now we'll have to give the baby away because people even shun my wife . . ."

His hair is long and scraggly. A cigaret is never out of his hands. In a harsh, acid voice he recited the story of the desperate life of seeking to escape society's instinctive fear of the leper.

Yet, even before he was afflicted with the disease his was a record of rebellion:

He was given a dishonorable discharge from the Navy. He ran away from the Navy hospital in Key West where:

"They said I had the yaws. But I knew it was leprosy. My mother and others in the family had it.

"I didn't tell anyone because I didn't want it to get out in Key West and hurt my family. My dad's a fisherman. I didn't want people to keep away from me."

Then he was convicted on a breaking and entering charge and was sent to Raiford. According to his story, his mother told prison authorities about his leprosy. And he was sent to the National Leprosarium at Carville, La.

He wouldn't stay there. Kept running away and kept getting returned over a 14-year period.

Once a Living Death

Leprosy is a rare disease and although not highly contagious, has been feared since ancient days. It was once a form of living death. Lepers were belled, exiled, and otherwise kept from contact with society under pain of death.

It is a disease which causes lesions, nodules, falling out of hair and nails, thickening of the skin and destruction of bones and joints.

* *

Why? Why run away, carrying in his body a disease that he could give to innocent people?

A shrug of the shoulders.

"I just couldn't stay in that place even though they were swell to me."

People weren't "swell" outside. To get a job you had to have references. He couldn't give them.

Anyhow, a guy could always try a safe job—or a stick-up. After all, society wouldn't give him a chance to do otherwise.

But he kept getting caught.

"This time when they discharged me I really tried. Kept away from Key West so I wouldn't hurt my folks. Went there but had to leave. Same old thing. Got married there in June shortly after I was discharged."

He insisted he tried to get a job in Miami. "I'd do anything. But always got stopped when they asked for references.

"Couldn't get any kind of a job and needed dough for my wife. Damn society!"

He gave me a hard stare through the screen.

"You have to have this to really know how alone a guy can be. I'd like to be like anyone else—go home. But people won't have anything to do with me. That's why I kept running away. Thought I could start where I wasn't known."

There was a moment of silence. Then the words came . . . and hung like doom in the air.

"But somehow they always found out. Leper!"

Two Federal Courts Slap Down Virginia Segregation Efforts

Arlington, Norfolk Get Orders

RICHMOND, Va. — (UPI) — Two high federal courts late Friday struck down legal maneuvers of Arlington County and Norfolk to postpone public school integration.

The U.S Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld an order directing Arlington County, the big suburban area just outside Washington, to admit four Negro students to a white junior high school Feb. 2.

A few minutes later, a special three-judge federal Constitutional panel sitting in the same courtroom killed the Norfolk City Council's plan to close its entire secondary school system to avoid integration.

The double-barreled decisions apparently doomed the last hopes of the two Virginia localities to circumvent integration. School boards in both places have pledged to open the schools, integrated if necessary, if given an opportunity.

The four Arlington Negro students, along with 26 others were turned down last summer by the county school board on the basis of a locally-administered assignment plan. Federal District Judge Albert Bryan of Alexandria, Va. ordered four of the students admitted, however.

"We are in accord with this finding, for it is clear that the transfers were denied on the basis of race," the circuit court said.

Norfolk's locally-adopted plan of "massive resistance" was killed in the same order which destroyed Virginia's school-closing law.

The three-judge constitutional court, the same one that knocked the heart out of the state "massive resistance" laws, prohibited Norfolk authorities from carrying out their plan to shut down Norfolk's entire secondary school system. The move would have left more than 17,000 children without public schooling.

The court enjoined Norfolk from "engaging in any evasive schemes or devices looking to the cut-off of funds for schools or grades affected by the mixing of races or the closing or elimination of specific grades in such schools."

The order also permanently enjoined Gov. Lindsay Almond and other state and local officials from ever again closing a school to avoid integration.

Airport Terminal Acceptance Near

Certification of Miami's new airport terminal — which flunked its first test — is expected early next week, Architect Harold D. Steward said Friday.

Occupation of the airport by the major airlines is set for two weeks after certification.

Steward-Skinner Associates, terminal architects, refused to certify the building Thursday because sections of it were unfinished.

Steward said Friday:

"I think everything will be cleared up by Wednesday. If they can straighten it up earlier in the week, we will OK it."

He said the terminal was not approved in its first inspection because the International Pier loading dock was not completed and lighting on the first floor platform was inadequate.

Young Bank Executive Sentenced

A First National Bank junior executive with a previously spotless record was sentenced to a year in prison Friday on charges involving misappropriation of funds.

Charles Milton Ramsey, 26, 3681 NW 18th Ter., was found guilty by Federal Judge Emett Choate on indictments charging theft of $150 and $300.

Sentencing Ramsey to a year on the first count, Judge Choate directed that when the term is finished a probationary sentence on the second count will begin.

When Ramsey was arrested Dec. 11, bank officials said between $1,000 and $2,000 was missing from his accounts.

Employed by the bank since 1951, Ramsey was a night supervisor with 40 employes under his jurisdiction.

Telegraph Swindler Gets Jail

A Hong Kong to Miami confidence game which swindled a couple here out of $3,000 brought 60-year-old Elisha W. Barhitte a five-year prison term Friday.

The FBI said a lengthy record of arrests on check passing and swindling charges was in Barhitte's background when he came to Miami and told a Miami couple a 1½ million dollar debt the British government owned him for an airport.

Later, when Barhitte had left the country for Hong Kong, using a phony passport, he wired for and got $3,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Banet, 7725 SW 28th St., promising them a $382,000 share of what he collected.

The maximum sentence was given Barhitte on the charge of interstate wire fraud. Another five-year sentence, to run on concurrently, was for passport fraud.

Baby-Sitter Sat Far Beyond Call of Duty

It's Her Story -- She's Stuck With It

By DOROTHY LEWIS
Written for The Associated Press

(This is a true story. Only the names have been omitted to protect the injured.)

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (AP) — This is the story of a baby-sitter who really stuck to her job — and sat, and sat, and sat — far beyond the actual call of duty.

She was hired by a young couple in the Minneapolis suburb of Edina to watch their children while the couple attended a party.

In giving instructions to the 16-year-old sitter the lady of the house forgot one thing — that she had sprayed some of the bathroom equipment with a white plastic paint, the kind that "won't rub off, peel, chip or blister. It stays on."

Early in the evening the baby-sitter visited the bathroom. And when the young couple returned at 3 a.m. they found the perplexed, red-eyed sitter still sitting there.

First the mother tried turpentine in an effort to unseat the unhappy girl, but she became convinced the paint was 100 per cent as advertised.

Then she had her husband call the family doctor, who came to the house at 4 a.m. He applied alcohol with no results.

"But," he assured the sitter cheerfully, "we'll find a way."

As the doctor was trying to figure one out he tripped over the sitter's foot, fell headlong against the bathtub and knocked himself cold.

The young husband hastily called the emergency station at the hospital and within minutes an ambulance was on the way. The driver and attendant scooped up the doctor, who suffered a concussion.

Then, with a hearty "allyoop" the ambulance crew tore the sitter from her sitting place and trundled her and the doctor to the hospital.

Both have recovered.

Attorneys later drew up two lawsuits against the young couple — one for the sitter and one for the doctor. But the suits will never be filed, an insurance company executive said Friday. They'll be settled out of court.

"We'd love the advertising we would get," the insurance man said. "But our concern for the parties involved is stronger.

"It's just too embarrassing all around."

My Answer

God Will Help Win A Friend

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I have a friend who has avoided me since I made my decision for Christ. I never preach to her, but just try to show the genuinely Christian attitude. If I'm doing something wrong, I want to know, because I value her friendship. Shall I confront her with a direct question concerning our relationship?

GRAHAM

ANSWER: If you haven't preached at your friend, perhaps she is afraid you will. The evident change in your life makes her uneasy. It would seem to me that a very frank discussion with her would clear the air. Certainly don't limit your witness, but you can never win a person you don't contact.

Many people are starved for friendship. They need and want the warm fellowship of a friend. Jesus referred to the disciples as friends because He had taken them into His confidence. This is one of life's choicest relationships. Your relationship to Christ should make you a better friend than you have ever been. It may take time and much patience to fully convince your friend, but it is worth the effort. With the help of God, you can win her and discover a deeper and richer friendship than either of you can know outside of your faith. One of the choice stories in the Bible is that of the friendship of David and Jonathan. (I Samuel 18:1) Cultivate this friendship and then raise it above the human to the level of the spiritual.

Remarks on Religion

Ever Visit YOUR Pastor?

By ADON TAFT
Herald Religion Editor

When was the last time you visited your pastor—not the last time he came to see you—just to tell him how much you appreciate him and to encourage him in his difficult work?

For most of us, it has been a lot longer than we care to be reminded of. And it may soon be so long we will never have the chance to give a well-earned pat on the back or offer a little load-lightening assistance.

You'll always regret the missed opportunity as I do now the fact that I recently put off going to see the Rev. Robert Stunkel. He was not my pastor, but I had come to know him as he came to see me about activities at the First Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Only a couple of weeks ago I learned that he had been suffering a year from Leukemia. Few knew it because he kept on manfully in the work which was his life.

I promised his wife that I would come by to see Rev. Mr. Stunkel. I put it off a few days and finally put the visit on my calendar for last Monday afternoon.

Monday morning I received a phone call. The Rev. Mr. Stunkel was dead. I no longer have the chance to encourage him or ease his burden.

* * *

Time for Others

Burning home the point was the fact that only the night before a group of teenagers at Miami Springs Presbyterian Church had asked me what young people can do for Christ and I had suggested visiting the sick as one of the things.

A fine Christian minister has passed on without the encouragement some of us could have given that would have eased the load a little. It's too late to do anything about it in the case of the Rev. Mr. Stunkel.

But there's still time in the case of your own pastor. I know that the Rev. James D. Carter, of the Miami Springs Presbyterian Church, and Dr. James Parish, of Riverside Baptist Church, are seriously ill. There may be other ministers here who are too.

How about it? Can't you find a moment to visit YOUR pastor and give him a little encouragement?

* * *

You and Missions

Missionaries on the field need encouragement, too, and the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies coming here Jan. 31-Feb. 4 always stirs up an interest in Miami and across the state.

This will be the 29th year for the visits by the "Ambassadors for Christ" who tell of the work throughout the world so that we at home respond to the need for prayer, money and dedicated lives.

The speakers always are top-notch for this program organized and carried out by church women who know the importance of encouraging our full-time Christian workers.

And this year there will be an effort to concern the young people with this need for interest and service. A group of teenagers and their advisors will meet this week to plan a youth rally for Feb. 1 in connection with the "Chain."

It'll be a good way for the boys and girls to begin developing the virtue of giving encouragement.

U.S. Watching Us

Miami's growing Christmas Birthday Cake tradition is giving encouragement to more and more folks across the nation who want to see a more spiritual atmosphere for the holiday.

Mrs. Carolyn Prowse, originator of the tradition, this week received the first request of the year for information to help in starting the ceremonies for next Christmas.

The request came from Warren, Mich. So far, people in 16 states have requested data on the local observance which has reached all the way to the White House and has received national publicity.

Top Methodists To Teach at School

Experts in all levels of Christian education will be on the faculty for the annual Christian Workers School to be held for five days beginning Sunday at the Coral Gables First Methodist Church.

Some 1,500 persons are expected to attend the school, sponsored by the Methodist churches of Greater Miami.

Heading list of outstanding faculty members will be Dr. Elmer A. Thompson, from the general board of education at denominational headquarters in Nashville. He is a former Bible professor at Ferrum Junior College and now specializes in leadership training.

Dr. Thompson will lead the class on the teachings of the prophets.

Another top faculty member will be Miss Doris P. Dennison, also from the general board of education in Nashville. She is the author of manuals in social and adult work and now specializes in training adult leaders.

Miss Dennison will teach the class on helping adults learn, discussing procedures through which teachers, group leaders, and adult class members may help adults grow in Christian living.

Other out-of-state experts on the faculty will include Miss Edith Willis Reed, former children's activities leader at Lake Junaluska who now serves in Richmond, Va.; the Rev. William R. Brantley, minister of education at the Myers Park Methodist Church in Charlotte, N.C.; Mrs. Paul Arrington, vice president of the World Federation of Methodist Women from Jackson, Miss.; and Mrs. Boyd Tyrrell, a former "Mother of the Year" in Roanoke, Va., who now is vice president of the Virginia Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service.

In order, they will teach classes on methods and materials for teachers in the children's division, the work of the local commissions on Christian education, the work of the WSCS, and the Middle East mission situation.

Other out of town faculty members will include the Rev. L. B. Blackwell, a family life expert from Titusville; Dr. Ralph W. Odom, a professor at Florida Southern College in Lakeland; the Rev. Robert M. Blackburn, an expert on church history from Deland; and Dr. Arthur E. Charlesworth, a former Miami pastor.

They will lead classes in making Christian homes, the teachings of Jesus, Methodist history, and Christian doctrines.

Local leaders who will be teaching classes will be Mrs. Lewis N. Head, an expert in nursery work; Miss Nan Majoros, children's education specialist; Miss Eulalie Ginn, youth counselor; and Mrs. Elizabeth Weatherup, a student of prayer.

Registration will be at 2 p.m. Sunday, with the first class beginning at 3 p.m. Classes will continue through the afternoon and evening and from 7:30 to 9:20 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The class on the WSCS will be held at 10 a.m. daily at the Allapattah Methodist Church.

Melancholy Strains Became Joyful
. . . for Louis Hamada, Lebanese baritone

With New Land, New Faith, He'll Sing New Song Sunday

Because he found a new faith in a new land, Louis Hamada is nervous about doing something he has done before hundreds of people in nightclubs and concert halls on two continents.

The 26-year-old Lebanese student at the University of Miami is going to sing Sunday.

But for Louis, it will be the first time he ever sang a Christian song in public. He will be the soloist for the 11 a.m. service at the Grove Community Church, 2100 S. Dixie Hwy.

While he's a little nervous, the music education senior is happy to be switching from the somewhat melancholy tunes of his native land to sing "I'll Walk with God."

"I always wanted to walk with Him," Louis explains with a shy grin. "And this gives me an opportunity to give a testimony in song."

The switch from the melancholy music of the Middle East to the cheerful gospel music gives a pretty good picture of his life, the way Louis puts it.

"I grew up in a French-Catholic orphanage in Beirut and later studied Mohammedism," explained the son of a former Lebanese government prosecutor, "but I was never very religious."

Then five years ago, encouraged by letters from his sister who now is a professor in the human relations department at the University of Miami, he came to this country.

"I was singing in clubs and places in New York City," Louis said, "and I was miserable."

But a Jewish lawyer he met at a party sent him to a minister, the Rev. Leon Maltby, who operated a sort of a youth camp on a farm in New Jersey.

"There I accepted Christ as my Savior and for the first time I knew an inner peace," exclaimed Louis.

He then proposed to elevate his musical sights from the radio, recording and club appearances of his past to teaching and composing. So he came to the University of Miami, where he now is president of the fencing association.

However, when he came to the university he found more than a good education for the career he hopes to follow here when he soon becomes a citizen. He found the "father" he had missed as a youth.

"A classmate took me over to the Youth Ranch (directed by the Rev. Ray Stanford, pastor of the Grove Community Church) and I met Ray" Louis explained. "He has been like a father to me and has a wonderful way of teaching the Bible."

3 Churches Air Building Plans

Three Miami area churches this week announced plans for new buildings.

Biggest of these will be at St. Lawrence Catholic Parish in North Miami Beach where a $150,000 fund raising campaign has started for church and school buildings.

The Rev. Bernard L. Hickey, administrator for the parish, said parishioners will be asked to make pledges to support the program over the next 30 months.

Actual solicitations will be made in a whirlwind, two-hour campaign on the pledge days of Feb. 1 and Feb. 7. Some 230 men are being enlisted for that phase of the drive.

Preparations are being made by a survey committee headed by Frank Sepede and James Noel. Working with them will be Louis Diek, James O'Hara, Edward Devine and Charles Ulm.

Dr. Thomas Carney is general chairman for the campaign, which is directed by Foley Associates, Inc., a national fund raising organization. Assisting him are Bernard Connelly, John Morel and Alfred O'Toole.

* * *

The board of the Central Church of the Nazarene has adopted a plan for a $50,000 building fund drive to be carried out in 100 weeks.

R. R. Russell has been named chairman of the pledge committee which will contact members and friends of the church.

Mrs. Marian Johnson will head a committee to stage an information dinner for a complete public explanation of details of the building plans. The dinner will be held during the week of Feb. 16.

* * *

Marion C. McCune, chairman of the building committee at Plymouth Congregational Church, will present proposed plans for the new fellowship hall and Sunday school building there at the congregation's annual meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Healing Topic

Bernard Sherwin will discuss "What Is True Healing?" for the 8 p.m. Sunday session of the Miami Theosophical Society.

St. Mary's Plans Fete For Bishop

The parishioners of St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral will hold a reception for Bishop Coleman F. Carroll from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The program will begin with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the Cathedral.

The entire congregation will form a living Rosary procession through the Cathedral grounds to assemble on the plaza. The presidents of the various parish organizations will form a guard of honor for Bishop Carroll at the main door of the Cathedral.

Following a formal address of welcome by Msgr. Patrick J. O'Donoghue, two children from St. Mary's School will present a spiritual bouquet to Bishop Carroll. Then the parishioners will have an opportunity to personally meet the bishop.

Service Honoring Branscomb

A memorial service for Bishop John Branscomb will be held at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at Trinity Methodist Church. Dr. P. M. Boyd, district superintendent, and Dr. Joe Tolle, pastor, both close friends of the bishop, will review his work and the choir will sing his favorite hymn, "How Great Thou Art."

Artist On Bill

Bill Leach, a former Hollywood studio artist, and his "walking, talking" sketches will be featured at the Boca Raton Bible Conference Grounds at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

He will sketch gospel scenes to music by the conference choir and then bring the scenes to life with black light and recorded sounds.

Ukrainians To Celebrate

The first anniversary of St. Nicholas Ukrainian Orthodox Church, 1491 NW 26th St., will be marked with a special service at 10 a.m. Sunday, followed by an anniversary dinner.

Barth Returning For Anniversary

Dr. Joseph Barth, pastor of the church for 15 years, will come here from Boston to be the speaker for the 20th anniversary dinner at First Unitarian Church at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

If YOUR Problem's Here, Take Hope

Do you have problems?

And do you wonder if other people have problems?

Does it seem to you that you face more problems today than ever before?

Do you wonder where to find the answer to your problem?

If you are like the members of Riviera Presbyterian Church in South Miami, the answer to all those questions is an emphatic "yes!"

Bothered by the fact that the number of people coming to him for counsel on serious personal problems seemed to be greater in the past few months than in all his ministry, the Rev. John Henderson put the questions to his congregation of 725 members last Sunday.

He asked them to turn in questions on the personal problems that bother them most so that he might help them in a series of sermons beginning Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

Nearly 500 questions have come in and they show deep concern even by teenagers and children over the problems of life, according to the Rev. Mr. Henderson.

By far the most frequent problem — for those of all ages — is temptation, the survey disclosed. Time and again the church members asked for help in living a victorious Christian life every day of the week.

Money — with many ramifications — appeared to be the second biggest thorn in the side of the folks at Riviera, situated in a rather well to do area.

A nine-year-old boy worries because the 17-year-old brother he idolizes does not like him all the time.

A young couple is upset because the people in their neighborhood do not get along, even to the point of not speaking to one another.

Rev. Henderson
... has answer

An executive finds it hard to be honest in a competitive business.

Many older folks worry about juvenile delinquency.

A prominent woman is bothered about learning to understand and accept Negroes.

A young girl finds it hard to accept God in the presence of others.

Another wants to know how to "bring my boyfriend to Christ."

Many men list their biggest need as to learn the way to put God first in all their lives and trust Him for all their needs.

The wife of a drinker seeks to escape the temptation to join him.

Such world problems as communism and world peace were mentioned by a few, but most of the things that bothered the folks were more personal.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson doesn't claim to know the answer to every one of the problems. But he will offer a formula for meeting each one which he has seen pay off almost miraculously in his years of counseling.

"The first thing I ask a person is, 'Have you prayed about it?'" said the tall, balding minister.

"If you can get a person or family to completely give themselves to God and trust Him, there's a way out," he said.

He cited instances in cases — ranging from cheating husbands, persons in ill health, unmarried mothers, and families up against it economically, to teenagers with misunderstanding parents — he has handled recently in which prayer was answered in unusual ways and the problems were overcome.

"The times and the problems change, and we don't know the answers," he concluded. "But God does."

Russian Trip Is Topic

A Congregational leader from New York, a couple just back from Russia, a Galilean author, and a missionary to India head the list of guest speakers who will fill Greater Miami pulpits this weekend.

The Rev. Ralph R. Shrader, project secretary of the missions council of Congregational churches, will preach for the 11 a.m. Sunday service at the North Miami Congregational Church. A luncheon for the visitor from New York will follow the service.

* * *

Joe Morris, head of the Trans-Air Supply Co. and a member of the congregation, will report on church conditions "Inside and Outside the Iron Curtain" at the 7:45 p.m. Sunday service at Shenandoah Baptist Church. He and his wife and daughter have just returned from Russia, where they had a personal conference with the American ambassador in Moscow, and other European countries.

* * *

Stephen A. Haboush, a native Galilean who writes and lectures in the fields of archaeology and Biblical studies, will speak on the 23rd Psalm after the 9:30 a.m. Sunday service at All Angels Episcopal Church in Miami Springs. He will wear the costume he wore as a shepherd near Nazareth as a youth.

* * *

Miss Ida M. Johnston, a missionary nurse in Fatehgarh, North India, will be the speaker for the 6:30 p.m. Tuesday supper meeting at First Presbyterian Church. Native dress of different mission fields will be modeled by church members as a backdrop for the visit by the newly adopted missionary of the church.

* * *

The Rev. Robert M. Blackburn, son of the Rev. C. Fred Blackburn who organized the church in 1898, will be the speaker at Trinity Methodist Church at 7:45 p.m. Sunday. The DeLand minister is treasurer of the conference board of missions and is here for the Christian Workers School.

* * *

Another faculty member of the school who will fill a pulpit here is Dr. Ralph W. Odum, who will preach at Wesley Methodist Church at 11 a.m. He is a professor at Florida Southern College.

Castro, Batista Kids Pals In Cuban Church School

Castro Jr.
... pupil

Rev. Huston
... teacher

Castro and Batista groups can get along without bloodshed in Cuba and even be good friends, according to a Miami pastor with some experiences on the neighboring island to back him up.

The key to the situation is Christian education, in the view of the Rev. Ralph B. Huston, of the South Miami First Methodist Church.

For a brief time he taught Fidel Castro's son, Batista's niece and the children of several of Batista's ministers in the same class at the Candler College in Havana.

Candler College is a Methodist boarding school with classes from the first grade through high school. The Rev. Mr. Huston was there last in February, 1958, on a 10-day evangelism campaign at the school.

While the situation in the city was tense, Fidel Jr. and some of the children of the members of the Batista government were best of friends at the school, the Rev. Mr. Huston reported.

One of the boys from the Batista circles asked the Rev. Mr. Huston if he thought that "one day will we read about Fidel's daddy in history?"

Young Fidel showed interest in the messages as he explained Christian doctrines, the Rev. Mr. Huston said, and came up after class to talk with him.

The nine-year-old boy said he wanted to be a lawyer and to represent his country in Washington.

The Miami minister noted that neither side in the revolution made any attempts to molest the children who might have been held as hostages.

He reported that the church and church schools managed to remain on good terms with both forces and often were used as sites for truce arrangements.

Youths To Lead Services

A Kings College (N.Y.) gospel team will conduct 7:30 p.m. Sunday youth rally at Sylvania Heights Baptist Church as many churches of the area observe youth Sunday.

Gladys Kulp and Darlene Stennland will sing, John Kulp will play the trumpet, Clarence Berk will play the piano, and John Pirrell will speak for the youth team who will present a challenge to enter foreign mission service.

* * *

At North Dade First Christian Church, Billy McCarthy of the Christian Youth Fellowship, will be the youth speaker for the 8:30 a.m. Sunday service.

Then at the 6:30 p.m. service the young people will be in charge and have slated a talk by the Rev. Neil Wyrick, of the Palmetto Presbyterian Church.

* * *

Charles Kirkland will be the youth speaker for the 11 a.m. Sunday service at Trinity Presbyterian Church where the young people will handle the entire program.

* * *

Gurney Bracey, Deanne Hastings and Susan Dorn — the presidents of the church's three youth groups — will be on the program at the 7:30 p.m. Sunday service at Westminister Presbyterian Church where the youth pastor, the Rev. Blake Brinkerhoff, will bring the message and the youth choir will sing.

Member Of '70' To Teach

A five-day course on the history and doctrines of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints will be offered beginning Sunday at the Miami branch of the church.

Teaching the course, designed as a missionary effort to bring newcomers into the movement, will be one of the leaders of the denomination.

He is O. C. Hensen, a member of the Seventy, the ruling body of the church.

Seventy Hensen is a graduate of Graceland (Ia.) College and Milikin (Ill.) University and is a fourth generation minister.

The Navy veteran was appointed missionary to Florida in 1955 and now administers the work in central and southern Florida from headquarters in Orlando.

Following the 7:30 nightly series of meetings here, he will go to Fort Lauderdale to conduct a similar course.

Wickard Leaving, Alls Here

Preaching his final sermon here at 11 a.m. Sunday will be the Rev. C. Duane Wickard at Coral Way Presbyterian Church. He is going to the Second Presbyterian Church in Fort Lauderdale as associate minister.

During his seven years here, the Rev. Mr. Wickard was moderator of the Florida Synod and of the Southeast Presbytery, and president of the Presbyterian Ministerial Association. He led his church in the erection of social and educational unit and the purchase of a manse.

A farewell dinner for the minister as his wife will be given by the Woman's Association of the church at 6 p.m. Sunday.

* * *

The Rev. Ivan P. Alls will preach his first sermon as the new pastor of the Bethany Church of God at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. He comes here from the First Church of God in Mt. Carmel, Ill., where he was on the denomination's state evangelism board.

A graduate of the Anderson (Ind.) College and Seminary, the Rev. Mr. Alls has served churches in Huntington, W. Va., and Concord, N. C., and served as a youth worker and evangelist. He has made a tour of the Holy Land and Europe.

He is married and has a 16-year-old son.

Unique Drama To Open Tuesday at Granada Church

The premier Miami performance of a unique religious drama which is a re-enactment of history as it actually happened and yet as it is recurring today will be staged Tuesday at the Granada Presbyterian Church.

The play is P. W. Turner's "Christ in the Concrete City" and will be presented as the first in-church production of the drama department of the Greater Miami Council of Churches.

It is scheduled for five other church performances in the next two months and will be staged in other churches upon request.

The drama is set both in the heart of a 20th Century city and at the same time in the streets of Palestine of the first century. The modern clerk, businessman and housewife are seen in roles of the familiar first century characters in scenes of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus in modern day circumstances.

The play is directed by the Rev. Neil Wyrick Jr., pastor of the Palmetto Presbyterian Church.

Key roles are played by Jim Arroyo, Raleigh Mann and Ruth Fink, of the White Temple Methodist Church; Betty Maradi, Coral Gables Congregational Church; Bob Reisinger, Granada Presbyterian Church; and the Rev. Mr. Wyrick.

Technicians will be Bill Stone, Coral Baptist Church; Reisinger; and Alene Holdahl, Palmetto Presbyterian Church.

Your Success Will Depend On Learning to Work Hard

Twixt 12 And 20

What happens to our early enthusiasm for work is one of the questions Pat Boone raises in a discussion of the responsibilities suddenly thrust on teenagers. His views on teenage hobbies and employment as preparation for adult jobs and careers are expressed in instalment 14 of this exclusive serialization of his best-selling book, "'Twixt Twelve and Twenty."

BY Pat Boone

Pat Boone Dances with Shirley MacLaine

. . . in rehearsal for his TV program

My first venture in the business world was made at the age of nine, selling buttercups on Granny White Pike near our house in Nashville, Tenn.

My second effort was singing at Saturday matinees at the Belle Meade Theater "Happiness Club," and it was worth one banana split per appearance. I sang at those matinees every other Saturday. I believe it was the toughest assignment I ever had.

The audience yelled and threw popcorn and all the time I was singing away, entertaining nobody but myself, and all for banana splits.

As I said, I couldn't bear to put a price on my flowers; and musically, until I was 14 years old, I never lost my amateur standing.

Then why was I singing and selling buttercups?

If you asked the first 10 grown-ups you meet why they work, eight out of 10 would probably say, "Why, for money," or "Because I have to, junior!"

Maybe they think that's true. If they really do, it's too bad. Don't get me wrong. I'm very thankful for every penny I'm paid. (I'd say an extra "Thanks" if I could keep a few of them!) And certainly the workman is worthy of his hire.

But the point I am making here is that money wasn't the real reason I started to work. And it probably isn't the reason you did your first jobs.

Do you remember when you were so young that it was a big treat if your mom let you help with the dishes or your dad let you have a hand in washing his car? I do. Certainly we didn't have to do it and we certainly didn't get paid.

Then why were we such eager beavers? Wasn't it because we wanted to be a part of the life going on around us, a necessary, active part?

I think we all have the instinct to work, and at that point in our lives we didn't fight it.

What changes this early eagerness for work?

We, as teenagers, suddenly begin to have responsibilities thrust upon us — work we have to do which we haven't chosen.

At this point we can lose our taste for work forever if we aren't careful. But at this same point we may take our first steps toward ultimate success in life.

No matter what you pick to do in later life, even if it's the thing you love best, you'll find it entails some distasteful but essential work.

Your own success in life will depend upon learning the discipline of doing the work at hand (chores, homework, housework, whatever, and however distasteful) during the teen age.

We learn to work by working. We have to consider learning to work today as training for the job we will want to do someday.

We talk ourselves out of our enjoyment of work because of popular opinion. Griping is supposedly the thing to do! But is it right if we sell ourselves the idea that work is a burden?

We do not make the important connection between our presence here on earth and the things we were put here to do. This, to me, is absolutely top priority if we're to live happy, successful lives — if we are to reach maturity, that full development of our all round potential.

I've known a lucky few who just knew straight off what their life's work was going to be. For most of us, though (including me), it doesn't come like a bolt from the blue. We go hustling from one interest to another.

We also usually identify ourselves with every profession that is presented to us even in movies and television.

Then usually we do some actual apprentice work. My own experience was a mixture of all these things and more. I loved comic books and by the time I was 12 I was drawing my own comic strips.

In high school I was both a reporter and cartoonist on the paper. I dallied with the idea of making one of these hobbies, writing and cartooning, my life's work.

Meanwhile, from my 14th to my 19th summer I was an actual apprentice learning a trade in the Boone Construction Company.

Singing was another of my early hobbies. Sure, I had dreams about it. At the same time I was experimenting with a career as singer.

When I was about 14 I lost my amateur standing when a man gave me five dollars to sing some western and pop numbers at a Kiwanis Club dinner. From then on I alternated between singing for free meals and singing for a few dollars at Kiwanis or Lions or Shakespeare clubs.

Then I got my first radio show going instead. It was "Youth on Parade" on station WSIX. But "Youth on Parade" didn't pay at all. Not even banana splits.

I was the emcee, host, and occasional singer on this for two years, my senior year in high and my freshman year in college. Why? Because I enjoyed the work. I was also learning more about a possible profession.

But by this time the possibilities that interested me were narrowing down. I FELT personally drawn to only three: teaching (English or Speech preferred), educational TV, and singing.

I think that's about par for the average teenager. When we hit college we've narrowed down the careers in which we are interested.

Perhaps then you're still not entirely sure, but at least the indications are strong enough so that you can concentrate on the few that have stood the withering test of teenage investigation.

But may I give you a few mild words of warning?

In the matter of career, your own heart and head must decide. This is a choice that has to come from within.

Another friendly warning. If you are not beginning to settle your mind on a career by your senior year in high school, do some honest checking. There is danger of your liking things only when they are new and fresh, and not liking them when it comes time to buckle down and get on with it.

To sum up: The three best ways to find your talent are first, to pursue your hobbies actively (sports included); second, use your imagination to try on various professions that appeal to you; third, do some actual apprentice work in fields that look attractive to you.

These items, plus a vow to do the things at hand and learn to work, should go on your maturity chart. Finding your talent is opening the door to creativity, but work is what turns creativity into accomplishment.

Father, 25, Year's 1st Polio Case

Dade County recorded its first polio case of the year Friday—a 25-year-old truck driver who had given his two children Salk vaccine shots but neglected to take them himself.

Terrell Howell, of 2255 NW 175th St., was in critical condition in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. He has bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease.

"The doctors say that if he can get through the next 48 hours, he will pull through," said Howell's wife, Alice, 21.

"Neither of us had the shots," she said. "I guess it's because you always think of the kids but not yourself. But I got my first shot today."

She also got booster shots for the two children, Mary, three, and Terrell Jr., one.

Howell, a truck driver for a concrete company, came home from work last Friday night complaining of a headache and a pain in the small of his back, Mrs. Howell said.

"He was weak by Sunday, and by Tuesday he couldn't walk or eat. We had to carry him to the doctor's office, then to the hospital," she said.

Mrs. Howell said that when she visited her husband, "he seemed to feel fine. But being in the iron lung, he is scared. He's never been in a hospital before."

Howell is the county's first polio case of 1959. Last year, there were 30 cases in Dade County, according to County Health Officer Dr. T. E. Cato. Four of them were definitely bulbar polio.

There were two polio deaths here in 1958, Dr. Cato said, but one of the victims developed polio in 1957.

Dr. Cato urged Dade citizens who have not had their shots to get them.

Blames Administration

We've Let Russia Lead In Missiles--Symington

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) said Friday the Eisenhower administration is allowing Russia to pull away in the missiles race. In two years, he predicted, Russia will have a 4-1 edge in long range rockets.

"The coming year may afford us our last chance to initiate any real effort to catch up with the Russians in the most important fields of modern weaponry," Symington said in a speech to the Senate.

The Missouri senator, long a critic of administration defense policies, challenged statements by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a news conference Thursday.

McElroy said then "we do not believe that Russia has an ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) capable of operations against this country at this time." He also discounted reports that Russia will have 300 ICBMs by next year.

Symington said McElroy's remarks imply "a great deal more combat readiness on the part of the U.S. than is justified by the very few ICBMs this country will have available for retaliation in the next two years."

He suggested that McElroy's statements and others like them may be "released for public consideration primarily to support a restricted budget position."

Symington said the U.S. has successfully test-fired ICBMs and set up production lines that could produce more; adding:

"The reason we are not planning full production of ICBMs is because this administration is not planning to spend the necessary funds."

Symington, who often has accused the administration of penny pinching on defense, gave notice he will try to boost military budget allotments above totals asked by President Eisenhower.

"During the next few years," he said, "adequate defense requires more money than estimated in the President's budget."

Eisenhower has asked $40,945,000,000 for defense in the fiscal year starting July 1. This is an increase of 145 million over estimated spending for defense this year.

McElroy, appearing before a House appropriations subcommittee Thursday, said "the nation is prepared to meet the threat it faces today." He said that during the past year this country has made good progress in missile development, defense against missiles, and antisubmarine warfare.

He said in prepared testimony that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "have gone on record with me that they consider this budget adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration (the coming fiscal year)."

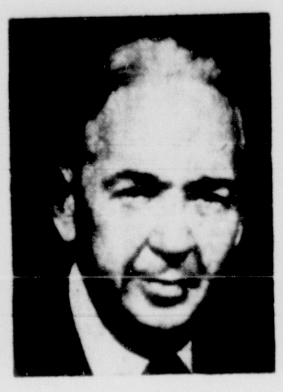
JACK ANDERSON—About TV

Virginia Segregation Issue Timed Luckily by Murrow

Murrow



Almond

IT WAS A SINGULAR stroke of luck and timing for CBS news that the courts acted on the school segregation issue in Virginia almost on the eve of the network's airing Wednesday night of its documentary, "The Lost Class of '59."

The network had only to clip off some film before and aft to enable narrator Edward R. Murrow to bring viewers up to date on the decisions of the Virginia Supreme Court and the U. S. District Court that set back Gov. J. Lindsay Almond's massive resistance campaign.

ANDERSON

The hour-long survey of the cause and effect of school closings in the Old Dominion was television news-in-depth at its most effective.

It was an unbiased survey. Not even the most fanatic leader on either side of the issue could say that his point of view wasn't amply presented.

Officials, parents, teachers and students each had his pro and con turn before the cameras. More dramatically than any narration from CBS could have done, these men and women and youths told the story of the educational agony in Norfolk and other Virginia cities where public schools have been darkened since last September.

* * *

ALL MURROW and his people had to do was to point up with filmed and narrative background what the fight over principle and tradition was costing the educational system of the state.

The film portion of the program closed with Murrow's interview of Governor Almond. Murrow had anticipated the court action on suits that might upset the governor's strategy.

And so although he didn't have a live TV reaction from the governor on the court decisions handed down earlier this week, he did have the before-the-fact reaction that served just as well.

In answer to Murrow's queries about what he would do if the courts ruled against his school closing order, Almond said he would comply with the courts' orders and call together a legislative commission to map a new strategy.

He also told Murrow with tight-lipped emphasis that if the court-ordered reopened schools had to admit Negroes, he would permit none of the rioting and violence that had taken place in other southern states.

The governor couldn't have said more than that even if Murrow had been able to get him before the cameras "live" Wednesday night.

* * *

THIS DOCUMENTARY was vastly superior to the "Sex in Business" thing Murrow did for CBS radio early in the week.

That program was an hour of over-generalized comment on and anonymous testimonials to the practice of enlisting prostitution to help business sales.

TO GET BACK to the school segregation issue, it may come up again Sunday on Channel 10's Important show at 6 that night. Bill Bayer's guest will be Tom Beasley, speaker of the Florida House of Representatives.

Beasley is making all the motions of running for governor in 1960 and he's an ardent foe of school de-segregation.

This information reached us too late to include in Sunday's program highlights in Fun in Florida magazine. So better make a note of it now, if you're interested in catching the program.

Beach Federal Proxy Fight

Replace 3 Names, Shareholders Ask

A Miami Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association shareholders group asked the federal court Friday to replace three names on a list approved for proxy solicitation with three others chosen by them.

The group said two formerly approved by the court as eligible for an impartial board have repudiated the position of the group that submitted the names in the first place.

A third, Radford Crane, said he would be unable to serve after date of the association's annual meeting was changed.

In its latest petition in the running proxy battle, the shareholder group said it received a letter from two of its nominees, P. B. G. Harig and Marcus O. Sarokin, saying the shareholders objecting to use their names as proxies.

In fact, said the petition, they are employes under domination of the Beach Federal directors and have "repudiated the plaintiffs' cause."

A letter from Harig and Sarokin said they do not agree with the content of advertisements in which their names were used.

The proxy battle for control of the 100-million-dollar savings and loan association will reach its climax Feb. 18, when a directors' election is scheduled.

Present directors, including President Claude Renshaw, are asking shareholders to retain them in office. An opposing group that includes Director W. George Kennedy is attempting to put in its own slate of directors.

VARNER

Varner, who has been assistant general sales manager since 1953, is a graduate of the University of Miami.

Oils and Airlines In Gains

Turnover, though a fairly active 3,600,000 shares compared with 4,250,000 Thursday, was the lowest in three weeks.

It was a scrambled pattern of gains and losses running from fractions to about 2 points with here and there a stock moving more widely.

Oils continued to progress under investment buying stimulated by some favorable Wall Street comment early in the week. Airlines also continued on the upside in view of more exciting jet age prospects for passenger service.

Steels, motors, mail order retails and tobaccos also were generally higher. Aircrafts, rubbers, rails and a wide selection of other issues took losses with the result that the average was as a standstill.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was the most active stock, up 3-8 at 58¼ on 57,900 shares. Second was American Motors, off 3-8 at 38 5-8 on 51,000 shares. Third was Detroit Steel, up 1 7-8 at 18½ on 51,000 shares.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on volume of 1,830,000 shares compared with 1,930,000 Thursday.

Pinch-Hitting Miami-Born Opera Star to Make Her Debut

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music Writer

Miami's only home-grown opera-singer, Nancy Firszt, gave up 25 performances in "La Traviata" in Germany to fly here to sing the starring role in Miami Opera Guild's production of "Rigoletto" next week.

"It was a little bit of a wrench, because I love 'Traviata,' but I hardly thought twice," said the blonde singer. "I just couldn't resist the chance to make my home-town debut, and I still can't believe I've got the chance. It's really just about the most thrilling thing that's ever happened to me."

Nancy, who was born in Miami and attended both Miami High School and University of Miami, flew here from Milan to sing the Gilda role in "Rigoletto" in the Monday-Wednesday - Saturday performances next week. She's been singing opera in Italy for five years.

Dr. Arturo di Filippi, Opera Guild entrepreneur and Nancy's vocal teacher in Miami, signed her up for Gilda when German singer Erika Koeth's doctor forbade her to come to the U. S. this season because of a heart ailment.

"I never heard Miss Koeth sing," Nancy said. "Of course, I'm sorry she's ill, but for me this is absolutely the most wonderful experience! I might have to pay a little fine because I wiggled out of the 'Traviata' tour — though I hadn't signed the contract yet — but I can't worry about that now."

. . . in 'Rigoletto'

In the "Rigoletto" programs Nancy will be listed as Patricia Cali — the name she "adopted" for her Italian performances.

"It's just easier to get jobs in Italy if your name is Italian," she explained. "It saves such a lot of explaining! And my second name IS Patricia."

The pretty young singer has been serious about an operatic career ever since she was a little girl, but she got her chance when Commander and Mrs. William Mansfield of Miami heard her voice rise above the others in the Opera Guild chorus. The Mansfields sponsored her studies here and in Italy.

Nancy now has more than 20 roles in her repertoire — "I'm classified as a lirico leggero, or a 'light lyric,' so I get coloratura as well as straight soprano roles."

Last season she made a tour of Spain with an Italian opera company that had Maria Callas as star — "and I sang leads, too, but never on the same stage with her." The tenor Tagliavini was also along on that tour.

When Prince Rainier had a "musical fete" at Monaco, Nancy was selected as the American singer "in tribute to Princess Grace." She and a fellow-American sang "The Telephone" by American composer Menotti for the royal couple and guests.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

FIRST National Bank will move the weekend starting Feb. 6 to that magnificent new 18-story home on Biscayne Blvd.

BELL

It'll be open and ready to do business at the new place Monday Feb. 9. In fact it's got to be open and ready to go, according to law.

The regulation says a bank must move during non-banking hours. Were First National to try to move in mid-week it would have to do it between 2 p.m. one day and 10 a.m. the next. That would be impossible, so National has chosen a weekend. Even then it will be no simple task to transfer all departments, including safes and safety deposit units, records, files and a thousand other items. And I betcha the moving will uncover things lost since the Ed Romfh days.

The new building isn't completely finished. The job of installing furniture, rugs, decorations is more tedious than construction of the whole building. My only wish is that some day I'll get an invitation to that penthouse. What a view that'll be!

'Smokers Anonymous" . . . "Tobacco Prohibited" . . . "Stop Smoking Club."

Which name do you like most? It's imperative that we find out, because I know a woman who's going to start such an organization. After reading her treatise I figure she might borrow from The Herald's traffic slogan and call it the "Let's Stop Poisoning Ourselves," Association.

Mrs. R. M. Fitzgerald, 547 Majorca, Coral Gables, is an ex-smoker. She's a strong-willed person who steeled herself to stay away from "the weed" until she now knows she's cured. Now she wants to help start an organization that will help others. She's the second woman to ask the same question this week: "How can we start a no-smoking group?"

Frankly, I don't know. I don't smoke. But in London a group has started: "Smokers Anonymous." I'd like to see them start: "Non-Smokers Non-Anonymous."

Land-Air 'Convertible' on Display Here

He Drives His Plane, Flies His Car

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

For a while in Friday's rain, Molton Taylor was undecided whether to fly his car from Fort Lauderdale to Miami or drive it.

Then the rain lifted and he spread his wings and took off from Broward International Airport, landing about 20 minutes later at Miami.

There he folded the wings into a neat trailer and drove his Aerocar off to Dinner Key.

"It's about the sportiest sports car there is," said Taylor, who designed and builds the things in a plant at Longview, Wash.

"Look at all those planes there on the field. Half of them have to stay right on the ground in this weather—they don't have the radio equipement to take off.

"But I can drive or fly, it doesn't matter . . .

"If I drive and the weather gets better, then I can fly. If it gets bad, I can come down and drive.

"It's the only mode of personal transportation that is faster between two random points than a modern car."

Taylor's car seats two. It has a 150-horsepower Lycoming engine and weighs, with wings, 1,400 pounds. With the wings unbolted and left at home, it becomes a 1,000-pound car with an outsize engine.

"Then it's got a smaller-weight-to-power ratio than any sports car," he said.

The propeller is mounted behind a tail assembly that appears to be inverted and is connected to the rear engine with a long drive shaft. It takes five minutes to convert it from car to plane and vice versa.

It cruises in the air at about 100 miles an hour and on the ground at 50. It burns gasoline in the air at the rate of eight gallons an hour and gets 1 5 miles to a gallon on the ground. It has a range in the air of 300 miles.

It has a three-speed gear box with reverse and a fan for the air-cooled engine. It has complete sets of car and airplane instruments.

Taylor has built six which he'll sell for $15,000 each. They're handmade. Producion models, when he gets into production, will sell, he hopes, for $7,500.

The auto-plane is being exhibited at the International Foreign and Sports Car Show at Dinner Key Auditorium.

He's been at work on the design for 11 years. The hybrid now is fully licensed.

Judge Giblin Is Jailed--and The Fur Flies

By BOB HARDIN and PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writers

Circuit Judge Vincent C. Giblin was frisked and jailed after his wife was stopped on a speeding charge Friday, and when the smoke had cleared:

OFFICER SEYMOUR ANDERSON said: "I don't feel I have to apologize for proper police procedure."

JUDGE GIBLIN said: "If it is proper for police to treat a man stopped on a civil charge like a bank robber, then I shouldn't be indignant."

The Coral Gables motorcycle patrolman stopped Giblin's wife as she was driving the judge to work about 8:30 Friday.

Giblin and Anderson agree on that, but from there, the accounts differ.

The dispute which almost led to Anderson shooting out Giblin's tire, involved:

(Giblin): "He took an interminable length of time writing out a simple traffic ticket. I exercised my prerogative to drive off in my own car to be in court on time."

(Anderson): "He changed seats with his wife and rode off while I was writing the ticket. I shouted for him to stop."

(Giblin): "He pulled me off the road and frisked me like I had just robbed a bank."

(Anderson): "The name Giblin didn't mean anything to me at that time. I have orders to search all prisoners."

The two men said:

2 — Anderson wrote her a ticket.

3 — Giblin drove off.

4 — Anderson followed, and forced him to stop.

6 — Both Giblin and his wife were locked up in a detention room.

Giblin was booked on two counts of resisting arrest: Failure to obey a police officer and interfering with a police officer's duties. He was released on his word to appear in Gables Municipal court at 5 p.m. on Feb. 4.

But Giblin said he was "within my rights in driving off, and I told the officer that. The Supreme Court has held that a judge can not be detained from his duties unless he has committeed a criminal offense."

Replied Anderson: "Maybe if the judge had told me who he was right at first, and produced some identification instead of being so boisterous, I could have made some sense out of the conversation."

If Giblin had done that, Anderson said, he would have let the judge go on.

Giblin and Anderson differed as to what conversation ensued after Giblin was stopped.

Anderson said Giblin told him: "I'm Giblin. You can't stop me."

"That's an untruth," Giblin replied.

The two men met face to face over WQAM radio microphones on the Alan Courtney show Friday night.

They haggled over such details as how far, or by what route, Anderson followed Giblin and whether Anderson had the right to take Mrs. Giblin to jail on a summons.

Anderson said part of the delay in writing the ticket was because "I went back to ask another officer if there was some truth to Mrs. Giblin's claim that she was forced to speed by the actions of another auto. I was trying to help."

Giblin said Anderson made a motion toward his pistol as the officer pulled alongside him, siren wailing.

Said Gables Chief William G. Kimbrough: "Officer Anderson said that was true, and said he had intended to shoot at the judge's tire if he did not stop. I told him that was not what should have been done. However, it is easy to say at 10 a.m. what should have been done at 8:30 a.m., and I am not going to try to be a Monday morning quarterback."

His wife paid the $15 traffic ticket at the station, and also a $6 towing charge which made the judge angry.

Giblin said the reason for his initial ire was that "punctuality is a religion with me. I have even fined lawyers who come late to my court."

4-Month Stakeout Nabs 5

Quantity Drug Sales Charged

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

After four months of undercover work around one of Miami Beach's jazziest corners, state and local narcotics agents revealed Friday the arrest of five persons charged as big-time, wholesale dope peddlers.

"We've only scratched the surface," said State Narcotics Agent Fred Usher. "There's a lot more of this going on — almost every place where jazz music is played."

Along with Miami Detective Frank Fountain, Usher spent night after night hanging around the Beach's Park Ave. at 23rd St., posing as part of the "cool" crowd that frequents the Pin Up Bar and Grate Restaurant.

The four-month stakeout netted five who Usher called "ounce pushers" — peddlers who deal only in volume. They were identified as:

Mrs. Mary Lou Sullivan, 24, of 313 NE 82nd St.; Ann Carey, alias Carepezza, 38, of 11429 NE 11th Pl.; Charlotte Waters, 40, of 17180 NE First Ave.; Al Weinstein, 24, of 622 Michigan Ave., Miami Beach; and Jazz Drummer Richard (Rick) Hanson, 29, of 525 SW Ninth Ave.

They were each charged Friday with sale of bulk marijuana and held without bond pending a hearing. Usher said he paid between $20 and $25 an ounce for packets of the narcotic.

"Usher and Fountain practically lived with these people," said State Agent Ray Belinger.

Their first contact, they said, was young Weinstein, who, at 17, picked up an arrest record for a bungled hotel robbery. The three women, described as all independent peddlers, also worked out of the hot spots.

According to Usher, the pushing involved several wealthy playboy — and playgirl — clients, whose sleek sports cars can be seen outside the Pin Up almost any night.

Bulk dope peddling carries a penalty of from two to five years imprisonment.

Nursery Ordered To Close

City Condemning 'Lullaby' Building

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Lullaby Nursery, which won over the City of Miami in a long court battle to stay open, has been ordered to shut down by the city building department.

The nursery, at 34 Beacom Blvd., must close its doors by next Wednesday, Ellis C. Knox, head of the department, said Friday.

The city is condemning the two-story frame building for several reasons, including an inspector's report that the structure "appears to be a dangerous fire hazard."

Mrs. J. D. Ware, owner and operator of the nursery, produced an inspection report Friday which contained these other comments by Inspector Jack Bittner:

DOES NOT conform to present building code.

DETERIORATION is 32 per cent.

WOOD FLOORS and floor joists are unsafe and rotted.

DOORS and windows do not operate.

NO OUTSIDE fire escape or stairway.

Mrs. Ware, a widow, said she has operated the nursery for seven years. Its present enrollment is 16 infants.

The city filed suits against the Lullaby and two other nurseries early last summer in an effort to close them down because they were operating without city licenses.

In a regulating ordinance, the city required the nurseries to have approval of the State Welfare Commission in order to operate in Miami.

Last month, the Third District Court of Appeal ruled the city has no right to require welfare board approval of nurseries — and they continued to operate.

"They've just got it in for me because we won that case," Mrs. Ware said Friday.

Dark Car Hits Truck At Dusk; Woman Dies

By EDDIE GONG
Herald Staff Writer

The business manager of a prominent Central Florida horse farm, driving without lights in a rainy dusk, wheeled his car into the path of a truck at a Hialeah intersection Friday, killing his wife and critically injuring himself.

The impact of the crash hurled the car driven by Elmo Shropshire, 48, some 180 feet, crushing the hardtop auto.

Killed instantly was Shropshire's wife, Ethel, 46. Shropshire is in critical condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital with both arms and all of his ribs broken.

Mrs. Shropshire's death was the 11th traffic fatality in Dade County this year, compared to 13 at this time last year.

The truck driver, Lewis C. Sweet, 33-year-old Negro of 4490 NW 33rd Ave., was not injured. Hialeah Detective Bert Bindschadler said Sweet apparently was not at fault.

The accident occurred shortly after 6 p.m. at the intersection of Okeechobee Rd. and W. Ninth Ave. in Hialeah.

Earl Sutor, owner of the Traveland Motel, 935 W. Okechobee Rd., said Shropshire and his wife had checked out to attend a business meeting. He said Mrs. Shropshire had not wanted to go to the meeting, but finally decided to accompany her husband.

For Whom Death Tolled:

MRS. ETHEL SHROPSHIRE, 46, riding with her husband to a meeting she had wanted to skip.

CAUSE: Left turn without lights into path of truck.

Lower-Bay Road Can Up Values

Can't Sell Bonds, Commission Told

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

A special tax district that would put the main burden of financing the Upper Keys Causeway on owners of land on Elliott, Old Rhodes, Sands, Arsenicker and smaller South Dade keys, was proposed by Metro officials Friday.

The money would be used for construction of the island-hopping lower bay offshore causeway, part of the 45-mile, 56-million-dollar system connecting the keys to the mainland.

County Attorney Darrey A. Davis said he will bring a test suit to determine whether Metro can create a special tax district. He added he hopes for support from the keys property owners, which "will be the sweetest kind of background music for the court." But if the owners protest, Metro will lose its case, he predicted.

Commissioner Ralph Fossey, who owns 40 acres on Elliot Key, said he feared the majority of island owners would oppose the new tax unless the county agreed also to levy tolls to finance part of the keys causeway.

"At least half the owners would be just as happy if no bridge were ever built out there," Fossey said. But zooming land values if the islands were connected to the mainland might sway the majority, he added.

Fossey estimated that 1,800-acre Elliot Key, now worth about nine million dollars, would become a 50-million-dollar property the moment it was connected to the mainland.

The Metro Commission causeway finance committee, under Chairman Walter Weiss, turned to property-tax financing after consultants advised that bonds for a completely toll-financed north-South causeway system would not be marketable.

The tax-financing plan was bared at a meeting Friday with William Singer, Dade's member of the State Board.

Singer turned down a commission request for four to five million dollars of state road funds to be used on the Mid-Bay drive.

"We have only two million uncommitted dollars for the next two years," he said.

Mid-Bay drive, with a target completion date of mid-1961, will likely be in use before the state can finish the crosstown expressway, Singer added.

Publicity-Lovin' Gator Gone Again

By ELVALEE SWIFT
Herald Staff Writer

A publicity-loving alligator, who made headlines in 1950 by running away from home, has done it again.

The red-eyed reptile, Skawanky, was loose Friday in a heavily populated South Miami area and his owner, a little blind boy, feared for the pets of his friends.

Said 12-year-old Tandy McClure: "I don't want Skawanky shot. But I don't want him to hurt any dogs and cats. He's very vicious. He'll eat anything he sees."

Skawanky, a real unfriendly type about 27 years old and six feet long, chewed the coral rock from around his pool to escape, said Tandy's mother, Mrs. R. W. Way, 4851 SW 82nd St.

"I went out to feed him his horsemeat," said Mrs. Way. "And he wasn't there."

She said the alligator means a great deal to her son. "Tandy has been blind since birth," she said. "He was a miracle baby. Weighed only 1½ pounds. The oxygen in the incubator ruined his eyesight."

When Skawanky went off on a sightseeing tour in 1950, he was gone for 10 days before he finally slunk home.

And upon his arrival, he slaughtered three other alligators who had shared his pond. "Just butchered them," said Mrs. Way, "and threw their carcasses all around."

Skawanky's private pond is built with an escape-proof overhang and high concrete walls. It is set in Mrs. Way's 18-acre avocado grove. But when the escape-proof design was put in, nobody was counting on an alligator who could chew through coral rock.

Tandy notified police of Skawanky's disappearance and also called his neighborhood friends.

He wanted to make sure they gathered in their pets. In Skawanky's books, they're rare delicacies.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

Betty Grable

Rudy Vallee

Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

NOTES — Teenagers attending the Gables Theater Record-hop this morning will hear Bobby Gaye and Dannis Mathis and their Rock and Roll combo . . . Florida Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists will meet on Sunday in the McAllister Hote. Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Latest financial rumor out of Havana is that present Cuban currency won't be devalued—it will be completely recalled, in exchange for a new issue.

Ginger Rogers Has Problem: Which Doctor?

FLORENCE DESMOND, the famed English actress, has become the Jane Austen of the upper set . . . In her sorrow, Mrs. Ty Power turned to Florence; when Deborah Kerr went to London to see her children, she stayed at the Desmond home; when Ingrid Bergman needed secret help before her marriage, she got it from Florence, and on and on . . . Maralee Hudson, whose late father was an Ass't Att'y Gen. (under FDR), and Richard Allan, CBS-TV Director, unite next month . . . Douglas Lambert of "Dark at Top of Stairs" is at the 2-dozen roses stage with actress Sundra Boikin . . . Tim Everett of "Cold Wind and The Warm" is warm on the subject of Joan Crawford's daughter Christine . . . Cy Howard's best Romeo manners are reserved for Theresa Rica, an editor of Sports Illustrated . . . Ginger Rogers' intimates wonder which medic gets the girl. Dr. Paul Schneider, her tennis partner, or Dr. John Sexton, whose bokays arrive daily.

THE ANNALS of journalism are crammed with exciting tales of femme newshawks in action. It would provide a fascinating teevee series, Mr. Arnaz . . . Our favorite is the supreme accolade accorded newsgals by a Daily Mirror newspaperman, some years ago. When a policeman sought to prevent several lady journalists from covering a story he considered perilous, the newsman cracked: "They aren't women—they're reporters!"

Ginger Rogers . . . a fever?

Ingrid Bergman . . . a friend

Danny Thomas . . . a chaw

ONE of the more graphic real-life melos starred newsgal Nellie Kenyon. She launched a private investigation which resulted in finding a bank bandit's hideout . . . The evidence she uncovered later enabled the police to convict the stickup artist . . . The bandit, who was evidently a rabid optimist, later sent Miss Kenyon a letter from the penitentiary requesting her assistance in securing his release.

WINIFRED BLACK, another dauntless doll, contributed her share of exciters. She covered floods, earthquakes and riots — overcoming perils which would make strong men quake. Winnie was apparently a stranger to fear. She visited leper colonies and had herself committed to hospitals in order to expose barbaric conditions.

One of Horace Greeley's more flamboyant staffers was Jane Swisshelm. She was a nerveless pretty-face who did the crusading bit. She went after a yarn with all the intensity of a salmon swimming upstream. While carrying out assignments she was slugged, knocked down a flight of stairs and fractured one of her limbs during a riot. Janie was this type of girl: One of the pets in her home was a baby panther.

NIXOLA Greeley Smith—H. Greeley's granddaughter — enlivened journalistic histories with this one: She once went to THE Mrs. Astor's home for an interview. After a prolonged wait, a butler curtly informed her that Mrs. Astor would be unable to see her. Then he handed Nixola $2 with the explanation that Mrs. Astor was paying for the time she had spent waiting.

Whereupon Miss Smith exploded: "Tell Mrs. Astor that she not only forgets who I am, but she forgets who she is. Give her back the $2 and tell her that when John Jacob Astor was skinning rabbits, my grandfather was one of the foremost citizens of New York!"

'I Want to Live' Unfolds Grim Drama

By MARION AITCHISON
Herald Staff Writer

Movie Review

A top California newsman's articles and a condemned girl's letters are the source of the story of "I Want to Live," now at Loew's 170th St. and Riviera Theaters.

The picture is not for children for whom, save the brief hot music interludes, it offers nothing. Nor is it for your lighter moods.

But it is strong factual drama, thoughtfully presented, with a harrowing climax that is little short of nerve-shattering. We found this, however, unnecessarily drawn out, but perhaps that is the way it happened.

Ed Montgomery is the newsman whose stories—at first against, but later more sympathetic to the girl Barbara Graham—are drawn upon, together with her letters, for the dynamic script.

Susan Hayward, in the difficult and many-faceted role of the girl, is superbly dramatic, rowdy and rough, blind to accepted morals, but tender and sincere at times, to arouse your sympathy.

With reform school and prison sentence for perjury behind her, the girl jumps her parole to become a pick-up and later a gambler's shill in Los Angeles.

Temporarily, then, she seeks a better life, marries and has a son to whom she is devoted. But not for long. The husband's drug addiction brings a break and Barbara returns to her former gang.

You know she takes part in a robbery but whether she is really involved in the murder of which she and her two companions are accused and for which she is sentenced to death is up to you—and the jury—to decide.

There is top tenseness and suspense in sequences of the trial and her imprisonment.

The fact that most of the players, except for Miss Hayward, are unfamiliar and that much of the background is filmed on-the-spot, provides added authenticity.

A VERY BEWITCHING COMEDY ABOUT AN ENCHANTING SUBJECT - SEX
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
JAMES STEWART
meets a careless blonde and finds they have something in common—lips!
KIM NOVAK
as a well-stacked girl who can't blush—no matter what or how often he tries!
BELL, BOOK AND CANDLE
TECHNICOLOR
co-starring JACK LEMMON
He's a bongo buff with a Congo beat!
ERNIE KOVACS
HERMIONE GINGOLD
She's just a witch any questions?
ELSA LANCHESTER
At Wellesley—voted The Girl Most Likely!
JANICE RULE
She yearns to be loved for her mind, too!
NOTE:
This picture makes a really imaginative use of TECHNICOLOR. We'd say it was in "blushing Technicolor" except that the girl in the story can't blush, the men have forgotten how to, and we've always hated the expression.

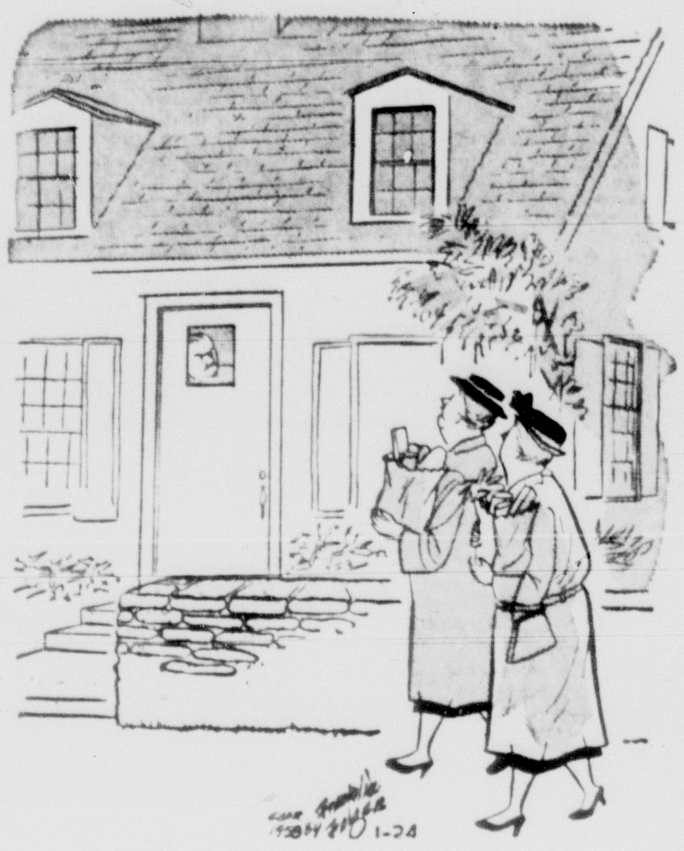
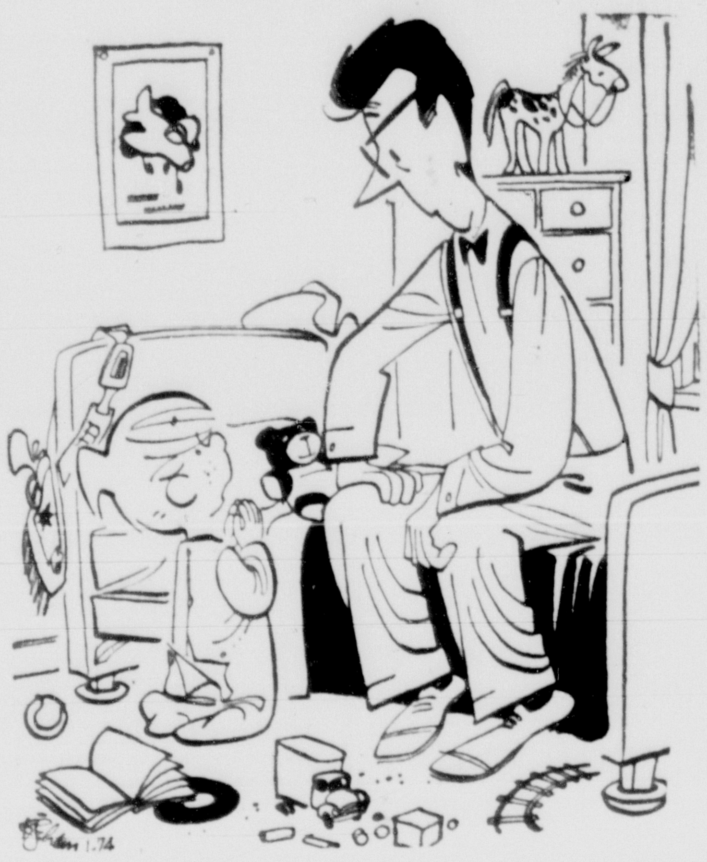
"We never ask him to do anything we won't do, so good night."

The Girls



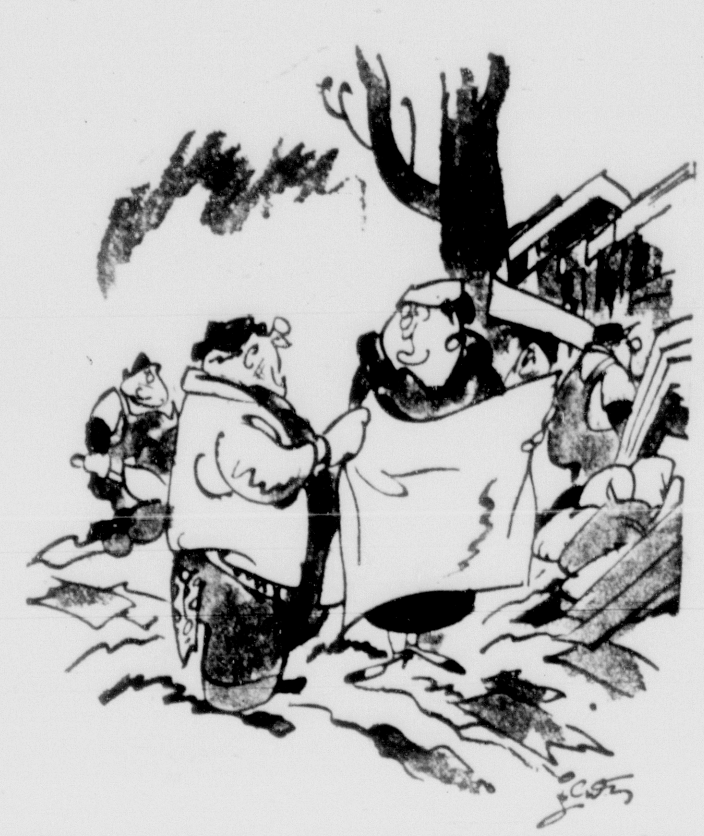
"Oh, good! My new dresses came."

Dennis The Menace



"You better put your fingers in your ears while I'm sayin' this next part."

Grin and Bear It



"Why don't you let us finish it according to the plans and THEN remodel it! . . . I think you'll find that MUCH more fun, Mrs. Truffle!"

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Well the Initial Is J

MY, OLDEST daughter got married last summer, to a fine young man whose last name is Briscoe.

Last week, Patsy wrote me a letter of protest. She said that in every letter since her marriage I had been referring to her husband by a wrong first name.

She said they thought it was funny at first, but that the funny had worn off. "After half a year, you should have enough interest in your son-in-law to know his name," she said.

I took the letter home and a few days later, at the office, I answered it.

I recalled that one of my childhood idols had been a college wrestler named Jeff Briscoe. I explained that this had caused all the confusion, that when I thought Briscoe, I just naturally thought of Jeff instead of Jess.

"You can tell Jess," I wrote, "that I meant no disrespect when I called him Jeff. And both of you can be assured that from now on I always will call my son-in-law Jess. Does this satisfy you, Mrs. Jess Briscoe?"

I mailed the letter, and that night I told my wife how I had so diplomatically removed myself from the spot.

"You are very clever," she said. "The only trouble is that your son-in-law is named Jerry."

* * *

MY DAUGHTER may end up as the only woman in history who is sued for divorce on grounds of her father.

* * *

MY WIFE HAD BUT SMALL consolation. She said: "When they get that letter, Jerry will think either that you're deliberately trying to insult him or that you're an idiot."

Accepting her theory, about all I could do was plead insanity. The next morning I sent a telegram to Patsy:

"Disregard all references to Jess and Jeff in letter now en route. Substitute Jerry where appropriate. I was hit on head with golf ball when child and never recovered."

I don't know if that will mend matters or not. Even if it does, I have put myself in a most uncomfortable position. Most young men look up to their fathers-in-law.

Mine, at my own suggestion, must regard me as mentally incompetent. Of course I have a suspicion he already suspected it.

* * *

I DON'T KNOW where he heard about it, but Ira Davenport, 1027 NE 128th St., North Miami, says that Jack Norworth, who wrote "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," never saw one.

* * *

"IF ONE DOES NOT already exist," writes Mrs. Beatrice Branch, 2753 NW Fourth Ter., "how nice it would be to have a complete anthology of old songs. This might be a rewarding project for the Old Songs and Poems Musical and Literary Society. Perhaps many of the songs might seem trite to our younger genertion, yet for many they are too precious a part of the past to be lost."

I'm all in favor of this, though I think such collections have been printed. Unfortunately, our Society has no money in its publishing fund at the moment.

For that matter, we don't have any money in any other funds, either.

Our treasury resembles the Thompson Family Budget.

* * *

A MIAMI BEACH woman brought a petition to my desk the other day and asked me to sign it.

Addressed to the county commission, it petitions that the dingoes be restored to Crandon Park Zoo.

I had to admit that I didn't know the dingoes had been taken out of the zoo. I further had to admit I hadn't known they ever had any dingoes in the zoo. And then I admitted that I didn't know what a dingo was in the first place.

A dingo, Miss Lee told me, is a wild dog from Australia. It doesn't have any voice, which probably explains why it went wild.

She says they used to have some fine dingoes here and she liked nothing more than going out to look at the dingoes. All you can do is look at them, since there's nothing to listen to.

Miss Lee was out of town for a year and a half and on her return was horrified to find the dingoes were gone. Thus her petition.

She scoffs at the explanation that the dingoes were mangy and were too much trouble to handle. She says we're practically slapping the face of Australia by not having dingoes here, and that's no way to treat a friendly nation, much less a dingo that can't talk back.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact all associates as early as possible today and cement better relations. Follow regulations to the letter and steer clear of any arguments between partners and a higher up. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for February send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Nice time in A.M. to put abode in most delightful order and condition. Later, run away from housework and dull tasks and get in with interesting, dynamic, delightful people for fun and profit.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You have a daytime opportunity to visit beautician or barber and then have a few delightful hours at play. Later in the day, however, a money problem arises that momentarily ruins your fun.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You will have to work hard at it, but affairs at abode can be nicely straightened out if you apply yourself early. P.M. you are inclined to use force and scare off one who would enter your home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A.M. just fine for calling on relations and chums and having fun. Good for shopping, too. Tonight then a problem arises with either a fellow worker, your clothing, your health.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A.M. fine for visualizing methods by which to increase your abundance through right investments, etc. Consult experts and influential persons.

LEO (July 22 to August 21) A day for thinking of yourself almost exclusively, your appearance, your health and personal pleasure. There is a strange situation going on at home that needs much diplomatic handling.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Any private worries can be solved most ideally now by generosity and graciousness, especially in mien. P.M. read over that letter you received very carefully. Be tactful. Smile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) That group of people you feel could assist you at this time will do so if you go to them honestly and state your desires. P.M. do not become discouraged in the face of some monetary worry.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Civic and mundane affairs impossible to handle during workday week now quickly taken care of. Perform your duties in that sphere efficiently. Get in touch with powerful persons.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have only to fall in step with the fine opportunities and people all about you today to get into the real swing of things. P.M. don't fret over that secret worry that turns up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A Saturday just ideal for broadening your vision and getting into ventures of real scope and magnitude. P.M. take care that one very conniving individual does not put one over on you.

1942 London Paper Carried Bitter News

NOTHING IS as dead as yesterday's newspaper. I recently came across a copy of the London Daily Mirror, dated March 10, 1942. Its headlines read like something in an almost forgotten history book.

"RANGOON GONE". Outnumbered British troops are being pursued by the Japanese. Lt. Gen. H.R.L.G. Alexander, last man to leave the beaches at Dunkirk, has been named General Officer Commanding of what is left of allied strength in that area. JAVA GOVERNMENT OUT BY PLANE: 93,000 Dutch and 5,000 British, Australian and American troops in Bandoeng and the naval base at Surabaya, surrender to the Japs.

These were the leads, bitter news for the hard pressed Allies, who saw no way to stop the yellow hordes steamrolling over them.

There were minor stories in the "Mirror."

US Navy Lieutenant Eddie O'Hara, later killed in action, himself, shot down six Nipponese bombers . . . Free French soldiers made a 900 mile trek across the Sahara to destroy Italian outposts . . . 40 French war vessels were turned over to the Nazis by the Vichy government.

People are people . . . good, evil, brave, cowardly . . . even in a conflict which threatens everything they hold dear.

Stanley Pearce Smith evaded conscription, and made a Black Market fortune in stolen machine guns. He had a luxury flat, a Rolls Royce, and several mistresses. The judge gave Smith seven years for impeding the war effort.

William Guest and Harry Bardwell were sentenced to three years each for stealing, and selling, rationed clothing coupons.

Gen. Homma, who failed to fulfill a timetable for Philippine conquest set by the Japanese Imperial Headquarters, committed hari-kari, and was replaced by Gen. Yamashita, called "the Tiger of Malaya," because of atrocities in Singapore.

School children were permitted to have 2-3 of a pint of milk a day.

Ack ack gunners complained that, for extra messing, Royal Air Force boys were allowed one egg per man, but gunners got only one for each four men.

I Do Not Ask

I do not ask much in life — I'd be happy with a hack;
Say a Lincoln Continental, or a yellow Cadillac.
I'd Not ask for much at all — I would be satisfied
To wear a sable coat (or mink) with unpretentious pride.
A ten room house would suit me fine, on a palm infested lot,
And overlooking Biscayne Bay, where I could park my yacht.

THINGS LIKE this I'll never understand: Peter Lind Hayes is one of the greats of show business, and I've said so on several occasions. A lady writes: "Why be a hypocrite? No intelligent person could be entertained by Hayes."

The second part of the statement, of course, has no foundation in fact. Thousands of people all over the United States . . . successful and intelligent . . . hurrah for Peter.

Why am I a hypocrite because I am numbered among them? According to this doll's reasoning I must be an idiot because I enjoy Mr. Hayes. Ipso facto, I am a hypocrite, because being slap happy, I refuse to admit I am, or something like that. I wish she'd clarify her statement.

NO ONE CAN say Russians are too stubborn to trim their sails to changing conditions. For quite some time Italian young men, Communists among them, have been wearing extremely tight pants. Though ridiculous, the garment became a fashionable rage. Moscow condemned it as a bourgeoise and capitalistic monstrosity.

The fad spread into East Germany. Broad bottomed burghers appeared on the thoroughfares attired in pants, which made them look broader than ever. The Kremlin bosses want to keep East Germans happy.

Feeling their pals on the wrong side of Berlin would resent an edict which would ram legs back in baggy trousers, have given their approval of skin tight jobs.

From now on there will be no more sneering references to such capitalistic horrors. No matter how thick his legs or bulky his derriere, an East German Red can sheath himself in matador drawers without getting an official reprimand from the Kremlin. He's likely to get uncomplimentary giggles from the girls, though.

THERE ARE only three Latin-American dictators left on the scene . . . Trujillo, Somozo and Stroessner.

With what has happened to Strong Men during the past few years, they should feel a bit queasy.

Even though on the surface, they may appear as solid as the rock of Gibraltar, they need only consider that Batista and Peron, until a little while before their downfall, were just as confident.

With the surging desire for liberty, which fills the hearts of so many throughout the world, the seat of any dictator, no matter how powerful, becomes more shaky each day. The Humpty Dumpty bit seems tailor made for them.

WILLIAM C. HUNT, who spends winters in Coral Gables, did more than anyone else to build Wildwood, and, indeed, all Cape May County from a tiny fishing community into one of the great summer resorts of the New Jersey coast.

Bill is in his 87th year, and looks 20 years younger. One reason is his philosophy. He says: "Each dawn, when I wake, I thank God for another wonderful day that, whether it brings some happiness or some sorrow, is alive with interest. There are no dull days, though some are better than others. To get the most out of life one must have serenity, eagerness, stability, unfoldment."

If all of us could develop such an approach to life, what a beautiful world this would be.

8 Cubans Return to Pay Fines

Eight Cuban gun runners who claimed a major role in getting arms to Fidel Castro in the climactic days of the revolution came back to Miami in army planes to pay $200 fines each Friday.

Their lawyer told Federal District Judge Emett Choate they violated U.S. laws in trying to ship arms to overthrow Batista. But he said, they had a moral obligation to their countrymen.

He said two of the group already are members of the national police of the Castro government.

He urged Judge Choate to let them go back to roles they will have in Castro's militia, police or air force.

Their plan to ship arms valued at $50,000 was thwarted by Customs agents in a pre-dawn raid at Marathon Dec. 10.

"These men are not criminals, in the usual sense," said Judge Choate. "But we cannot overlook that they have violated our laws."

The eight were freed when their bondsmen gave assurance the fines will be paid. They were charged with conspiring to ship guns illegally.

Members of the group said they had succeeded with other arms shipments to Castro from the same point. "We sent a bigger load from Key Colony," said one after leaving the court room.

SMOOTH sailing for Fidel Castro in Cuba is predicted by Ernest Hemingway, above, specialist in violence. But he said there will be a period of violent readjustment. He warned outsiders must not interfere.

Car Stripped

Metro police Friday were looking for the owner of a stripped car found in south Dade with bullet holes riddling it.

But they said they had no immediate reason to think anybody was hurt in the car.

Miamian Hangs Self At Pahokee

Police said William Henry Miller, 48, of 705 Glen Royal Parkway, was jailed by State Trooper Henry George Emerson after the accident near Canal Point Friday morning.

Miller and Elijah Jones, Canal Point Negro, received minor injuries when Miller pulled in front of Jones' pickup truck, police said.

Miller, a salesman for a Miami metal company, was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way and was jailed at Pahokee when he failed to post bond.

Miller put a belt around his neck, tied the other end to the cell door, then jumped from the top of a double bunk.

Another inmate shouted for the jailer, but it was too late. Miller was pronounced dead by Coroner R. T. Bardin.

Federal Judge Takes Request Under Advisement

Ruling Due Soon on Shifting Mack's Trial Here

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews took under advisement Friday a request that the Channel 10 trial involving Richard Mack and Thurman Whiteside be transferred from Washington to Miami.

Judge Matthews indicated she will rule on that motion, as well as others, within the next week.

Whiteside, a Miami attorney, and Mack, former federal communications commissioner, were indicted on charges they conspired to have Mack sell his vote in the Channel 10 television award. It was awarded to National Airlines.

Mack and Whiteside requested a change in the trial site on the grounds that continuing and widespread publicity in Washington within the past year had created a prejudiced atmosphere which would make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial here.

Defense attorneys also said that a Washington trial would work a hardship on the defendants since virtually all of the witnesses reside in Miami. Also, they said, the expense of a Washington trial would be much greater.

Nicholas J. Chase, Mack's Washington attorney, emphasized that Mack is destitute and that he is "ill of mind and body — and seriously so."

He said Mack is unemployed, that his wife has gone to work and that he is living with his father in Fort Lauderdale.

Government attorneys, however, produced a letter from Dr. Thomas Armour Jr. of Coral Gables stating that Mack is "able to travel anywhere or to stand trial in the District of Columbia."

Armour said Mack is "perfectly clear and competent mentally" and that "I do not find now any physical condition which impairs his being able" to stand trial.

In support of their claim that there is a prejudiced atmosphere in Washington, defense attorneys showed Judge Matthews huge blowups of front page stories which have appeared in Washington newspapers.

Government attorneys retorted an FBI check of Miami papers showed that there was much more publicity on the case in Miami than there was in Washington.

Government attorneys said this would compare to 100 to 150 Washington newspaper articles produced by defense attorneys.

Whiteside appeared in court with his attorneys, Richard Hunt of Miami and Arthur Hilland of Washington. Mack did not show up.

Defense attorneys estimated the trial will last six weeks and indicated they will ask the judge to postpone the trial date now set for Feb. 16 if the judge denies the motion to transfer.

Elementary School Pupils Take Exercises in Street

By JOY WINANS
Herald Writer

AT FLORIDA CITY'S antique elementary school, kids take physical education classes in the streets.

There's no kitchen.

No library.

A shortage of textbooks.

And help is slow coming, claims Mayor Herman Lucerne. He adds:

"We're getting the old run around, like we have for the past 40 years."

But, says D. R. Snyder, assistant school superintendent, the people in that school aren't in such bad shape as they think they are.

A Herald reporter found 154 students in four small permanent classrooms and a portable.

In the fifth grade room, blackboards have surfaces so hard that chalk will barely mark them.

There are holes in the walls, so old that no one can remember how they got there.

The first and second grades, and the third and fourth grades, shared a classroom.

The acting principal, William C. Walden, teaches a class. When administrative problems arise, he leaves.

"It makes teaching difficult," he said.

The only storage rooms available are two wooden gardeners' sheds, where kerosene for heaters is kept dangerously nearby.

Food has to be hauled in from the Homestead school. Cutlery is bent and twisted.

Dade school officials have visited the tiny school recently, but PTA president, Mrs. Ernest Martin "isn't too impressed with promises of improvement."

She said, "We've heard it all before."

Assistant Superintendent Snyder claims the only cause for complaint is that Florida City wants a new school building.

"We cannot possibly build a new school building anywhere in the county with less than 300 enrollment. We do however," he added, "expect an increased enrollment to about 227 next year. At this time we shall provide additional class rooms."

Snyder also said that the supervisor of lunchrooms inspected the Florida City facilities, but that he has not yet received a report from her.

"The food the students get is as good as that at the Homestead school. In fact, we plan to enlarge on a central kitchen for several Dade County schools."

Snyder explained that the central kitchen idea is similar to catering service. "We feel that by buying food in large quanities, and preparing it for several schools, we can save on food costs and personnel, he added.

Snyder said he looked at the school recently and saw no evidence of holes in the wall.

"The people out at Florida City have been bargaining for a new school for some time. At one point when the enrollment was far below what it is now, we were going to have to abandon the school and send the pupils to Homestead," Snyder said.

"The parents put up a fight and promised the enrollment would increase. It has, and we're willing to do as much by the school as we can. If their enrollment reaches 300, they'll get a new building."

Policemen Give Kids A Train

By EDDIE GONG
Herald Turf Writer

NORTH MIAMI police were in the railroad business for awhile but switched their train before it got up a full head of steam.

It happened when a wealthy Bal Harbour millionaire gave Police Chief Karl Engle a complete miniature train set complete with two gas-operated engines, two flat cars, a caboose, a mile of track, a round house and crossing signs.

But the police got out of the railroad business quickly by presenting the whole railroad to Jim O'Grady, North Miami director of recreation.

"They've been having a wonderful time with the train," said O'Grady. "It would be great if we could start a model railroading club here and have some retired engineer advise the kids."

"The donor says he'll be glad to contribute some more equipment if the City accepts the gift," said Chief Engel.

A check at the recreation center showed a swarm of kids waiting their turn to ride the midget-size train.

There were even two little girls in the scramble for a ride.

City officials were not quite as enthusiastic. They were worried about their liability in case a child was injured on the gift train.

"We're going to have a safety engineer check the train out before we can accept it," said a city official.

There's one thing for sure. If the city says "no," there's going to be a lot of angry kids around.

$125,000 Award May Be Appealed

HIALEAH City Attorney Ralph Miles said Friday he will ask the Hialeah council to appeal a $125,000 damage suit the city lost — the largest in the municipality's history.

The suit involves damages awarded Mrs. Donald Revels, 5700 NW 114th St., for the May 25, 1957 dorwning of her husband when his car plunged into Hialeah's 53rd Street Canal.

Circuit Judge Pat Cannon recently ruled the city was negligent in not erecting adequate barriers or taking other proper safety measures at the scene of the accident.

Unless a Supreme Court decision reverses the Circuit Court judgment, additional taxes will have to be placed on Hialeah property owners to cover the amount. The city's insurance does not cover the $125,000 awarded by the Circuit Court, Miles said.

The city would also face the possibility of large awards of damages in similar suits, the city attorney said.

The skeleton of Revels, a 31-year-old barber, was taken from his car in the canal at the end of East Fifth Street about two months after he was reported missing.

His car was found beneath a second car, which plunged into the canal at the same location July 27, 1957. Sterling L. Davis, its driver, also drowned.

Police Duty Transfer Is Balked

Circuit Judge Pat Cannon Friday denied a NORTH MIAMI request to transfer the city police communications system to the county-wide Metro safety department, after Police Chief Karl Engel testified that it would disrupt his department.

Judge Cannon has enjoined the city from disrupting the police department by turning most of its duties to Metro, until after Circuit Judge Ray Pearson decides a mandamus suit filed against the city by Chief Engel.

E. F. P. Brigham, attorney for Engle, told Judge Cannon that to give Metro the communications system would "saturate" the county service to the point of inefficiency and "split" the command between Metro and Engel.

It also would go counter to the injunction order as "to take the communications part is just as harmful to the people of North Miami as it would be to take the whole department," he said.

Mediator Appointed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Francis A. O'Neill Jr., New York City Republican, was nominated by President Eisenhower Friday for another term as a member of the National Mediation Board. The new term expires Feb. 1, 1962.

Fair Plans Are Still In Works

By JOY WINANS
Herald Staff Writer

Plans for Homestead's third annual South Florida Fair which seemed to be washed up early this week, are still in the works.

Fair Chairman E. Merle Young, once prominent in the Truman administration mink coat scandal and now a motel owner in Homestead, said Friday that reported difficulties over Dade County Health Department demands were all wet.

Early in the week, City Manager J. B. Henderson told the City Council that sanitation demands for the fair would require the building of a sewer.

"The sanitation department merely made suggestions," said Young Friday. "Chamber of Commerce directors met with the department and are working it out. As far as I'm concerned the fair is still on."

Jerry Carty, president of the Homestead-Redland Chamber of Commerce, confirmed this.

A letter to Henderson from the health department "recommended" rather than demanded that sanitation improvements be made.

"What they are concerned about is our sewage disposal and the piping of fresh water to the fair. This afternoon the department agreed that septic tanks, drain fields and fresh water piped from a two-inch well on the fair site, would serve the purpose," Carty said.

Fair plans were dampened earlier by the disapproval of most of the Homestead merchants. But a meeting between merchants and the Chamber of Commerce resulted in a slim majority for the fair.

TRUE ☐
FALSE ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

IN A SENSE, TRUE. But there are some good signs everyone should know. Are you generally well-poised so that you don't easily become excited? When you make mistakes, do you get up and go on instead of spending much time and energy regretting them? Can you see others succeed and be honored for it without feeling uneasy? Do you have the habit of happiness? Do you usually enjoy life? These aren't all, but some of the good signs.

Are disobedient children more easily excited?
Yes———— No————

No. According to one study of 67 four year olds in one nursery school, for instance, the disobedient children were more quarrelsome and cruel. They were more impatient. They were less affectionate and friendly, and had less social poise than many others. But they were not more excitable.

More girls date:
Different boys———— The Same Boy————

Different boys. More than twice as many girls who date at all, say they date different boys (67 per cent) than the same boy (21 per cent) according to the University of Michigan study of adolescent girls. The younger the girl, the greater the likelihood that she dates different boys, although more than half (55 per cent) of those over 16 do so, likewise.

ANY Cadillac owner knows just what we mean by "54—62—$1,495." If you're not a Cadillac owner and would like to be one, then here is your golden opportunity. We say "Golden" because at the special sale price of only $1,495 our 1954 CADILLAC "62" 4-door sedan is priced way below it's actual market value.

There's all the extras too — POWER STEERING — POWER WINDOWS — 2 WAY POWER SEAT — DUAL RANGE HYDRAMATIC, a special Motorola Volumatic "8" tube push button radio, clock, directional signals, E.Z. eye Solex tinted glass, safety padded dash board and U.S. Royal Master white wall tires.

I'VE just returned from road-testing this smooth performer and, belive me, you can have 10 mechanics look it over. It's a real one. Naturally its guaranteed in writing by Grentner Bros. for 90 days and — Best of all — No Cash is needed for the down payment — Just trade in your 1950 model automobile.

Herb Score Encouraged Over His Own and Indians' Future

FORT LAUDERDALE—Back in 1957, Catcher Clyde McCullough and I chatted about various things as the plane carrying the Marlins droned towards Rochester. One of the conversational topics was Herb Score, brilliant young Cleveland pitcher.

HERB SCORE

"Herb can become the greatest left-hander of all time, if something doesn't happen to him," McCullough mused.

The plane landed and we saw from the newspaper headlines that "something" had happened to Score. He had been hit over the eye by a line drive. This was the beginning of many worries for Herb.

He recovered from the eye injury, but last spring he hurt his ankle and this led to a sore arm. Now weighing 201 pounds and concerned only with soaking up sunshine, renewing acquaintances with old friends and improving his golf game, Herb is back at his Lake Worth home. He returned there Thursday night for a vacation.

"I'm encouraged over my own future and that of the Indians," said Score, who has been doing ticket and public relations work for his ball club in Cleveland.

"The fans have been showing more interest in our revamped team; Frank Lane has really changed things around and I'm sure we're going to do okay."

Score thinks trade-acquired players will bolster the Indians, particularly Jim Piersall, acquired from the Red Sox.

"Piersall is a great defensive player," said Score, who knows the value of agile outfielders to a pitcher. "He was off last year in hitting, but Jim has a lifetime batting average of .275."

He'll Tackle Any Leftie But One

SCORE WILL remain in Florida until he joins the Indians for spring training at Tucson, Feb. 22.

"Sure, I'll play in the Baseball Players' golf tournament at Miami Springs next month," Score replied to a question.

PEARSON

Herb was happy to hear director George Jacobus will have a special division for southpaws. He is willing to take on any leftie, except Albie Pearson, the tiny fellow who won the tournament last year and earned the higher honor of American League rookie of the year.

"Most little guys don't take a full cut at a baseball," said Score. "It doesn't bother Pearson. He takes a man-sized cut."

Score did a little exercising in the YMCA gym, but he's leaving the serious training for the Indians' Arizona camp. He thinks his arm will be okay.

Williams Admits He Can Hit

SAMMY SNEAD came down from his Boca Raton club to watch the girl golfers compete in the Doherty. He chatted about his friend and business associate, Ted Williams, who'll give it another try with the Red Sox.

SAMMY SNEAD

"Wonder how much Ted will get?" Snead mused. Informed Williams' salary could be reduced only 25 per cent from the reported $125,000, Sammy grinned and allowed, "That's a pretty good arrangement."

Snead told of Fred Corcoran, business advisor for many athletes, kidding Williams. Fred said to Ted, "You can't run and field in oldtime form."

Sammy chuckled as he recalled, "Ted looked Fred in the eye and remarked, "Yeah, but I can still hit.' "

* * *

Talks Frankly to Ted

SNEAD REMEMBERED a fishing trip with Williams in the keys.

"Ted talked so loud that I told him they could hear him back at Homestead, and that anyway I wasn't deaf."

Williams told Snead, "I guess it's just a habit, talking loud."

* * *

It's Not How Much You Weigh

MARLENE STEWART STREIT paused to kid with Snead and inquired, "Are you going to stick around and pick up some pointers from the girls?"

"Naw, said Snead. "Three of my favorite golfing pigeons are waiting for me at Boca." But he did stick around to watch Marlene win her match and was much impressed with her skill.

J. Bradley Streit allowed his niece, who weighs little more than 100 pounds, might do better on the links if she weighed more.

"I don't think so," said Snead. "It's skill not weight that helps you score."

Wild Over the Colts

YOU DO not escape football talk at a golf tournament, not with two enthusiastic Colt fans like Mary Ann Downey and Mrs. Maurice Glick, both of Baltimore, around . . . They reported the city is wild over the pro team which last year earned the NFL title that eluded them in 1957 . . . There is a reason for Diana Hoke being such a good golfer at the age of 16 . . . She is the granddaughter of the famed Bobby Cruickshank and it delights him that since she was two years old Diana has been more interested in golf clubs than dolls . . . Mrs. William Hartson of California is considered the "George Bayer" of the women in hitting long drives . . . Hialeah's $25,000 Royal Palm

13 Take Shot at Favored Nadir

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Nadir is the top-heavy favorite to capture Hialeah's $25,000 added Royal Palm handicap today but he didn't scare many away.

Thirteen horses will oppose the Claiborne Farm ace in this nine-furlong tuneup for the $100,000 Widener Handicap.

Bill Hartack rides Nadir, getting his last big ride before sitting out a 10-day suspension. There are two interesting jockey changes in the Royal Palm.

Kingmaker, last year's winner of the Royal Palm, drew the number 1 post position and will be handled by Ismael Valenzuela if he goes postward. Happy Hill Farm previously indicated Kingmaster would start only if the track turned up muddy.

Adding an international flavor and a bit of mystery to today's feature is the appearance of the Argentine-bred Petare.

This eight-year-old South American won six stakes last season in Venezuela and has been assigned equal top weight of 120 pounds with Nadir.

Another invader is Our Sirdar, a Canadian stakes performer which figures to be an outsider in this field.

Larry Gilligan will be aboard A Dragon Killer, which figures to be second choice to the favored Nadir. The race will be telecast nationally with Channel 7 providing local coverage.

Streit, Goodwin, Burns, McIntire In Doherty Semis

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

FORT LAUDERDALE — Little Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, ambitious to add the Doherty championship to the numerous major golfing titles she already holds, Friday was hard-pressed to reach the semi-finals of this tournament.

Mrs. Streit had to settle for a 1-up victory over Mrs. William Hartson, Los Angeles, in the quarter-finals played in drenching rainstorms over the Coral Ridge Country Club course.

She meets Marge Burns, Greensboro, N.C., who also had to wait until the 18th for her 1-up victory over youthful Nancy Roth, Hollywood.

In the other duel, Joanne Goodwin, Hoverhill, Mass., 1956 champion, plays Barbara McIntire, Lake Park, making her fifth start in the Doherty.

The four veterans had to survive two rounds, plus the added hazard of rain. No matter who wins today, the tourney appears assured of a highly competitive 36-hole final Sunday.

Miss Goodwin beat her golfing pal, Betty Kerby, Akron, Ohio, 3-2 in the quarter-finals. Joanne matched men's par of 35 on the front nine but turned even. The 12th hole produced the unusual spectacle of Betty having to down a 12-foot putt to match the birdie two which her rival scored on a 50-foot putt.

Miss McIntire, whose consistency helped her reach the semi-finals for the first time, beat Dale Fleming, Tulsa, 5-4, in the quarter-finals.

Miss Burns, co-medalist of this tournament with a 76, turned two-down to Miss Roth, 19-year-old former University of Miami student. Marge, five-time North Carolina champion, started her rally by sinking a 30-foot putt at the 10th for an eagle three.

Mrs. Streit, beaten in previous Doherty finals by Grace DeMoss and Mary Ann Downey, started the soppy final nine 1-up, but lost the advantage when Mrs. Hartson chipped in for an eagle three on the 10th to trump Marlene's four.

The weather started playing havoc with the golfers' shots, and Marlene twice had to rally, succeeding when she won the 16th and 17th holes with pars and got down in two putts to match her foe's par five on the 18th.

7 Starters Drop Out

'Dream Boat' Ariel V Zooms To Front in Race to Gun Cay

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

In a fantastic performance, a "dream boat" Friday night was running away from a million-dollar fleet in the third annual Miami to Gun Cay Light Yacht Race.

Designed by Miamian Warren Bailey and skippered by veteran Horace Binney, the revolutionary 44-foot yawl Ariel V wrested the lead in the race's early minutes and still had it when darkness secreted the fleet.

By that time, north-northeast winds whipping up to 30 miles an hour already had eliminated seven of 20 starters — one with a splintered mast, the rest with mangled sails.

Out-pointing and out-footing other yachts virtually from the start in the rough Atlantic, Ariel V rounded the Port Everglades sea bouy at 5:45 p.m. with a seven-minute lead over Good Hope.

To the land-locked, that may not seem like much difference. To a sailor, it will be shocking.

As scratch boat in the handicap race, Dick Richardson's 62-foot Good Hope must concede two hours, seven minutes and 39 seconds to Ariel V in the 71-mile race.

The 38-year-old Bailey, builder of two other yachts in the fleet, said flatly in a national magazine article last March:

"I've got a design of my own that . . . if properly sailed . . . would be faster than any boat of her size racing today in any kind of weather."

Binney believed what he read, commissioned Bailey to build a yawl with a wide unconventional flare in its bow—and Friday they began backing up Warren's boast.

Jack Price's 39-foot yawl Comanche, designed by Wirth Munroe of Miami and also built by Bailey, was hard on Good Hope's stern when they reached Port Everglades.

Earlier, she had lost time while replacing a blown-out jib after beating the fleet across the starting line when the getaway signal was hoisted aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Androscoggin at 3 p.m.

At 5:58, Hank Burkard's 38-foot cutter, Meteor II, was fourth to complete the first windward leg, followed by Drayton Cochran in the 40-foot yawl, CaVa, at 6:05.

In sixth place at that time was Sandy Holt's 39-foot yawl, Hoot Mon, trailed by Dr. Herbert Virgin's 44-foot yawl, Electra.

Observer Bob Altemus, aboard Androscoggin, reported others were well strung out when the leaders knifed into the rough, strong-flowing Gulf Stream.

Trouble began soon after the start under sullen skies and in a turbulent sea.

Harriet, 36-foot sloop skippered by John Primich of Gary, Ind., lost its mast in the first hour and had to be towed back into port by a Coast Guard 83-footer.

Leaders were expected to complete the 71-mile course with the dawn today.

Hartack Set Down 10 Days For 'Careless Riding'

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Jockey Bill Hartack, former national riding champion, felt the wrath of the Hialeah Stewards Friday when he was suspended for ten days for "careless riding."

Hartack will be "grounded" eight racing days for the suspension starting January 25 thru February 3.

The ruling of the stewards reads: "Hartack is suspended 10 days for "careless riding approaching the far turn in the seventh race Thursday."

In this event eight horses running abreast were fighting for the lead when Am Pausing ridden by Jockey Charles Durando, was forced against the inside rail and Durando suffered injuries to his leg Jockey Howard Grant was slightly hurt in the melee.

According to the stewards Hartack allowed his mount What's Required to "drift in" and was responsible for the jam.

Hartack who won the national title in 1955, 56 and 57 (three consecutive years) was suspended twice last year at Atlantic City.

According to his agent Chick Lang, Hartack will do a little fishing starting Sunday. He will be permitted to ride out his engagements at Hialeah today which include Clairborne Farm Nadir in the featured $25,000 added Royal Palm Handicap.

Another top-flight jockey was in "conference" with the stewards Friday when Howard Grant, who finished second on Marymount Miss in the "Baby" race, was disqualified and deleted from the money for interference.

Mrs. S. H. Sadaccs's Sandy's Sis W paid $8.80 to win the race and through disqualification of Marymount Miss, Carla Gal was moved to second and Madre third.

Grass Race

Round Table Totes 132 On Coast

ARCADIA, Calif. — (AP) — Round Table, racing's all time money winner, packs top weight of 132 pounds today in the $25,000-added San Marcos Handicap over Santa Anita's mile and a quarter grass course.

The 1958 horse of the year has been beaten only once in his life on the grass. If any horse can do it today, handicappers feel it's Anxious Moments, who'll carry 15 pounds less than the Table.

Round Table, an entry with Tall Chief II, will have Willie Shoemaker in the saddle.

The Kerr Stable color bearer will be going the same distance and carrying the same weight assigned for the $145,000-guaranteed Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 28.

In a companion stakes for lady horses, C. V. Whitney's Bug Brush goes after her third stakes victory in a row. She is high weighted at 127 for the $25,000-added Santa Maria Handicap.

Legislator Hits Boxing

HARTFORD, Conn. — (AP) — A Democratic state legislator would make it a crime to promote a boxing match, participate in one, or watch one.

This haymaker was launched at the fight game by Sen. Russell I. Boyce of Wallingford.

The Boyce Bill recommends a fine of $1,000 and time in jail for any person who is a principal or second in a fight. There's also a $500 fine and a possible prison sentence for those who go to a fight or cause one to occur — even if they don't watch.

Red Raiders Hand Stings 40-32 Loss

The host Stingarees, who had an eight-game winning streak broken, were erratic with their shooting. In contrast to other games, the Stings also were out-rebounded, as Edison's Jim Causey and Shelby Lee cleared the boards.

Miami High pulled ahead only once, 23-22, early in the third quarter. But Causey hit a pair of baskets and Edison was never again in trouble.

Edison's Charlie Keys took scoring honors with 12 points, while Causey followed with 11. Ronnie Poh, Edison's usual high scorer, was held to 9. One of Miami High's biggest guns, Buddy Coleman, got only four points.

Miami High has a 10-3 record; and Edison is now 3-5.

Thorobreds Play Host To W. Palm

Hialeah's once-beaten Thorobreds will be host to strong West Palm Beach tonight in what should be a high-scoring prep basketball game.

Both teams have big shooters — Bernie Butts for Hialeah and Verle Beebe for Palm Beach — and both clubs have been better on offense than defense this season.

Hialeah's only loss was to Miami High last Tuesday night. The Thorobreds have won eight. They beat Palm Beach, 75-59, earlier in the season.

North Miami will visit Edison and try to stop high-scoring Ronnie Poh.

Hialeah Overcomes N. Miami

Hialeah High, with Bernie Butts hitting eight last quarter points, surged back from a 47-35 deficit to nudge North Miami, 58-56, in a Gold Coast Conference basketball game Friday night.

After Dick Krtausch's tipin forced a 52-52 tie with three minutes left, Butts dumped in two quick baskets to shove the Thorobreds out of danger.

Butts finished with 19 points, tops for Hialeah but a distance second to Tom Baxley's 26 for North Miami. Baxley, a 5-9 junior, led the third period surge which shoved the Pioneers into their short-lived lead.

York Bowlers Break Record

Mickey Howell paced the team with a 619 set of her own, while Rose Ortega posted 616. Other members' scores: Evie Tietz 603, Mary Lou Graham 606, and Alice Swanson 515.

7-Foot McCoy Opposes UM Frosh Monday

Awaiting admittance to the University of Miami, McCoy will perform against the UM freshmen in a 7 p.m. preliminary to the varsity's game with Kentucky Wesleyan at Beach Auditorium.

He will be in the lineup of the Hurricanes' "ineligible team," formally tagged as the Opa-loca Amateurs.

Also in Opa-locka uniforms will be two other talented ineligibles—Guard Julie Cohen, highly-regarded transfer from New York University, and Guard Chris Stavreti, who attended Western Michigan for one season.

McCoy, whose departure from Northwestern because he was "unhappy" caused considerable consternation, hopes to enter the UM in February.

No official will be taken, however, until his grades transcript arrives from Northwestern for review by Miami's Admissions Committee.

The Opa-locka lineup also will include Billy Talbot, a guard on last season's Hurricane varsity.

In the varsity game, the Hurricanes will give away stature for the first time this season. Kentucky Wesleyan's starting five averages 6-5 in height.—LUTHER EVANS.

Archie Guaranteed $450,000

Orange Bowl Eyed For Moore-Ray Go

By MEL DERRICK
Herald Sports Writer

Actor George Raft, promoting a proposed Sugar Ray Robinson-Archie Moore match for Moore's light heavyweight championship as furiously as he ever played a movie role, Friday:

1—Offered Moore a $450,000 guarantee, same as he offered Middleweight Champion Robinson in Miami Jan. 9.

2—Said Robinson had "verbally agreed" to the match.

"I'm awfully sure the match will be made," said the husky-voiced Raft from Beverly Hills, Calif. "Robinson is apparently in. Now we're waiting to hear from Doc Kearns (Moore's manager)."

In Miami, Kearns emphasized he had not made any definite commitments, but added:

"Unless something unforeseen comes up, it looks like the fight is made.

"I want to weight all offers, of course, and sift out the best one. But the best one thus far is Raft's."

Raft, who said he hoped to meet with Kearns, Moore and Robinson in Miami on or before Feb. 15 to sign for the fight, listed Havana, Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Miami as possible sites.

"A Miami fight would depend mostly on Robinson," he said, "since it would have to be in March to take advantage of the winter season and I don't know how soon Robinson could get into fighting shape.

"If we don't go to Miami, we'll lean toward a summer date — to take advantage of drive-ins for our theater TV."

Kearns, who managed Jack Dempsey to five separate million dollar gates including boxing's all-time record of $2,658,660 for Dempsey's second fight with Gene Tunney, called the Moore - Robinson match "another Dempsey-Tunney."

"This is a great fight, a helluva box office attraction," he said. "It could do three million dollars with theater TV."

A Miami spokesman for Raft's group agreed.

"A lot of people will want this match," he said. "A lot of promoters will try for it.

"But whatever they (other promoters) offer, we'll up it, providing their offer is a bona fide one."

The announced guarantees would give Moore the largest purse of his career and Robinson his second largest. Moore received $241,187 for his vain attempt to wrest the heavyweight title from Rocky Marciano Sept. 21, 1955. Robinson had a $483,666 paycheck for his first fight with Carmen Basilio Sept. 23, 1957.

"Georgie Raft told me he knew the people who've got all the money we need," said Kearns. "When they talk that kind of money, you know I like to be there."

Kearns said he had discussed the fight with Robinson at length, and that the middleweight champion and former welterweight title-holder wanted "very much a crack at Moore's light heavy title.

"And Moore will fight anybody anywhere," he said.

"These guarantees we're offering may sound like a lot of money," Raft admitted, "but we'll be willing to gamble on the fight paying off.

"This is a dream match. It could be the biggest in history."

Bauer OK's 'Best' Pact, Yogi Balks

NEW YORK — (AP) — Hank Bauer signed the best contract of his 12 years as a New York Yankee Friday and predicted he would play at least four more years — until he's 40.

The hustling outfielder, whose main asset is his ability to come through in crucial spots, signed for $31,000, an estimated raise of $1,000.

The 36-year-old native of East St. Louis, Ill., thus became the first Yankee to sign —and probably the easiest. It took Bauer and Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey only five minutes to get together. Bauer had dropped into the Yankee offices in a surprise visit while en route from Manchester, N.H., to his home in Kansas City.

Even as Bauer was telling reporters how happy he was over his new contract, teammate Gil McDougals was closeted with George Weiss trying to convince the Yankee general manager why his salary should not be cut.

Earlier in the day Yogi Berra had an unsuccessful salary confab with Weiss. Berra, Veteran All-Star catcher, may be used at first base this year.

Jet Colonel Seeks 'Title'

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— The $10,000-added Pelleteri Handicap opens the Fair Grounds' stakes program today and offers Jet Colonel a chance to wrap up the track's sprint championship.

The six furlong event drew 20 nominations but only a field of nine or ten is expected to go to the post. Should 10 go, the race will gross $13,500 with the winner picking up a check for $10,000.

Jet Colonel has scored in three of his four starts at the meeting.

Pro Grid Officials Table Pension Plan; Busso Predicts Win

From Herald Wire Services

The player pension issue was put off until April and the player draft reduced from 30 rounds to 20 Friday as National Football League owners wound up their annual winter meeting.

Commissioner Bert Bell announced the owners would study pension proposals, then meet for further consideration on the subject April 23 in Chicago.

Sports Roundup

Most of the meeting could be described in one word—negative. Eleven proposed rule changes were either defeated or withdrawn.

The new 20-round draft will be held sometime before the end of the regular season, probably the first week of December.

BASKETBALL: The National Basketball Association will name a committee to study the possibilities of realignment and expansion. One city, San Francisco, has made formal plea for acceptance and half a dozen others have indicated a willingness to join . . . Marshall Hughes, head cage coach at Texas, said he will resign at the end of the current season "to go into teaching."

* * *

TRACK: Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow makes his debut on an indoor track tonight when he runs three dashes in the Washington Evening Star Games. Hurdler Glenn Davis, and pole vaulters Bob Gutowski and Don Bragg are other standouts. Gutowski, who holds the world record, finished fourth last week at Boston, Bragg winning with a 15-foot leap.

* * *

BOXING: Johnny Busso predicts he will give Lightweight Champ Joe Brown "a beating he'll never forget" when they meet in their Houston title bout Feb. 1. "I beat him (in Miami Beach) in 10 rounds," he bragged, "This time I'll have five more rounds to work on him." . . . It took new welterweight champ Don Jordan only three rounds to dispose of Alvaro Gutierrez of Mexico in a non-title 10-rounder in Los Angeles Thursday night.

* * *

* * *

ET CETERA: Donald Lillis, president of Bowie Race Track, said he favors nine-race programs for Maryland's mile tracks and indicated he'd like the one-race expansion before the Bowie winter program starts Feb. 7 . . . The Atlanta Touchdown Club's 20th Jamboree, a two-day affair, began Friday with Florida Coach Bob Woodruff one of the early arrivals. Woodruff immediately predicted the return of the drop-kick for extra points because of the wider goal posts ("and we have just the boy to do it in Bobby Joe Green"). Terry Brennan, former Notre Dame head coach, will deliver the main speech tonight . . . Two French auto enthusiasts, Paul Coltelloni and Pierre Alexandre, climaxed a climb from the bottom by winning the over-all trophy in the 28th Monte Carlo Auto Rally. Driving a Citroen, they finished the 2,000-mile run Thursday with 308 penalty points. The women's trophy went to Britain's Ann Wisdom and Pat Moss, sister of racedriver Stirling Moss.

West Stars Rip East, 124-108

DETROIT —(AP)— Brilliant Bob Pettit and Rookie Elgin Baylor led the Western Division All-Stars to a 124-108 triumph over the East Friday night in the National Basketball Association's ninth annual All-Star game.

The two players—Petitt of the Defending World Champion St. Louis Hawks, and Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers — were named co-winners of the game's Most Valuable Player award. This is the first time in NBA All-Star history that two players have shared the honors. It also is the first time a rookie has received the MVP honor.

Pettit scored 25 points and Baylor 24 as the Western All-Stars seized the lead late in the second period and made a run-away of the mid-season classic.

This is the third time Pettit has won or shared the Most Valuable Player award.

It was another St. Louis star, Cliff Hagan, who provided the spark that sent the West Stars to the front.

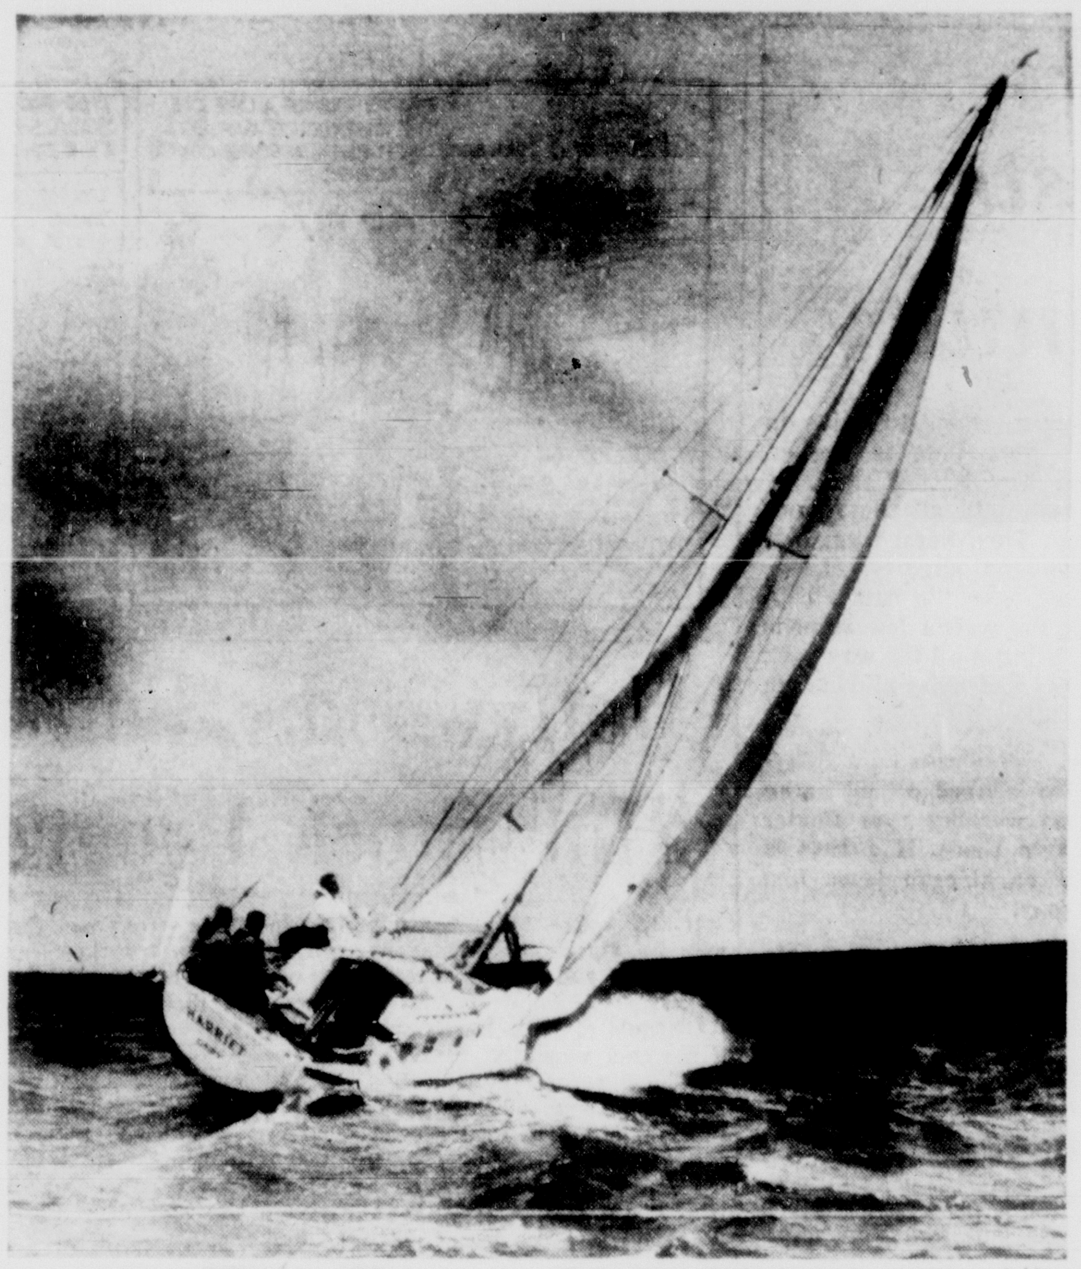
Ward: 'Credit To Big Eight'

LINCOLN, Neb. —(AP)— University of Nebraska football Coach Bill Jennings said Friday Coach Dal Ward of Colorado has been "a credit to the (Big Eight) conference."



On Her Ear

. . . and surging to windward with full sails putting a strain on her mast is John Primich's 36-foot sloop, Harriet, from Gary, Ind., in early portion of the Miami-Gun Cay Light race. The strain was too much—the mast soon splintered and Harriet had to be towed to port by the Coast Guard.

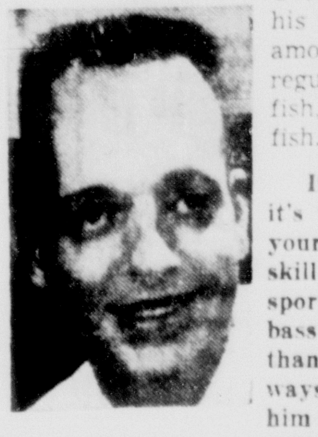
More Moods Than a Wife

Bass Fishing Tests Your Skill, Ingenuity

Fish are not judged by pull alone. If you don't believe it, go out and hunt for an angler who doesn't like to fish for bass.

After you fish salt water for awhile, it is obvious that the largemouth bass could not pull his weight against any of the game species that inhabit the sea. Yet he never loses his appeal, not even among men who fish regularly for sailfish, tarpon or bonefish.



DUNAWAY

In bass fishing, it's the challenge to your ingenuity and skill that makes the sport intriguing. A bass has more moods than a wife. You always have to figure him out before you can hope to fill up your stringer.

One day he may smash a surface plug with such viciousness that your hair stands on end and you suddenly develop six thumbs. Then next time out he might respond only to a live shiner, presented just so in front of his nose.

Sometimes he cruises the shallows, nosing for food among thick weeds. Later he sulks in the deepest water he can find. Often he will not bite at all, regardless of what you offer him.

* * *

Work Plug Very Slowly

I DID NOT intend to suggest that bass aren't great fighters — simply that they are not known for strength and perserverance.

A bass battle seldom lasts very long, but you have all the fight you can handle while he holds out. A high-jumping bass, with gills flared red against a dark morning sky, is one of the top thrills in fishing.

So, for my money, is the smash of a largemouth at a topwater plug. When you coax a bass into hitting your floater it is always a great boost to the ego, because the variety of possible surface retrieves is endless and a strike is proof positive that you have selected the right one.

Usually bass are more apt to strike on the surface when your plug is worked slower than slow. Try letting the bait rest after your cast until all the ripples have cleared away. Then barely jiggle it by vibrating your rod slightly. If the strike doesn't come, give the bait a couple of short jerks and wait a few seconds more. After that, bring it all the way back with as much speed and noise as you can combine.

Another thing. Never pass up a fishy-looking spot — say a weed pocket or an old log — without working your floater over it two or three times. If a bass is there, you might be able to tease him into a fighting frenzy.

All the trickery is not confined to topwater lures. One of the extra touches you can apply with a sinking bait is to cast a weedless spoon onto the shore, then slide it into the water.

Great Year for Bass

SOUTH FLORIDA does not produce many whopper bass, but for sheer numbers our canal fishing is equal to any in the state. Besides, bass average only a pound or two wherever you catch them.

OUTDOORS

. . . with Vic Dunaway

This year has been a great one for bass in the Tamiami Canal alongside U.S. Highway 41 — probably the best in history. It's still going so strong that your main problem, on weekends, is to find a parking place out that way.

Live chubs, live small bream, and artificial worms and eels have accounted for the greater portion of Tamiami Canal Bass.

Canals along U.S. 27 north of Miami have been producing equally well. And Lake Okeechobee is an easy one-day trip for Miamians.

If you prefer fishing from a boat, camps are located handily along the Tamiami Canal and on the Miami Canal, just north of Hialeah on U.S. 27.

Orbea Holds Cesta Lead By 15 Points

Fernando Orbea, the 22-year-old Basque sensation touted to sweep the major titles at Miami Jai Alai Fronton, proved equal to his first serious test this week.

Breezing along in the early weeks Orbea appeared set to with the title in a canter. However, over the past two weeks, Larranaga, Guarita and Churruca all caught fire and cut Orbea's lead to a mere eight points.

The youngster refused to fold, however, and added eight points to his total with a victory and a place finish. He now shows a total of 64 points, giving him a 15-point edge over Larranaga through 35 nights of play.

Guarita is third with 45 points, followed by Charruca, Isidoro and Soozabal.

Vergara Dania Favorite

Vergara, a Basque with a high-bouncing forehand shot and a bevy of in-the-money finishes in the fourth game at Dania Jai Alai, is the likely fourth game favorite again tonight.

Vergara, son of Chiquito de Vegara, who helped set up a pension fund for retired pelotaris, is also entered in three other contests — the sixth, eighth, and 12 game National Doubles Championships.

Vergara's special shot rebounds off the court's floor so quickly and so high that opponents have trouble getting into position for a return.

Hollywood, Hialeah List 'Hot' Stock Programs

If it's warm tonight, there will be stock car racing at Hollywood and Hialeah speedways.

Officials of both tracks said if the cold snap continues, the scheduled races will be called off. Hialeah set 60 degrees as the minimum temperatures for races.

Hialeah drivers have been idle for three weeks and they are anxious to try their cars because they have been tinkering with their autos during the layoff.

Eight events of open competition are scheduled at Hialeah with Marion Edwards, Hank Pollard, Charlie Monk, Bill Flingos, Lamar Sloan, Ray Jenelle and Alan Clarke heading the field.

Hollywood offers a seven race card, including a 30-lap professional feature and a 20-lap amateur feature. Bobby Johns and Al Gorham are favored in the 30-lapper. Newcomer Lyle Puckheiser will be trying for his second straight amateur feature victory.

Hollywood's races start at 8:15 while Hialeah's commence at 8:30.

Hinnant, Bowdry Due Here Today

Jesse Bowdry, St. Louis light-heavyweight contender, and Washington's Clarence Hinnant arrive here today to begin final drills for their Tuesday night main event at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Bowdry, world's eighth-ranked contender in the division and a winner in 23 of 26 bouts, and Hinnant, coming back after a long layoff, will work out at the Fifth Street gymnasium shortly after their arrival. Both are expected to spar today and tomorrow before tapering off on Monday.

Meanwhile Promoter Chris Dundee announced he had matched Waymon Dawson, Youngstown, O., and Chico Velez, New York, in the 10-round semi-final on the card.

Dawson, a protege of Billy Conn, has won 10 of 14.

And Everybody's Happy

Williams Inks Baseball's Richest Contract: 125 G's

BOSTON — (AP) — Boston's fabulous Ted Williams renewed baseball's richest contract Friday by signing with the Red Sox for upwards of $125,000 for the 1959 season.

The 40-year-old slugger signed in a 25-minute meeting with newly-appointed Red Sox general manager Buckey Harris and Joe Cronin, who is moving from the Boston job to the presidency of the American League.

"I bet Bucky hopes he never has any more trouble signing other players than that," Ted quipped while posing for photographers.

As, usual, everybody was happy and smiling during Williams' annual mid-winter visit to the Red Sox front office. But all wanted to duck the subject of money.

Asked if he had anything to say about the size of the contract, Williams said:

"We haven't for 20 years, so why start now?"

Although there was official silence, the best guesses were that the great outfielder would receive $125,000. However, some estimates went as high as $135,000.

Williams signed his first contract with the Red Sox as a gangling kid in 1938. He was farmed out to Minneapolis that season, but returned to the Red Sox the next year to stay.

Although it was only his 19th pact, Ted becomes a 20-year man in the American League May 30 as his tours as a Marine flyer in World War II and the Korean conflict are included as playing time.

Williams, well-tanned and appearing slimmer than a year ago, reiterated previous statements that he has not set any personal goals for 1959 as in other seasons.

"However, I hope to do as well as last year," he said.

Ted said he thought his .328 mark — which earned him his sixth batting title last year — was "a little low to lead the league" and an average of ".340 might make it this season."

With 482 lifetime homers, only 13 behind Lou Gehrig, the fourth most productive slugger in that department, Ted said he doesn't plan to go for the fences, but admitted he hopes to hit the 500 mark.

Williams was handicapped by a bad ankle much of last season and had to close with a rush to edge out teammate Pete Runnels for the batting championship. He also hit 26 homers and drove in 85 runs.

"I feel a lot better and am in better shape than last winter even though I haven't been able to work out," he said. "I've been very busy with my fishing tackle business."

Ted plans to remain in New England until Monday to help promote his off-season business and then return to Miami.

Mackles Get Strong Derby Hope: Atoll

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

The Mackle brothers of Miami hope to have not one but two candidates in the many $100,000 races for three-year-olds on the 1959 turf calendar.

A few weeks ago Elliott, Robert and Frank Mackle invested $100,000 or more to obtain a colt named Atoll. The brothers, who have been racing horses under the banner of Elkcam Stable for 12 years, had never owned a horse good enough for the classic three-year-old events such as the Flamingo, Florida Derby, etc.

Purchase of Atoll assured them of a candidate worthy of challenging the best colts in the land. Atoll was ranked among the top half-dozen of his generation last season. He won five of 12 starts and lost one event to the champion, First Landing, by only a neck.

What makes the 1959 outlook so rosy for Elkcam Stable is the fact that the Mackles already had a potential "classic" horse in their barn when they acquired Atoll.

That would be Open View. In sharp contrast to what they paid for Atoll, the Mackles got Open View for a paltry $7,500. Trainer Ray Metcalf haltered this fellow last June in what may turn out to be the bargain claim of the year.

Elkcam already has rejected a $35,000 offer for Open View. And you couldn't buy him today for $75,000.

Open View gave Hialeah fans a demonstration of his talent Thursday by throttling a good field of sprinters. Now he is awaiting the $20,000 Bahamas at seven furlongs Feb. 4. After that he'll shoot for First Landing and the $100,000 Flamingo.

Atoll, given a vacation after closing the season with a stakes victory at Jamaica, won't be ready for the Flamingo but he'll run as an entry with Open View in the Florida Derby.

The Mackle family has been in the construction and realty business in Miami for a quarter of a century. Their trainer, Metcalf, has been a resident of Miami Springs since 1941.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed and hoping both colts stay healthy," said Metcalf. "If they do, they're going to be rough to beat."

Sultry Goes At Beach

Bronze Majesty is entered in the sixth race over the O. P. Smith Course and will find some stiff competition from Bet I Can and Amble, a pair of fast closing greyhounds that chased him to the wire in their last meeting.

Sultry will make a strong effort to extend her winning races to three when she parades to the post in the eighth also over the Smith Course. Her opposition is Silver Zip, My Wire, Go N Win, National Beauty, Lonely Orchid, Irish Mix and R. F.'s Snitcher.

Dallas Ward Gets the Ax At Colorado

DENVER — (AP) — Regents of the University of Colorado Friday fired head Coach Dal Ward whose 11-year football record at the Big Eight conference school was 62 won, 41 lost, 6 tied.

Last season Colorado lost four of its last five games and finished with a 6-4 record.

"I am stunned," said Ward. He said there had been no indication earlier that he was going to be demoted.

The regents by a 5-to-1 vote relieved Ward of coaching duties effective Feb. 1 and recommended that he continue as a full professor of physical education in which he has tenure.

Ward, 52, would not say what he intends to do. The head coaching job paid him $12,800 and $1,000 expenses annually. Full professor's pay starts at $7,200 but it was not known immediately what salary Ward would receive.

The Regents' resolution in firing Ward gave no indication of the reasons other than stating it was for the "best interests of the university."

Some of the regents told newsmen in private comments that it wasn't Ward's won-loss record that brought their action. These regents, who declined use of their names, said they felt Ward didn't provide inspirational leadership.

The same regents added they felt Ward showed favoritism in the handling of his players and had "pets who were literally killed in action." The assertion was that these players were used too much.

SANDY'S SIS W. moved to the inside while outrunning the opposition and increased her advantage steadily. MARYMOUNT MISS cut across sharply and caused considerable crowding, for which she was disqualified and placed last following a steward's inquiry. CARLA GAL was shuffled back early and recovered with a good effort. MADRE was steadied briefly while on the inside of MARYMOUNT MISS and lacked the needed response thereafter. CONGA STAR weakened. JULIE KATE was crowded slightly. LOUVAL showed nothing.

SOME STEED stumbled slightly at the start, was unhurried through the early stages and rallied from the outside to wear down the leaders. FLORIDA KID, crowded slightly early, moved prior to the winner but was not good enough. Stevenson's claim of foul against the winner for alleged interference along the backstretch was disallowed. LETS GO MODERN held on determinedly after having been a factor throughout. TUMBLIN O. attained a clear advantage at the furlong pole and weakened. CALL SIGN lacked a rally. Distance Stars Go at Flagler

Tonight the season's richest greyhound stake, the $7,500 added Flagler Kennel Medley, enters the 3-8th mile third round, with 16 kennel owners selecting their top distance performers for the two heats.

This unique contest puts the burden on owners and trainers, who must pick their best runners for each of the four rounds over progressively longer distances. Only three of tonight's starters saw action in both the 3-16th mile first round and the second at the standard 5-16th distance.

Three others are veterans of second round competition, indicating that the kennels are replacing their early sprint runners with the strong finishing endurance performers.

So far, Ewalt is the top point winner with 24, followed closely by Evers and Crosby with 21 each. Also in the running are Ray Randle, 17, and Eaton and Fulton 16 and 10, respectively.

Flashy Trio Vie At Hollywood

Mar Pat and Sir Ralph each will be going for three wins in a row tonight as they clash with the lightning-breaker LeVeon in the 10th race at Hollywood Kennel Club.

LaVeon is one of the few greyhounds to defeat Bud Jack, but this evening will be up against another quick breakaway pup.

Sir Ralph is a late speed dog. He won the Hollywood Derby two years ago, but is now racing better than any time during his career. The field of Grade A ramblers will travel the Hollywood Course.

The 11th race is a 3-8th mile marathon involving a flock of greyhounds entered in the $10,000 Hollywood Silver Anniversary Stake next month.

TV Drops Mrs. Ruth; Landlord Is Blamed

NEW YORK—(AP)— A squabble in which Mrs. Babe Ruth is an innocent bystander is keeping her off a television program.

MRS. RUTH

Mrs. Ruth was to have been interviewed in her New York apartment Friday night by Edward R. Murrow on the CBS - TV "Person to Person" show. However, a difference between the program's producers and the management of her apartment house forced at least a postponement of her appearance.

The producers said it is the first time such a thing has happened in the six-year history of the show, on which some 450 persons have been interviewed in their homes or apartments.

Felix Harding, managing agent for the building in which Mrs. Ruth occupies an eight room apartment at 110 Riverside Dr., said the show producers had proceeded with their plans without making proper arrangements with him.

Harding said he felt that, since the show is a commercially sponsored venture, the apartment owners were due at least token compensation for use of facilities there in production of the program.

He added that he will be satisfied if the producers made out a check for $500 for any charity chosen by Mrs. Ruth. "It's not a matter of money but of principle," said Harding.

He also said he does not wish to create difficulty in any way for Mrs. Ruth, widow of the renowned baseball figure and author of the new book, "The Babe and I."

Jesse Zousmer, coproducer of the CBS program, accused Harding of making varying demands at different times in discussions of the situation, and of keeping matters stalled until almost the last moment.

As a result, he said, it was necessary to make a hurried switch to the French Singer Genevieve for the program.

Zousmer said he fears Mrs. Ruth is embarrassed by the dispute but an effort will be made to reach an agreement with Harding so she can appear on the program at a later date.

40-Minutes of Agony Before Rescue

Woman Sews Finger to Electric Machine

By Herald Wire Services

MRS. ALEXANDER ADAMIAK, a professional seamstress in Worcester, Mass., accidentally sewed her finger to an electric sewing machine, and then had to drag the 60-pound object twice across a room to get help. Trapped for 40 agonizing minutes, she pulled the machine first across the room to telephone police and again in order to let them in.

Police Nurse Richard J. Hebert removed the needle from the machine but in attempting to take it from Mrs. Adamiak's finger, it broke and had to be removed by a physician.

"I just kept perspiring from pain," the woman said after her ordeal. "I used the sheet I was sewing as a towel and kept wiping the perspiration from my face."

Envoy Breaches African Code

HENRY A. BYROADE, U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan, breached the South African government's strict social code by inviting an American Negro to a party given in his honor, it was learned.

Among the guests at a farewell party in Capetown tendered Byroade by American Consul-General Samuel Boykin was a member of the South African Cabinet, Agriculture Minister P. K. Leroux, as well as other government officials and members of the diplomatic corps.

Present at the explicit invitation of Byroade was William Gordon, managing editor of the Atlanta (Ga.) Daily World, a Negro newspaper, who is touring Africa on grants from the Ogden Reid Foundation and the State Department.

South Africa government officials do not attend social affairs with non-whites. Government policy is that relations between whites and non-whites should be that of master and servant.

Gordon turned up at the party as though it were the most natural thing in the world. Although none of the South Africans walked ont, one high official muttered audibly his displeasure at Gordon's presence.

Reid to Become Ambassador?

OGDEN R. REID, former president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune, is under consideration as ambassador to Israel, Washington diplomatic sources confirmed, although the State Department declined comment.

Reid has been considered for some State Department appointment ever since John Hay Whitney, U.S. ambassador to London, acquired control of The New York Herald Tribune last August.

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

His wrists handcuffed before him, his false teeth nibbling on his upper lip, Sosa stood in his blue prison garb in the blazingly lighted center of Havana's Sports Palace and took the verdict without any outburst.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

The Tavarezes came to this country from the Dominican Republic two years ago. They lived for 18 months in Miami before coming here.

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth. The alleged kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, has been committed to a hospital for mental examination.

The Tavarezes have two other children, Carmine Josephine, five, and Doris, three.

Tavarez, 30, is a $45-a-week factory worker.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

Soupy Sky 'Stacks Up' Airliners

Airplanes were stacked a mile high at a half-dozen "hold" points around Miami Friday, circling with grumbling passengers and waiting as long as two and a half hours to be guided by instruments to souped-in Miami International Airport.

At one point during the rush hours Friday afternoon, the control tower at the airport said 32 planes were being held in the sky waiting to land at three-minute intervals.

Some planes which were low on gas were diverted to landings at other airports, and there were delays in outgoing traffic also, the tower reported.

The airways traffic jam resulted from the thick overcast. Under instrument flying conditions, an official at the control tower explained, aircraft are required to stay at different altitudes and circle in widely separated areas when they arrive at their destination.

"In clear weather, one plane can see the one in front of him in the landing pattern and follow it on in," an official explained. "When we go on instruments, things get complicated and it takes longer."

Pan American World Airways said four passenger flights and one cargo flight were diverted to Nassau to wait out the jam-up over Miami. Two PAA flights to Havana were canceled due to bad weather there.

Between landings every three minutes, outgoing planes were taking off. A plane was landing or taking off every minute and a half most of the day Friday.

"We've got them stacked up to 18,000 feet in some places," the control tower said.

Giblin Protests Arrest

But Becomes Apologetic

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Vincent C. Giblin was taken into custody by Coral Gables police Friday on charges of resisting arrest after he claimed he and his wife were "immune" from being stopped and ticketed for a traffic violation.

He later said the officer who arrested him was in "contempt of court."

A Gables motorcycle policeman said he stopped Giblin and his wife, Virginia, who was driving in their car in the 1200 block on Blue Rd. after a radar clocking device set up in the area showed them traveling 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Seymour Anderson, the policeman, said the judge became "highly indignant" at being stopped. Anderson said following an argument the judge took over the wheel of the car from Mrs. Giblin and raced 20 blocks before he and his wife were again stopped.

The judge was taken to the Gables police station in a squad car. There he told Police Chief William G. Kimbrough:

"In my opinion I am immune from arrest in view of the fact that I was en route to open Circuit Court which begins at 9 a.m." (The arrest slip showed the Giblins were stopped at 9:05 a.m.)

The judge was charged with "failure to obey a police officer" and "interfering with a police officer's duties."

Judge Giblin was not required to post a $100 bond, listed on the arrest slip, but was "released on his own recognizance" pending his scheduled appearance in Gables court Feb. 4 at 5 p.m. Mrs. Giblin, who joined her husband at the police station, immediately paid a $15 ticket for the speed violation, Police Chief William G. Kimbrough said.

"Judge Giblin was very apologetic by the time he was brought in to the station," Kimbrough said. "He said he wanted to apologize to me and to the department and that he intends to apologize pesonally to the officer who arrested him."

It was then Kimbrough said that Judge Giblin told him it was "his opinion" he was immune from arrest.

Elaborating on his later, the judge said the immunity accorded him makes the policeman who arrested him "in contempt of the Circuit Court."

"But I am not going to do anything about that because it would be poor public relations," Judge Giblin added.

As to his contention he was immune from arrest at the time he and his wife were halted by the policeman en route to court, the Judge elaborated:

"The general laws of the state protect the judge, the witnesses and anybody on their way to court. These laws protect them against anything of a civil nature, such as a traffic violation.

"They do not apply to criminal acts only to civil violations," Judge Giblin said.

Admit Four, School Told

RICHMOND, Va. —(AP)— The U.S. Fourth Circuit Court Friday ordered four Negro children admitted to an Arlington County white junior high school at the beginning of the February semester.

The Appeals Court deferred further consideration of 26 other Negro applications for admission to white schools in the northern Virginia county, just across the Potomac River from Washington. The court said these applications "require further examination of the relevant circumstances before final conclusions can be reached."

He Fears 'Damage' To Public Spirit

HAVANA, Cuba —(UPI)— The second of Havana's spectacular "war crimes" trials was abruptly postponed Friday. Fidel Castro demanded an end to television and radio broadcasts of the trials in the city's huge Sports Palace.

Several hours after the defendant at the first trial, which ended early Friday, was sentenced to death, it was announced that the second trial scheduled for Friday afternoon would be postponed until today. The announcement said the defendant, Batista Army Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, was ill.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

The 13-hour trail Thursday of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was fully broadcast. Some 30,000 spectators jammed the Sports Palace stadium to jeer and roar at the defendant who was accused of 108 murders and burning 120 homes in Oriente province.

Shortly after midnight, when most of the crowd had left, the three-man court of bearded rebels convicted him and sentenced him to death for murder, looting, robbery and damage to public property.

Sosa Blanco was taken to Cabana fortress to await execution. He said he would appeal the death sentence.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

He had smiled. He had laughed. He raised his manacled hands and accused his captors of trying him in a "Roman Colosseum" like the early Christian martyrs. He denied his guilt and insisted he acted as a soldier, under orders.

His three sisters visited him at his cell in a dimly-lighted corridor. They brought him a rum bottle filled with coffee.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

He also requested to see his wife. The plea was granted. His wife and three young daughters spent a tearful half hour with him Friday morning.

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

Cuba Labor Ousts Five Pro-Reds

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Anti-Communist forces have won an important initial victory in the struggle to fill the leadership vacuum in the labor movement of Cuba.

Five Communists or pro-Communist labor leaders who had climbed aboard the driver's seat of Cuban labor after the downfall of Fulgencio Batista have been "reorganized out" in the last few days, it was learned here.

The anti-Communist labor forces in Havana have had the advice and help of AFL-CIO leaders in Washington.

"It's a good beginning," said an AFL-CIO representative here. "But we better not brag about it. There's a long and difficult fight ahead."

Immediately after the downfall of Batista, the shattered Cuban Confederation of Labor was put under the control of a 20-man "directorate." Five of these 20 were know Communists or pro-Communists.

An advisory mission was soon sent into Cuba by Serafino Romualdi, the inter-American representative of the AFL-CIO.

The mission was headed by Luis Alberto Monge, a member of the Costa Rican parliament, and an active anti-Communist trade unionist. Officially, the "mission" represented a group known as ORIT, which is the Latin American wing of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

At least partly as a result of the "mission" which visited the demoralized Cuban labor leaders, there has been a sudden "reorganization" of the "directorate" of the Cuban Confederation within the past few days.

The "directorate" has been reduced from 22 to nine members.

All five of the Communists and pro-Communists on the "directorate" found themselves on the outside after the reorganization which had the secret blessing of Fidel Castro.

"But the battle isn't over," an AFL-CIO official repeated.

Death, Destruction Mount As Thousands Flee Floods

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (UPI) — The worst floods in almost a half century drove 9,000 to 10,000 persons from their homes in Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday and forced 20 per cent of the Meadville, Pa., population to flee.

Gov. Michael V. Di Salle placed the entire state of Ohio under a state of emergency. He estimated that the floods which have swept the state since Wednesday would cause damage totalling 83 million dollars.

Flood-stricken areas of Pennsylvania were already under a state of emergency. The governors of both Ohio and Pennsylvania appealed for federal aid.

A massive sub-zero cold wave slowed the flood waters which earlier had forced evacuation of more than 20,000 persons since the start of the worst storm of the winter Tuesday.

But a new flood crest on the Scioto River slammed into Chillicothe and surrounding southern Ohio towns, bringing the city's worst disaster since the 1913 floods. Almost one third of the town's 27,000 population was evacuated, many by helicopter or Army ducks.

Almost half the city's population of 20,000 had to be evacuated, some by helicopter.

Meadville, Pa., battled the worst flood in its history. The French Creek floodwaters drove 1,300 families — 20 per cent of the town's population — from their homes.

The Ohio River floods had already spread death and destruction approaching 100-million dollars through scores of communities. But it appeared the greatest disaster of them all threatened Chillicothe.

The rain-gorged Scioto swept out of its banks at a height of 32.5 feet, 16.5 feet over flood stage. It crested shortly after noon, but the frenzied evacuation continued, and the city's disposal plant and sewage system both went out of operation.

Hope Not Abandoned for 12

Waters Block Way To Trapped Miners

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

We're Letting Reds Lead Missile Race—Symington

Predicts 4-1 Edge In 2 Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) said Friday the Eisenhower administration is allowing Russia to pull away in the missiles race. In two years, he predicted, Russia will have a 4-1 edge in long range rockets.

"The coming year may afford us our last chance to initiate any real effort to catch up with the Russians in the most important fields of modern weaponry," Symington said in a speech to the Senate.

The Missouri senator, long a critic of administration defense policies, challenged statements by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a news conference Thursday.

McElroy said then "we do not believe that Russia has an ICBM (Intercontinental-Ballistic Missile) capable of operations against this country at this time." He also discounted reports that Russia will have 300 ICBMs by next year.

Symington said McElroy's remarks imply "a great deal more combat readiness on the part of the U.S. than is justified by the very few IICBMs this country will have available for retaliation in the next two years."

He suggested that McElroy's statements and others like them may be "released for public consideration primarily to support a restricted budget position."

Symington said the U.S. has successfully test-fired ICBMs and set up production lines that could produce more; adding:

"The reason we are not planning full production of ICBMs is because this administration is not planning to spend the necessary funds."

Symington, who often has accused the administration of penny pinching on defense, gave notice he will try to boost military budget allotments above totals asked by President Eisenhower.

"During the next few years," he said, "adequate defense requires more money than estimated in the President's budget."

Eisenhower has asked $40,945,000,000 for defense in the fiscal year startiig July 1. This is an increase of 145 million over estimated spending for defense this year.

McElroy, appearing before a House appropriations subcommittee Thursday, said "the nation is prepared to meet the threat it faces today." He said that during the past year this country has made good progress in missile development, defense against missiles, and antisubmarine warfare.

He said in prepared testimony that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "have gone on record with me that they consider this budget adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration (the coming fiscal year)."

Maj. Sosa Blanco Hears Sentence of Death in Cuban Court

Cubans Stage Legal Circus With Death in the Wings

so did the handful of Latin Americans and U.S. newsmen who stayed until the end, along with a scattering of Cubans who wanted to be in on the kill.

The public address system knocked your ears out at the very moment you were straining to hear; nobody bothered to swear in a witness after the first three or four, and photographers were able to move those testifying to the right or left for the best picture angle.

Recesses, infrequent as they were, were a bedlam of confusion as citizens came down from their seats and strode into the center of the "courtroom" to get a closer look at the accused man.

They had to push aside beer and soda pop vendors to get there, and kick their way through the newspaper-littered floor but those who could fight their way through the forest of microphones got the job done.

This was a case where the prosecution had a "hands down" case but went out of its way to prove it. Thirty-six witnesses paraded before the microphones and their stories were anything but pretty.

There were only a few among the 36 witnesses who actually saw the defendant kill a man.

The others weren't ashamed to admit that when Sosa shot most of his victims they (the witnesses) were lying face down in the dirt or were hidden somewhere in their homes.

A 12-year-old boy told how the army commander came to his home in Oriente Province and pulled his father from the house, telling the lad he would send the old man back in a few minutes.

The father knew better, and handed his watch to his son before he went out in the front yard to be shot.

Then there was the story of Miguel Llorente, a relative of the Argote family in Bayamo, who had the misfortune of visiting them when Sosa decided to make an example of a few civilians.

Miguel was in the home when Sosa ordered all 10 males present into the front yard to be shot.

But he scared the devil out of the religious townspeople when he interrupted those who had come immediately to pray and bury the dead by rolling over and sitting up in the midst of their services.

The most damning witness of all was a young rebel who once had been a member of Sosa Blanco's army command, Antonio Froenza. He deserted and joined Castro after the commander ordered the burning of 200 homes in one village "because there must be some rebels there."

On another occasion Froenza said, a soldier on an assassination squad was killed himself because Sosa saw him turn his gun away from the target at the last second.

There were other witnesses to testify that Sosa shot a half dozen more of his own soldiers to justify his reports that all of the killings of civilians were the result of rebel fights.

That was his defense in the only time he accepted the court's offer to speak.

Sosa, who is about 45 years old, is living out his last hours in La Cabana Fortress. The final hour, unknown exactly, probably will come Saturday with Sosa's back to the wall.

There were three judges in the overnight trial and a fire-eating prosecutor by the name of Capt. Jorge Sergera, a two-year rebel and Havana University graduate who is 24 years old.

Sosa had no witnesses in his own defense. The only possible people to help him might have been his own army comrades. But it is hard to find any former army men these days — least of all one who would appear on behalf of Sosa.

The defense counsel, Aristides de Costa, did a great job in arguing law and had some newsmen convinced that he might have won an acquittal in an American court.

The rebels claimed Sosa should die under a revolutionary government penal code set up in February last year, before they were in control of the government.

The defense quoted portions of the constitution to show such a law couldn't be applied.

But the judges checkmated the defense, ruling that Batista's long nullification of civil liberties removed his army commander from that protection.

To Sosa it didn't make much difference.

He knew, when he walked into that sports arena, that he was a dead man.

His only consolation was the fact that it would be a firing squad — not a howling mob — that got to him first.

French Study Asylum Bid For Batista

PARIS — (AP) — The French government is studying a request for political asylum from disposed Cuban President Fulgencio Batista, a foreign ministry spokesman said Friday.

He gave no indication when decision might be reached but commented that security for the former Cuban leader would be a big problem if he were allowed to come here.

There are hundreds of Cuban students in Paris and most of them were either exiles from the Batista regime or have strong ties with the revolutionary government Batista, who fled Cuba by air New Year's Day, is now in the Dominican Republic.

France has a long tradition of granting political asylum, and the Batista government was pro-French.

Ike Names Group to Eye Costs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower set up a special committee Friday to make sure government purchases and other federal activities do not fan inflationary fires by driving up prices unduly.

In ordering the move, the President said the committee will help him decide whether the government is being run in such a way as to contribute as much as possible to "reasonable price stability." If not, he said, action must be taken.

The action reflected the President's warning in his recent budget and economic messages that an all-out effort must be made to "restrain the forces that drive prices up and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings."

The new presidential committee will be headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Other members will consist of representatives of at least 10 government agencies.

The President also ordered all heads of federal departments engaged in procurement, stockpiling, farm price support, rate regulation, subsidy and similar activities to re-examine their programs and take any action necessary to help in the fight against inflation.

In establishing the committee, he noted that many government agencies are engaged in activities which directly affect the rise or fall of all prices and costs. But he said there was no central body to ride herd on them.

Government agencies represented on the committee include all those with big procurement programs.

Members will come from the Defense, Post Office, Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce Departments; the Budget Bureau, the General Services Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Aviation Agency, and the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. Officials from other agencies may be added later.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida Friday introduced a bill to permit states to enact laws to protect the public interest from damage resulting from strikes against public utilities.

Florida has such a law but the Supreme Court ruled a few years ago in a Wisconsin case that the Taft-Hartley Law preempted this entire field and voided state laws.

Holland carried his fight for his measure to the Senate floor last session but lost an attempt to have it added to the Kennedy-Ives labor bill.

His Children Had Shots

Truck Driver, 25, First Polio Victim

Dade County recorded its first polio case of the year Friday—a 25-year-old truck driver who had given his two children Salk vaccine shots but neglected to take them himself.

Terrell Howell, of 2255 NW 175th St., was in critical condition in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. He has bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease.

"The doctors say that if he can get through the next 48 hours, he will pull through," said Howell's wife, Alice, 21.

"Neither of us had the shots," she said. "I guess it's because you always think of the kids but not yourself. But I got my first shot today."

She also got booster shots for the two children, Mary, three, and Terrell Jr., one.

Howell, a truck driver for a concrete company, came home from work last Friday night complaining of a headache and a pain in the small of his back, Mrs. Howell said.

"He was weak by Sunday, and by Tuesday he couldn't walk or eat. We had to carry him to the doctor's office, then to the hospital," she said.

Mrs. Howell said that when she visited her husband, "he seemed to feel fine. But being in the iron lung, he is scared. He's never been in a hospital before."

Howell is the county's first polio case of 1959. Last year, there were 30 cases in Dade County, according to County Health Officer Dr. T. E. Cato. Four of them were definitely bulbar polio.

There were two polio deaths here in 1958, Dr. Cato said, but one of the victims developed polio in 1957.

Dr. Cato urged Dade citizens who have not had their shots to get them.

Auto Prices Also Down

Food Sparks Decline In Cost of Living

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The cost of living dropped two-tenths of one per cent in December in the first monthly decline since August, the government reported Friday. It attributed the drop primarily to a dip in food prices.

The decline lowered the Labor Department's consumer price index to 123.7 per cent of the base period 1947-49. The November index equalled the all-time high of 123.9 per cent set last July, and the December index still was 1.7 per cent above a year ago.

The Labor Department also reported that the earnings of the average factory worker after taxes last month reached an all-time high of $79.60 a week for a man with three dependents and $72.10 for a single man. This was $1.20 above November.

The December drop in the cost of living was too slight to affect the wages of 700,000 workers whose pay is pegged by their collective bargaining contracts to the department's price index.

H. E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the lower food prices reflected decreases in the cost of oranges, eggs, coffee, poultry and pork. Also down were prices of new autos, women's and girls coats, suits and dresses, recreation, and personal care.

Riley said food prices probably will rise again this month. But he doubted there would be any substantial change in the overall cost of living.

Quiet Rites For DeMille

There was no eulogy, and a crowd of 500 fans kept silent throughout the rites.

FIRST National Bank will move the weekend starting Feb. 6 to that magnificent new 18-story home on Biscayne Blvd.

BELL

It'll be open and ready to do business at the new place Monday Feb. 9. In fact it's got to be open and ready to go, according to law.

The regulation says a bank must move during non-banking hours. Were First National to try to move in mid-week it would have to do it between 2 p.m. one day and 10 a.m. the next. That would be impossible, so National has chosen a weekend. Even then it will be no simple task to transfer all departments, including safes and safety deposit units, records, files and a thousand other items. And I betcha the moving will uncover things lost since the Ed Romfh days.

The new building isn't completely finished. The job of installing furniture, rugs, decorations is more tedious than construction of the whole building. My only wish is that some day I'll get an invitation to that penthouse. What a view that'll be!

School Program

There's a "Save Our Schools" program in the offing: Jan. 29 at the School Board administration building, 275 NW Second St. The hope is that small discussion groups will be formed, and be well-informed should a school crisis arise. Dr. Frederick Routh, once human relations professor at University of Miami, will be the speaker. Dr. Charles Philhour of the university's drama department, also will present a skit "Philhour's Fancies," a satire on discussion groups.

National Summary

High pressure covering most of the region from the mid and lower Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast accounted for widespread sunshine but continued cold temperatures through Friday afternoon.

Readings in the teens persisted in the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians at midday and freezing levels were noted in the mountains of Tennessee while 40s ranged across the Gulf region.

Blustery winds sweeping across the Great Lakes region into the northeast held temperatures to 10 degrees or lower in many sections and maintained snow flurries and local squalls from Michigan across New York and Pennsylvania into northern New England.

Warmer weather from the northwest and over most of the midsection of the country during the night is expected to nudge into the southeast on Saturday.

Colder weather from the Carolinas into New England over night is expected to linger.

Showers will accompany mild temperatures in the Pacific northwest while snow flurries will be scattered across the mountains from Montana into Colorado.

Culbreath Plans Appeal

Ex-Sheriff Is Convicted In Tax Case

TAMPA—(AP)—A Federal Court jury Friday convicted former Hillsborough County Sheriff Hugh Culbreath of evading payment of $25,898 in income taxes for the years 1946, 1947 and 1948.

It acquitted him of similar charges for the years 1949 and 1950. The government had charged he owed $804 for those years.

The verdict was handed down just after noon after the jury had deliberated 11½ hours. It came on the 79th day of a trial which broke Federal Court records here for duration and amount of testimony recorded.

Hugh Culbreath
. . . guilty on 3 counts

Federal Judge William J. Barker deferred sentencing until after a probation officer's investigation, a customary procedure. Culbreath could get up to five years in prison and be fined up to $10,000 on each of the three counts.

The judge gave defense attorneys 10 days in which to file an appeal. They said they would do so. Culbreath was freed under $5,000 bond pending the appeal.

The 61-year-old Culbreath, sheriff from 1940 to 1952, flushed slightly and moved his hands nervously while the jury of 10 men and two women was polled on the verdict. He had nothing to say.

The government charged Culbreath with five separate counts of wilfully filing fraudulent income tax returns for the five years. It claimed he evaded payment of $18,463 in 1946; $4,742 in 1947; $2,693 in 1948; $26 in 1949, and $777 in 1950.

In addition, the government last May filed a civil suit against Culbreath and his wife, Daphne, seeking to collect $271,943 which it cliamis they owe for back income tax for the years 1941 through 1947.

A pivotal point in the trial came when Judge Barker instructed the jury that political contributions diverted to personal use are taxable as income.

Defense attorneys claimed throughout the trial that much of the former sheriff's money came from excess political contributions which he put to his own use. They argued this money was not taxable.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Culbreath spent more money in each of the five years than he made as sheriff.

The former sheriff was questioned extensively about outside income in 1950 by the Senate Crime Investigations Committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver. He told the committee that the difference between his sheriff's salary and his bank deposits came from his earnings as a meat salesman, profits from a fish business and cash held out of banks during the depression of the 1930s.

U.S. District Attorney James L. Guilmartin, who handled the prosecution, smiled when the verdict was announced and commented: "The people have spoken by the jury's verdict."

Council Won't OK Van Brunt

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Merit System Council refused Friday to give immediate approval to industrial commission chairman James T. Vocelle's plan to create and new and better job for a man bypassed for his division's directorship.

The council discussed at length Vocelle's request for approval of the new classification of assistant director of the employment service, then put off action until next month.

But not once did council members mention that Vocelle intended to give the new job to Dana Leitch, high man in the examination for the director's job, which was given to Harry Van Brunt.

Van Brunt finished 12th among the 13 who took the examination for the directon's job.

Vocelle had sought a noncompetitive examination for Van Brunt, who was director of personnel. Merit system director Angus Laird insisted upon a competitive examination.

But Vocelle appointed Van Brunt on the ground he was the candidate best qualified for the job. Merit system rules permit promotion of an agency employe if he makes a passing grade on the examination.

A passing grade is 70. Van Brunt, who formerly served as director of the employment service, scored 73. Leitch scored 94.89. He is director of programs for the employment service.

Merit council chairman J. S. Gracy of St. Petersburg said he wanted some time to study whether the employment service needed an assistant director, a brand new post.

Has Wizard of Oz Run Out of Magic?

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI) — The story of Horatio Alger's rise from rags to riches may be denied to Florida youngsters if the state librarian has her way.

Such classics as the Horatio Alger series, the Bobbsey Twins, Tarzan, the Wizard of Oz, Tom Swift and the Rover Boys, among others, would disappear from Florida library shelves.

State Librarian Dorothy Dodd has advised county libraries in the state that "there are plenty of other books which give broader and wider backgrounds for children to read."

She said "the libraries should stock better books" but emphasized her views are strictly a matter of personal preference and she has no power of control over the county libraries.

She added there is a "trend in good library practice that these books are not desirable."

The state librarian admitted she read most of the books as a youngster.

George Dickinson Touches Up Doll Piano

He Builds Tiny 'Antiques'

Retired Businessman Enjoys His Doll Furniture Hobby

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A doll who yearns for the grace and elegance of the traditional will be delighted with the furniture handmade by George Dickinson.

Making antique doll furniture is the hobby of George Dickinson, a retired business man. Former owner of George's Paint and Hardware Co., he sold out that and other business enterprises for reasons of health.

As he got better, time began to hang heavily on his hands. One day a year ago he watched his wife try to contrive a doll bed out of a shoe box for a small niece.

"Let's see if I can't make one out of wood," he said. And by trial and error, he completed a cunning doll bed that delighted the child.

That started the hobby, and now he works at it most of the day and often far into the night. His workshop is in the garage of his home at 5517 Hobart Ave. Principal tools used are a band saw, punch press and drill press, power driven.

He used scrap lumber and odd bits of this and that. He finds much excellent material at the city dump. People bring him bits of wood and upholstery material.

Mrs. Dickinson makes the mattresses and covers for the beds and upholsters the davenports.

He makes old fashioned cradles, pianos with stools that twirl, tables, chairs, fourposter beds with testers, and practically everything that a good doll housekeeper would like in her home. A traditional home, that is.

Ruling Delays Auto Insurance Boost

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — The attorney general ruled Friday that Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson was right when he used a technicality to turn down a request for higher auto insurance rates.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters had asked for a statewide increase of 26.3 per cent. In Dade County, where rates are among the nation's highest, the proposed boost would have amounted to 33.3 per cent.

The bureau represents about 40 per cent of the state's insurance companies.

Larson denied the request for the rate increase on grounds the bureau had not supplied adequate information to support its request.

Larson said the information in the bureau's application was based on less than half the total liability coverage written by all companies operating in Florida.

He said the experience of other companies should have been considered in the petition.

Ervin said in his advisory opinion that the insurance commissioner's authority "includes the right to consider all elements and factors that properly have a bearing on the rates to be established."

He added: "It is well settled that insurance is a business affected with a public interest which is subject to state control and regulations."

The attorney general said the rate laws are designed to "protect the public interest in obtaining safe insurance at reasonable rates. This is the guiding star when construing statutes relating to insurance and insurance rates."

A tentative public hearing on the rate increase is set for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11, in the Florida House chamber here.

Ervin said that this hearing could not be considered a final hearing to determine whether rates should be increased—only a basis to determine whether the original application must be considered by Larson as meeting legal requirements.

Man Held In Slaying

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A heavily tattooed "born to raise hell" man is under arrest as the second suspect in the robbery-slaying near here Oct. 7 of James E. Harrison, 31, Indian River City.

The FBI in Knoxville said it had taken in custody James E. Leach Jr., 21, on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Leach was the hitchhiker companion of Roy Olson, 23, when Harrison picked them up between Jacksonville and Lake City.

Olson has been in custody in California, where authorities said he confessed stabbing Harrison, robbing him of $500 and burying his body in a shallow grave 10 miles south of Jacksonville. The grave has not been found.

Olson said he drove Harrison's car to Jacksonville and abandoned it.

All Quiet As Batista's Wife Arrives

DAYTONA BEACH —(UPI) —The arrival of Mrs. Fulgencio Batista in this resort city Friday was quiet and unceremonious.

Observers were surprised at the calmness with which residents and tourists accepted the appearance of the wife of the former Cuban president.

Mrs. Batista had been expected since Thursday and radio, television and newspaper accounts of her arrival were distributed about the city.

But instead of huge crowds, the greeting party was predominately members of the press corps.

Reporters said what few curiosity-seekers were on hand accepted Mrs. Batista "as an ordinary citizen. There were no shouts, no words and no stopping of traffic" when the attractive woman was driven to the Batista mansion.

A few motorists, noticing policemen at the entrance gates of the home, would stop and ask questions. But when informed it was Mrs. Batista and her party, they acknowledged the fact and drove on.

Florida Schools Hit for 'Poor' Science Training

Reforms Would Cost $6 Million

Nuclear Board Cites Need

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A special state committee Friday severely criticized science and mathematics training in Florida schools and put a six million dollar price tag on the cost of bringing this vital field up to par.

A special committee of the Florida Nuclear Development Commission said the $6,000,000 state contribution would entitle Florida to $10,000,000 in matching federal funds.

The committee on science and mathematics said a yearlong study of the Florida public school system showed glaring deficiencies in this vital field.

Most of the teachers do not have the proper training or equipment for the job and the science courses now being taught are "poorly organized, repetitive and unchallenging," the committee said.

The legislative committee took no action. But members' questions indicated that while the program was desirable, the state cannot afford it unless spending is cut in some other programs.

Sen. Wilson Carraway of Tallahassee, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he thinks Florida could participate at less than the estimated $2,000,000 a year state contribution.

Spokesmen indicated improvement of science, mathematics and language courses in the elementary and high schools is more important than many educational programs now financed by the state.

The national act provides matching money for laboratory and vocational guidance, loan funds for college students and assistance to colleges and universities to train more teachers, scientists and scientific technicians.

(Dade County has agreed to use local funds to match up to $132,000 in federal grants for science, mathematics, and language equipment. School Board members have indicated they will put up more if the federal cash becomes available.)

Sen. L. K. Edwards of Irvine, chairman of the legislative committee, said the argument that Florida has to take advantage of the federal money or it will go elsewhere does not "impress" him.

"If we haven't got the money, we'll just have to pass up the federal hand-out or at least take less," he said.

But Charles W. Campbell, Jacksonville insurance executive and head of the special study committee, said Florida taxpayers will be contributing to the federal program even if the state passes it up.

'Peel-Away' Cone Missile Test Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL — (UPI) — Ignition failure in the second stage of a Thor-Able test [illegible] early Friday th[illegible] attempt to test a [illegible] cone which may ride [illegible] ICBMs of the future.

The Air Force had hoped to obtain valuable data from an intercontinental hop of the steeple-shaped cone. But without the added boost from the Thor-Able's upper stage, the "peel-away" cone plunged into the ocean far short of the planned target area 5,000 miles away.

The failure set the Air Force back a notch in its program to develop a lightweight warhead protector for the smaller, solid-fuel intercontinental ballistic missiles still on the drawing boards.

But the Douglas Co., which makes the Thor-Able test vehicle, said other rockets would be fired full intercontinental range — 6,300 miles.

Because of the comparatively small size and thrust of the solid fuel missiles, rocketeers must develop a nose cone lighter than the heat-absorbing cone used on liquid fuel missiles such as the Atlas.

Friday's experimental cone was designed to flake off like the skin of a sunburned bather when the cone grew white-hot on ren-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

The 90-foot, 52-ton rocket blasted off at 12:08 a.m. and cast an eerie glow over the Cape before it rumbled into a dense cloud blanket 30 seconds later.

But the Air Force announced about 30 minutes afterward that while "the launch and the first stage appeared normal," early instrumentation reports indicated that "the second stage did not ignite."

State Road Board Cuts Turnover

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Road Department Friday said employe turnover in the huge agency has been cut in half since 1953 because of its membership in the state merit system.

Frank Giles, personnel director of the road agency, said the turnover between January, 1953 and December, 1954 was 50 per cent. Between January, 1957 and December, 1958, he said, personnel turnover dropped to 25 per cent.

The council presented its biennial report, which will be presented to the 1959 legislative session by the cabinet personnel board.

Chairman J. S. Gracy of St. Petersburg asked participating agencies to comment on the council's record.

Giles said the road department had been able to get better qualified employes under the merit system, and the resultant job security has slowed down resignations.

He said contrary to some reports, the agency had experienced no difficulty in firing employes who were not doing their jobs. Other agency representatives backed him up in this statement.

Public Welfare Department Personnel Director Martha Hood said her agency had found the biennial budget hearings easier to face because pay increases were certified by the council, and there was little fight to justify them.

Certain legislators have objected to this policy, and have said agencies participate in the merit system for just that reason.

'Florida Could Lose Cream of Its Youth'

By JOHN McDERMOTT
Herald Political Writer

William C. Gaither warned Friday that unless Floridians move swiftly to meet growing need of more facilities for higher education the state will lose the cream of its youth.

GAITHER

Gaither, a Miami attorney and member of the Board of Control, said statistics show that 30 per cent of the nation's college-age youths today are seeking and getting a college education.

"By 1970, that figure will be up to 50 per cent," he told the Miami Kiwanis club luncheon at the Columbus hotel.

In Florida, the figures are even more demanding and more significant, he said.

"Florida now has about 54,000 students in higher education," Gaither explained. "By 1970, there will be 158,000 seeking a college education here."

Unless Florida provides more opportunity in the graduate fields, more and more of the top students will be leaving—as they now are—for completion of their education in other states.

"Once they leave, it is difficult to get them back," he declared.

"We lose twice as many of our graduate students as we gain."

The answer, he said, is to increase the state's graduate program.

"If we fail to make adequate preparations now . . . you are going to find that your children and grandchildren will be deprived of a college education," Gaither declared.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

Betty Grable Rudy Vallee Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

NOTES — Teenagers attending the Gables Theater Record-hop this morning will hear Bobby Gaye and Dannis Mathis and their Rock and Roll combo . . . Florida Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists will meet on Sunday in the McAllister Hote. Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Latest financial rumor out of Havana is that present Cuban currency won't be devalued—it will be completely recalled, in exchange for a new issue.

Hospital Needs Cash

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — The Brevard Hospital Association has learned that people won't pay any debt—no matter how important — unless you send them a statement.

BUNGE

That's President James E. Holmes' opinion on why South Brevard County residents have only paid about $175,000 on pledges totaling $700,000.

In order to end this difficulty, Board Treasurer R. P. (Russ) Sullivan has made arrangements for a regular collection organization headed by Mrs. Francis Butler, a former Melbourne and Key West high school teacher.

She will have her office at the hospital until space in the Florida Power and Light Co. offices, now being enlarged, is ready.

Hospital officials are making every effort to bring the financial drive to a successful conclusion. But, if residents fail to do their part, there is only one other course of action—a hospital tax district.

The reluctance of residents to fulfill their promises of financial help is stalling construction of the new 100-bed institution. So, please, won't you keep pledge payments rolling in?

If you don't think this is important, go visit the present hospital and you'll see why a new one is needed.

Good Example

When Melbourne Rotary Club officials want to lecture on the importance of members keeping up good attendance records, they use John Stallman as a shining example.

Stallman is a test pilot, and his job takes him all over the world. He is able to keep a perfect attendance record by "landing" on any Rotary meeting in the world where his job takes him.

* * *

'Bottleneck'

City council protest petitions are being circulated throughout Eau Gallie as part of Mayor Milton McGrath's campaign to get the State Road Department to stop being a U.S. 1 "bottleneck," and rush construction of a new bridge or two north of Loveridge Heights.

The mayor has had some strong words to say about SRD maintenance trucks holding up traffic in that section of the highway, and now he means business about trying to get something done.

He told newspaper reporters that "you can be sure you'll hear about every accident" that happens on the two old bridges he's unhappy about.

Officials claim three per week happen on the "hump back" and wooden bridges near Loveridge, and the mayor wants to clip stories about these to add to a collection being worked up for SRD reading.

'Loud Start'

The South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce made a loud start the other night, and if this group keeps up steam there will be some mighty big things accomplished over there on the beaches.

One of several important items on tap is a drive to encourage tourists to start coming back here. President James R. Allen told the chamber's first open meeting that rumors about local conditions are keeping visitors away.

His statements back up an earlier Miami Herald story that pointed out how a northern "rumor mill" about U.S. 1 being unpassable and missile workers packing motels and hotels was causing headaches for the tourist industry. Of course, there isn't a word of truth to those two tales.

Man Dies Of Injuries

FORT PIERCE — Louis Kolich, 70, of 3245 South Federal Highway, died of injuries suffered in a collision between his truck and a Highway Patrol car on Jan. 16.

The accident occurred on U.S. 1 inside the city limits.

Officer W. R. McCain, who investigated, said Kolich came out of a gas station and attempted to make a U turn.

Well-Trimmed

The Vero Beach Dolphinettes provide some eye-filling scenery for this colorful 46-foot sailing craft, Pele. Its owner, Frank Ellison of Montauk Point, L. I., says it's the world's largest three-hulled sailing vessel. Washed up on shore at Vero Beach three months ago the Pele's owner says he'll take the ship on a treasure hunt in the Bahamas.

Health Officer's Guess Tops 'Em All

3,000 Babies Boost Brevard Census Estimate to 114,050

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

TITUSVILLE — Dr. J. Dillard Workman, Brevard's county health officer, Friday estimated the county has 114,500 citizens. The figure is the largest estimate of booming Brevard's population ever made.

County commission chairman Max K. Rodes of Melbourne interpreted the report to mean the county will show at least 125,000 when the 1960 census is taken.

Dr. Workman said his estimate is based on Brevard's 1958 births and the Florida birth rate of 25 births per 1,000 population.

Along with his population estimate, Dr. Workman gave the county commission a report which estimated county population has grown from 87,380 on July 1, 1957 to the 114,050 estimate which was dated Jan. 1.

On July 1, 1958 his report estimated the population was 105,890.

The Air Force estimate — which was based on a study conducted by the operation analysis office at the Air Force Missile Test Center—was 95,000.

The Air Force statement also said the county will grow to 163,080 by 1963.

Boat Ramp Completed On Seaway

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The new boat launching ramp on Seaway Drive, a joint project of Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County, has been completed, and this week a city dragline was digging out a channel parallel to the ramp.

City Manager Floyd Glisson said the channel will enable boats to go north as far as Courtney Harden's Better Sea Foods docks, and then out to the deep water in the inlet. A large sandbar lies between the launching ramp itself and the deep water.

Glisson said that dredging a channel direct to the deep water of the inlet was expense and would mean continued and costly maintenance.

He said there is still beautification to be done at the launching site, and possible more paving will be added, but the main part of the project is completed.

Head Named For Festival

FORT PIERCE — Calvin (Socks) Poppell has been named chairman of the 1959 Sandy Shoes Festival, and E. W. (Pete) Lins has been elected co-chairman.

The officers were selected Wednesday at a meeting of committee chairmen for the various events of the festival which starts March 2.

Poppell, one of the festival's must enthusiastic supporters, is urging clubs and groups participating to consider this year's festival theme "Yesterday and Tomorrow."

"This year's theme is particularly appropriate for this area," he said.

"We still have much of the color and history of pioneer days, and the Cape Canaveral rockets to overhead, headed to the moon."

Brevard's Outgrown Laws

Backfire of Boom Seen by Stenstrom

BY DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

TITUSVILLE — Governments in Brevard — and all Florida's other fast-growing counties — may be hamstrung by their counties' growth unless the legislature acts soon, state Sen. Douglas Stenstrom says.

The senator points out Brevard's government, for example, works under "50 or more local bills" designed for a county of less than 24,000 — Brevard's population, according to the 1950 census.

Stenstrom's comments came in the wake of a report Brevard's population has reached 114,050 and may reach 125,000 by 1960.

The report, prepared by Dr. J. Dillard Workman, Brevard health officer, as based on 1958 births and the Florida average of 25 births per thousand people per year.

Stenstrom explains Florida's counties work under a large number of "populations" bills which set up widely differing governmental procedures for "small" and "large" counties.

Affected by the population growth will be county budgets, judicial systems, the panelling of juries, administrative functions "and just about everything else," the senator said.

"When the census is complete, Brevard will be a 'big' county and the present ("small county") bills just won't fit, Stenstrom said. The increase probably will "push us into the same bracket with Polk County," he added.

The senator agreed with Brevard County Commission chairman Max Rodes that it may be necessary to pass a special bill which will allow the county government to continue in its existing form until new "big county" bills can be drafted.

Stenstrom also said he plans to discuss the problem with Richard Erwin, state attorney general, next week. Erwin is already thinking about the problem because "counties throughout the state will face it," the senator said.

Stenstrom told Brevard commissioners he had a "nasty experience" with population increases right after the 1950 census. He was county judge of Seminole County at the time.

The 1950 census pushed Seminole County into a new bracket, one in which the County Judge could no longer operate under the fees system.

"I lost about $2,400 personal income because a salary of only $1,200 per year was allowed for a county judgeship in the new bracket and the county went in the hole because laws covering the new bracket didn't allow us to collect the expenses of the court," he said.

Brevard County Attorney William Akridge also told the county commissioners Thursday that he is concerned about the legislative problems posed by the coming census.

The 1950 census pushed Brevard into a higher population bracket, and "I had to prepare about 40 bills repealing outmoded legislation," he said.

Accused Slayer Found Sane

BONIFAY — (UPI) — Negro Frank Peterson, charged with the ax slaying of a Bonifay sharecropper and his two year old daughter, was found to be legally sane Friday.

Date for his arraignment was set by Circuit Judge Warren P. Fitzpatrick for Monday.

College Urged On Park Site

40-Acre Tract Said Adequate

Herald Bureau

COCOA — A representative of the National Recreation Association Friday urged this city to offer part of one of its parks as a junior college site.

City officials have been reluctant to part with the property. it is part of a 131-acre tract on Clear Lake, an abandoned reservoir, which has been set aside as a wilderness park.

Ralph Van Fleet said the city could give up 40 acres of the park without hurting its recreation program. The Brevard County School Board has asked for 80 acres.

Van Fleet who spent two days in Brevard at the request of city and county officials said 40 acres would be adequate for a college and pointed out the junior college in St. Petersburg has a smaller site.

Construction of a Brevard County Junior College has been approved by the State Education Department, but no site has been picked for it. Cocoa and Eau Gallie are vying for the college.

In his recommendations to the city, Van Fleet also urged Cocoa to force the Cocoa Gun Club to close its Clear Lake rifle range as a rifle range.

"It would be impractical to continue the use of a rifle range as a facility in this park," he said.

Van Fleet also endorsed a city recreation program which calls for tennis courts at Provost Park, construction of an Indian River picnic grounds and construction of a Negro park.

Mayor Gary Bennett has asked Cocoa citizens to write the City Council and express their opinions on the proposal to locate the college on the city-owned property.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS may look better in some departments, but when it comes to bathing suits—well? The difference a half century made is shown by Ave Marie Jenkins (modern suit) and Pam Pringle. Ave's theme girl for the 1959 Sandy Shoes Festival scheduled at Fort Pierce March 2 to 8. Features will be a pageant, parade, barbecue, golf tourney, and, of course, bathing beauties.

First Services There

Church to Open Sunday at Juno

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

JUNO BEACH—When the doors of the former Seminole restaurant opens at 11 a.m. Sunday Juno and Juno Beach will experience it's first church service.

The Rev. Roy C. Sampley, retired minister of Jensen Beach, will start the services.

And so a church will be born.

There are no officers, official board members, Sunday School, Youth Fellowship, women's circle, or any groups which make up an organized church.

The Juno Beach church is sponsored by the Stuart and Riviera Beach Methodist Churches.

Preliminary plans were under the direction of the West Palm Beach District of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church.

Preliminary plans were under the direction of the West Palm Beach District of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church.

The church area will extend North to Jupiter and will include the new communities of Sequesta, and Jupiter Inlet Colony.

The southern boundary will go to the northern boundaries of the Village of North West Palm Beach, and the Western boundary will include the residential area West of Juno Beach.

Nearly 35 families have indicated that they will become members of the church, said Rev. Sampley.

The church building is located near the Juno Fishing Pier, and near the banks of a small lake on A1A.

Negotiations are now under way for the purchase of the building and surrounding land by the church.

Rev. Sampley served eight years as pastor of the Jensen Beach Community Church, and just retired last June. He was ordained a Methodist minister 30 years ago.

Rev. Sampley was eighth in his family to become a Methodist Minister.

His wife Mary has shared his church duties. She taught a Bible class for eight years at the Community Church.

Sunday she will furnish the church music.

Rev. Sampley was named the first and only Army chaplain at Camp Murphy, which was located in the area now known as Jonathan Dickinson Park.

Eau Gallie To Revamp Vote System

Herald Bureau

EAU GALLIE — City officials are planning to revamp the municipal election system to provide for permanent voter registration and the division of the single large precinct into two sections.

City Attorney Charles A. Williams is writing an ordinance that would allow the Municipal Civic Center precinct to be split. Council must approve two readings of the bill before it can become law — the first to come Monday night.

Under this proposed ordinance, all persons residing south of the Eau Gallie River would be in one precinct and those north of the river would be in the second one. This follows county precinct boundaries.

City Manager Clark Maxwell said he will begin ordering new registration forms as soon as council adopts the precinct ordinance. No trouble is expected on adoption of the measure because council proposed the action.

When the permanent registration system is adopted, all voters will have to re-register. This is expected to take place late in February, according to present plans, reported Maxwell.

Marco Range Contract Let

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Defense Department said a $1,247,403 contract was being awarded Thursday for construction of the Eglin Gulf Test Range facility off Naples.

Aides to Sen. Spessard Holland said he was informed the contract would be awarded by Army Engineers to Jefferson Construction Co. of Miami.

The project will be built on Marco Island.

Man Held In Slaying

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A heavily tattooed "born to raise hell" man is under arrest as the second suspect in the robbery-slaying near here Oct. 7 of James E. Harrison, 31, Indian River City.

The FBI in Knoxville said it had taken in custody James E. Leach Jr., 21, on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Leach was the hitchhiker companion of Roy Olson, 23, when Harrison picked them up between Jacksonville and Lake City.

Olson has been in custody in California, where authorities said he confessed stabbing Harrison, robbing him of $500.

One Charge For Maxwell

Herald Bureau

COCOA — Assistant State Attorney Tom Waddell said he could find no grounds for additional charges against Thomas A. Maxwell Jr. of Cocoa, driver of a car which killed a motorcycle rider in a Tuesday night headon collision.

Maxwell has been charged with improper passing, but records of the accident investigation had been turned over to Waddell for an investigation aimed at determining whether additional charges should be filed.

Sgt. Tom H. Smellgrove, 27, of Patrick Air Force Base was killed in the Cocoa-Cocoa Beach causeway accident. Police said Maxwell's car struck the motorcycle headon when Maxwell pulled out of line to pass several cars.

11th Hour Attempt Planned

Two Cities Set Meeting Monday

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — This city will make an eleventh-hour attempt to keep a private well drilling concern from taking Eau Gallie's water business.

The Melbourne city commission has set up a 2 p.m. Monday meeting in the city hall here with members of the Eau Gallie city council to discuss a revamped water agreement.

This session with Melbourne comes several hours before Eau Gallie was scheduled to have accepted a new offer from Layne-Atlantic Co. of Virginia, according to reliable municipal sources there. The private deal was to have been closed Monday night.

Melbourne previously gave Eau Gallie a proposition on supplying the neighboring community with bulk water to keep a water shortage from developing late this year.

However, the Monday meeting will be the first full-dress session for the two municipal boards. Previous negotiations were handled by the two city managers.

At the same time the Melbourne bid was received, the private firm entered the picture. Eau Gallie asked both parties to make a better offer.

An Eau Gallie official said that his city already has the second Layne-Atlantic offer, and councilmen have "made up their minds after giving it serious study." This official declared that Eau Gallie had heard nothing from Melbourne when the second private deal was presented.

Melbourne would supply Eau Gallie with water from its nearly completed multi-million dollar water system. Layne-Atlantic would provide well water.

The original Melbourne deal called for Eau Gallie to pay 42 cents a thousand gallons for the first 5,000 gallons, and 46 cents for each additional thousand gallons. Melbourne also would require Eau Gallie to build its own water storage tank.

Eau Gallie officials balked at the rate boost when water consumption increased. But a Melbourne water bond issue handicaps its offer to Eau Gallie.

Layne-Atlantic representatives were sent packing on their original offer to drill a new well field, construct a 10 million gallon per month capacity treatment plant, over-head storage tank, and charge 42 cents per thousand for the first seven and one-half million gallons, and then 37 cents per thousand in excess of that amount.

Construct a 20-million gallon per month capacity treatment plant, drill a new well field, storage tank, and charge the previous rate. The city would guarantee to use 10 million gallons a month, and the company promises to construct a similar plant in the northern section of Eau Gallie when additional water is needed.

Eau Gallie would own this first plant in 20 years, or less —depending on when installments were paid off.

The plant would be tied in with the present treatment facility so that customers would receive water if one should be closed down for repairs.

The first plant would be located on the south side of the Eau Gallie River and west of the sewage treatment plant.

MOOREHAVEN — Mayor J. C. Jones and city commissioners were presented a volume of Holy Scriptures in a public service at First Methodist Church by the pastor, Dr. Martin R. Davis, as part of the Moorehaven Bible Crusade.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

Betty Grable Rudy Vallee Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time —you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Property Owners Differ On Toll Bridge Proposal

INDIALANTIC — Persons owning beach property in the proposed road and bridge tax district — which would help finance a SR A1A toll bridge over Sebastian Inlet — have mixed opinions about the idea.

Some like the tax district proposal and would welcome the span, others feel "taxes are high enough," and still another opinion was that there are other projects more necessary than the bridge at this time.

In sampling opinions, The Herald found that property owners in the northern section of the proposed district — south of Patrick Air Force Base — feel that SR A1A four-laning from Indialantic to the base was a more pressing problem.

The South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce is backing the proposition to form a special tax district to help finance the toll bridge. The county plans to ask the 1959 Legislature to approve legislation permitting the action. However, voters would have to approve the construction bond issue.

Here are a few of the opinions:

Mrs. Ivar Meland, South Melbourne Beach: "I'd be very happy to have the bridge. Although I am in business, I'd feel the same way if I only owned a home out here. It would be nice to have a route from the south."

William Schneider, South Melbourne Beach: "A bridge wouldn't mean a thing to me. It would be good only for the motel people. Anyway, I'm not in favor of raising taxes."

Charles Niemeyer, Indialantic: "We need more figures on how much it would cost, and then it's time to decide whether you're for or against the proposal. It would add to the attraction of the East Coast, and I don't think the toll would discourage motorists from using the bridge. Many people now are disappointed when they come all the way over here from U. S. 1 and can't go to Vero Beach on A1A."

James Reinman, Indialantic council president: "I don't consider the bridge as an actual need, although it would be an asset to the area. We need A1A four-laned to the base, drainage and sewage before the bridge."

Mrs. Bruce Glass, South Patrick Shores area: "They charge enough taxes now for the results we're getting. I would like to see them four-lane A1A first, and then build the bridge."

Bridge Will Push A1A Toward Vero

MELBOURNE — The spanning of Sebastian Inlet — one of Florida's most famous fishing areas for sportsmen — has been talked about for years by local residents.

Tourists are able to take this scenic route along the Atlantic Ocean from the northern part of the East Coast, but are stopped at the inlet. A bridge over the waterway would allow travel all the way to such points as Vero Beach and Fort Pierce.

James R. Allen, South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce president, also sees the bridge as providing another beach escape route during a time of disaster.

Besides, Allen predicts that beach property values would "double or triple two to three years after the bridge would be in operation." Faster commercial development also would be expected, he said.

However, the first serious effort to build the span was stopped by lack of funds two years ago — when four-laning of U. S. 1 was being pushed. And now this improved freeway is seen as an important competitor to an A1A toll bridge.

Officials backing the toll bridge feel creation of a tax district might help bring down the toll charge — in addition to help sell construction bonds.

The county engaged a consulting engineer, James A. Tuck, to make a feasibility study of the inlet bridge project back in 1956, and he figured a 40-cent toll would be needed.

Tuck estimated the cost would run $1,254,600 and could be paid off by a 30-year bond issue.

payment on the principal would be needed for the first three years, with $46,500 payment on bonds per year starting on the fourth year.

Interest on the total for the first three years would have been $62,730 per year, plus operating cost and expenses of $71,730 to make the total outlay $134,460.

Against this amount, Tuck showed a traffic count of 336,000 cars a year using U. S. 1.

Estimating 10 per cent of this traffic flow for A1A and the proposed bridge, the survey said a 40-cent toll per vehicle would bring in $135,000. Tuck said the bridge would pay for itself.

But the State Road Department could not be convinced and the project was dropped.

Polio Victim

Lue Anne Austin (center) of Pahokee knows what the March of Dimes has done for her; she has had polio for the last eight years. Miss Austin spent about two years in rehabilitation work and finished high school in a wheel chair. Mrs. Ray Sullivan (left), drive chairman for South Bay, and Mrs. John L. Evans, Lake Harbor-Bean City Chairman, can expect all the campaign cooperation they wish from Miss Austin.

Council Won't OK Van Brunt

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Merit System Council refused Friday to give immediate approval to industrial commission chairman James T. Vocelle's plan to create a new and better job for a man bypassed for his division's directorship.

The council discussed at length Vocelle's request for approval of the new classification of assistant director of the employment service, then put off action until next month.

But not once did council members mention that Vocelle intended to give the new job to Dana Leitch, high man in the examination for the director's job, which was given to Harry Van Brunt.

Van Brunt finished 12th among the 13 who took the examination for the director's job.

Vocelle had sought a noncompetitive examination for Van Brunt, who was director of personnel. Merit system director Angus Laird insisted upon a competitive examination.

Mental Health

TRUE ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

IN A SENSE, TRUE. But there are some good signs everyone should know. Are you generally well-poised so that you don't easily become excited? When you make mistakes, do you get up and go on instead of spending much time and energy regretting them? Can you see others succeed and he honored for it without feeling uneasy? Do you have the habit of happiness? Do you usually enjoy life? These aren't all, but some of the good signs.

Are disobedient children more easily excited?
Yes————— No—————

No. According to one study of 67 four year olds in one nursery school, for instance, the disobedient children were more quarrelsome and cruel. They were more impatient. They were less affectionate and friendly, and had less social poise than many others. But they were not more excitable.

More girls date:
Different boys———The Same Boy———

Different boys. More than twice as many girls who date at all, say they date different boys (67 per cent) than the same boy (21 per cent) according to the University of Michigan study of adolescent girls. The younger the girl, the greater the likelihood that she dates different boys, although more than half (55 per cent) of those over 16 do so, likewise.

Cuba Has Legal Circus With Death in the Wings

By JAMES BUCHANAN

Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

His wrists handcuffed before him, his false teeth nibbling on his upper lip, Sosa stood in his blue prison garb in the blazingly lighted center of Havana's Sports Palace and took the verdict without any outburst.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

The Tavarezes came to this country from the Dominican Republic two years ago. They lived for 18 months in Miami before coming here.

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth. The alleged kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, has been committed to a hospital for mental examination.

The Tavarezes have two other children, Carmine Josephine, five, and Doris, three.

Tavarez, 30, is a $45-a-week factory worker.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

Peel-Off Missile Try Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL —(UPI) — Ignition failure in the second stage of a Thor-Able test rocket early Friday thwarted an attempt to test a new nose cone which may ride atop ICBMs of the future.

The Air Force had hoped to obtain valuable data from an intercontinental hop of the steeple-shaped cone. But without the added boost from the Thor-Able's upper stage, the "peel-away" cone plunged into the ocean far short of the planned target area 5,000 miles away.

The failure set the Air Force back a notch in its program to develop a lightweight warhead protector for the smaller, solid-fuel intercontinental ballistic missiles still on the drawing boards.

But the Douglas Co., which makes the Thor-Able test vehicle, said other rockets would be fired full intercontinental range — 6,300 miles.

Because of the comparatively small size and thrust of the solid fuel missiles, rocketeers must develop a nose cone lighter than the heat-absorbing cone used on liquid fuel missiles such as the Atlas.

Friday's experimental cone was designed to flake off like the skin of a sunburned bather when the cone grew white-hot on re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

The 90-foot, 52-ton rocket blasted off at 12:08 a.m. and cast an eerie glow over the Cape before it rumbled into a dense cloud blanket 30 seconds later.

But the Air Force announced about 30 minutes afterward that while "the launch and the first stage appeared normal," early instrumentation reports indicated that "the second stage did not ignite."

Weather outlook for today: More of the same.

The clouds will start breaking in time for the stars to peek through tonight, Weatherman Philip Ackerman said Friday.

But otherwise, today will be like Friday, when temperatures dropped to the mid-50s in the early morning, he said.

Castro Calls Off Telecast

Second Trial Is Postponed

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — The second of Havana's spectacular "war crimes" trials was abruptly postponed Friday. Fidel Castro demanded an end to television and radio broadcasts of the trials in the city's huge Sports Palace.

Several hours after the defendant at the first trial, which ended early Friday, was sentenced to death, it was announced that the second trial scheduled for Friday afternoon would be postponed until today. The announcement said the defendant, Batista Army Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, was ill.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

The 13-hour trial Thursday of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was fully broadcast. Some 30,000 spectators jammed the Sports Palace stadium to jeer and roar at the defendant who was accused of 108 murders and burning 120 homes in Oriente province.

Shortly after midnight, when most of the crowd had left, the three-man court of bearded rebels convicted him and sentenced him to death for murder, looting, robbery and damage to public property.

Sosa Blanco was taken to Cabana fortress to await execution. He said he would appeal the death sentence.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

His three sisters visited him at his cell in a dimly-lighted corridor. They brought him a rum bottle filled with coffee.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

U.S. Aid Ordered By Ike

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(UPI)— The worst floods in 46 years smashed through a levee into Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday, covering one third of the historic city and driving 10,000 persons from their homes.

Another flood, the worst on record, forced the evacuation of 20 per cent of Meadville, Pa., and filled the city's hospitals with refugees suffering from exposure.

President Eisenhower Friday declared the flood stricken regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania as disaster areas and authorized immediate federal aid.

The president took the action in response to urgent pleas from Govs. Michael V. Disalle of Ohio and David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania.

"The distress suffered by the people in the stricken areas is of deep concern to me," the president said, "and I am hopeful that the situation may rapidly improve."

The American Red Cross announced it was rushing aid to the 11,000 families victimized by flood waters in the five-state area of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and New York.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, National Red Cross president, called the floods a "major disaster."

He said 82 shelters had been set up in stricken areas and that 6,000 persons already had received food or lodging. Gruenther said the Red Cross would move quickly to rehabilitate families who still need medical or other assistance when the immediate emergency ends.

More flood threats on ice-clogged rivers built up in New York State and Kentucky in the wake of the most bitter storm of the year. A sub-zero cold wave increased the misery of millions and iced the eastern flood-waters.

Damage from the storm and floods neared 100 million dollars and the weather death count passed the 100 mark.

A count since the start of the great storm Tuesday showed 107 deaths from the Rockies to the Appalachians blamed on weather-caused traffic acci-

Giblin, Stopped as Speeder, Tells Officer He's Immune from Arrest

By PHIL FORTMAN

Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Vincent C. Giblin was taken into custody by Coral Gables police Friday on charges of resisting arrest after he claimed he and his wife were "immune" from being stopped and ticketed for a traffic violation.

He later said the officer who arrested him was in "contempt of court."

A Gables motorcycle policeman said he stopped Giblin and his wife, Virginia, who was driving in their car in the 1200 block on Blue Rd. after a radar clocking device set up in the area showed them traveling 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Seymour Anderson, the policeman, said the judge became "highly indignant" at being stopped. Anderson said following an argument the judge took over the wheel of the car from Mrs. Giblin and raced 20 blocks before he and his wife were again stopped.

The judge was taken to the Gables police station in a squad car. There he told Police Chief William G. Kimbrough:

"In my opinion I am immune from arrest in view of the fact that I was en route to open Circuit Court which begins at 9 a.m." (The arrest slip showed the Giblins were stopped at 9:05 a.m.)

The judge was charged with "failure to obey a police officer" and "interfering with a police officer's duties."

Water Bars Rescue of Trapped 12

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

An Exclusive Interview With Batista

Unhappy Life of a Dictator Without Country

He's hated in his own country and scorned by the rest of the world.

What's ahead for Fulgencio Batista, the onetime strong man of Cuba who had to start the new year by fleeing for safety to another country?

An unusual insight into the ex-dictator's unhappy life in his Dominican Republic refuge was gained by George Beebe, Herald managing editor. The setting for the exclusive interview was vastly different than the last time they talked aboard Batista's palatial yacht.

Batista tells of his plans and thoughts in the first of Beebe's absorbing series which starts in Sunday's Herald.

We're Letting Reds Lead Missile Race—Symington

Predicts 4-1 Edge In 2 Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) said Friday the Eisenhower administration is allowing Russia to pull away in the missiles race. In two years, he predicted, Russia will have a 4-1 edge in long range rockets.

"The coming year may afford us our last chance to initiate any real effort to catch up with the Russians in the most important fields of modern weaponry," Symington said in a speech to the Senate.

The Missouri senator, long a critic of administration defense policies, challenged statements by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a news conference Thursday.

McElroy said then "we do not believe that Russia has an ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) capable of operations against this country at this time." He also discounted reports that Russia will have 300 ICBMs by next year.

Symington said McElroy's remarks imply "a great deal more combat readiness on the part of the U.S. than is justified by the very few ICBMs this country will have available for retaliation in the next two years."

He suggested that McElroy's statements and others like them may be "released for public consideration primarily to support a restricted budget position."

Symington said the U.S. has successfully test-fired ICBMs and set up production lines that could produce more; adding:

"The reason we are not planning full production of ICBMs is because this administration is not planning to spend the necessary funds."

Symington, who often has accused the administration of penny pinching on defense, gave notice he will try to boost military budget allotments above totals asked by President Eisenhower.

"During the next few years," he said, "adequate defense requires more money than estimated in the President's budget."

Eisenhower has asked $40,945,000,000 for defense in the fiscal year starting July 1. This is an increase of 145 million over estimated spending for defense this year.

McElroy, appearing before a House appropriations subcommittee Thursday, said "the nation is prepared to meet the threat it faces today." He said that during the past year this country has made good progress in missile development, defense against missiles, and antisubmarine warfare.

He said in prepared testimony that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "have gone on record with me that they consider this budget adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration (the coming fiscal year)."

Thousands Flee Two-State Floods

At Chillicothe, a storied, 163-year-old city of 27,000 which served as Ohio's capital between 1803 and 1807, the rain-swollen Scioto River swept out of its banks at a height of 32.5 feet, 16.5 feet over flood stage, and crashed through a levee guarding the business section.

The icy river surged over a third of the city. It spread so quickly that many families were unable to reach safety on foot. Their only escape was by helicopter, army ducks, rowboat or high-wheeled cattle trucks.

The 'copters hovered over the worst-afflicted areas, plucking residents from front lawns which had suddenly turned into islands. The 'copters also helped direct rescue operations by radio and dropped food and medicine to city employes who had stuck by the city's flooded-out sewage plant.

Practically every able-bodied man in the city, along with National Guard troopers and Army and Navy reservists, fought the floods throughout the day.

The refugees were housed in churches, schools, lodge halls and private homes.

The waters of French Creek spilled into the northwest Pennsylvania town of Meadeville at six feet over flood stage and sent 1,300 families — 20 per cent of the town's population — running.

Four Army ducks helped in the evacuations and helicopters stood by for action if needed. The ducks concentrated on families who refused to leave their homes until they were surrounded by water.

Meanwhile, new floods and blizzards struck upper New York State in a sequel to the raging storm which swept the nation's midcontinent earlier in the week and gorged rivers with record rainfalls.

Weather-wise Watertown, N.Y., reported its worst blizzard of the winter, with more than a foot of wind-blown snow blocking roads, closing schools, and cutting visibility to zero. A foot more of snow was expected and snowbound motorists began finding refuge in farmhouses in Jefferson and Lewis Counties.

Floods accompanied the upstate New York snows. Ice on the Hoosick River threatened to destroy the last covered bridge still in use in Rensselaer County, while the Delaware River was bloated to a width of 500 feet.

Pilots Strike In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, — (AP) — All major Mexican airlines were grounded Friday by a pilot walkout. Both domestic and foreign flights were halted.

Thousands of passengers, including many tourists, were stranded. Airlines immediately asked the government to take action.

Pilots said they are not striking — that they merely refuse to work until certain benefits are granted. They asked no wage increases.

Expecting an airline move to use substitute pilots, the union circulated pamphlets at the International Airport warning passengers this could be dangerous. They said substitutes lack experience.

Soupy Sky 'Stacks Up' Airliners

Airplanes were stacked a mile high at a half-dozen "hold" points around Miami Friday, circling with grumbling passengers and waiting as long as two and a half hours to be guided by instruments to souped-in Miami International Airport.

At one point during the rush hours Friday afternoon, the control tower at the airport said 32 planes were being held in the sky waiting to land at three-minute intervals.

Some planes which were low on gas were diverted to landings at other airports, and there were delays in outgoing traffic also, the tower reported.

The airways traffic jam resulted from the thick overcast. Under instrument flying conditions, an official at the control tower explained, aircraft are required to stay at different altitudes and circle in widely separated areas when they arrive at their destination.

"In clear weather, one plane can see the one in front of him in the landing pattern and follow it on in," an official explained. "When we go on instruments, things get complicated and it takes longer."

Pan American World Airways said four passenger flights and one cargo flight were diverted to Nassau to wait out the jam-up over Miami. Two PAA flights to Havana were canceled due to bad weather there.

Between landings every three minutes, outgoing planes were taking off. A plane was landing or taking off every minute and a half most of the day Friday.

"We've got them stacked up to 18,000 feet in some places," the control tower said.

Ike Names Group to Eye Costs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower set up a special committee Friday to make sure government purchases and other federal activities do not fan inflationary fires by driving up prices unduly.

In ordering the move, the President said the committee will help him decide whether the government is being run in such a way as to contribute as much as possible to "reasonable price stability." If not, he said, action must be taken.

The action reflected the President's warning in his recent budget and economic messages that an all-out effort must be made to "restrain the forces that drive prices up and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings."

The new presidential committee will be headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Other members will consist of representatives of at least 10 government agencies.

The President also ordered all heads of federal departments engaged in procurement, stockpiling, farm price support, rate regulation, subsidy and similar activities to re-examine their programs and take any action necessary to help in the fight against inflation.

In establishing the committee, he noted that many government agencies are engaged in activities which directly affect the rise or fall of all prices and costs. But he said there was no central body to ride herd on them.

Government agencies represented on the committee include all those with big procurement programs.

Members will come from the Defense, Post Office, Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce Departments; the Budget Bureau, the General Services Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Aviation Agency, and the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. Officials from other agencies may be added later.

Strike Curb Introduced

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida Friday introduced a bill to permit states to enact laws to protect the public interest from damage resulting from strikes against public utilities.

Florida has such a law but the Supreme Court ruled a few years ago in a Wisconsin case that the Taft-Hartley Law preempted this entire field and voided state laws.

Holland carried his fight for his measure to the Senate floor last session but lost an attempt to have it added to the Kennedy-Ives labor bill.

His Children Had Shots

Truck Driver, 25, First Polio Victim

Dade County recorded its first polio case of the year Friday—a 25-year-old truck driver who had given his two children Salk vaccine shots but neglected to take them himself.

Terrell Howell, of 2255 NW 175th St., was in critical condition in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. He has bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease.

"The doctors say that if he can get through the next 48 hours, he will pull through," said Howell's wife, Alice, 21.

"Neither of us had the shots," she said. "I guess it's because you always think of the kids but not yourself. But I got my first shot today."

She also got booster shots for the two children, Mary, three, and Terrell Jr., one.

Howell, a truck driver for a concrete company, came home from work last Friday night complaining of a headache and a pain in the small of his back, Mrs. Howell said.

"He was weak by Sunday, and by Tuesday he couldn't walk or eat. We had to carry him to the doctor's office, then to the hospital," she said.

Mrs. Howell said that when she visited her husband, "he seemed to feel fine. But being in the iron lung, he is scared. He's never been in a hospital before."

Howell is the county's first polio case of 1959. Last year, there were 30 cases in Dade County, according to County Health Officer Dr. T. E. Cato. Four of them were definitely bulbar polio.

There were two polio deaths here in 1958, Dr. Cato said, but one of the victims developed polio in 1957.

Dr. Cato urged Dade citizens who have not had their shots to get them.

Auto Prices Also Down

Food Sparks Decline In Cost of Living

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The cost of living dropped two-tenths of one per cent in December in the first monthly decline since August, the government reported Friday. It attributed the drop primarily to a dip in food prices.

The decline lowered the Labor Department's consumer price index to 123.7 per cent of the base period 1947-49. The November index equalled the all-time high of 123.9 per cent set last July, and the December index still was 1.7 per cent above a year ago.

The Labor Department also reported that the earnings of the average factory worker after taxes last month reached an all-time high of $79.60 a week for a man with three dependents and $72.10 for a single man. This was $1.20 above November.

The December drop in the cost of living was too slight to affect the wages of 700,000 workers whose pay is pegged by their collective bargaining contracts to the department's price index.

H. E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the lower food prices reflected decreases in the cost of oranges, eggs, coffee, poultry and pork. Also down were prices of new autos, women's and girls coats, suits and dresses, recreation, and personal care.

Riley said food prices probably will rise again this month. But he doubted there would be any substantial change in the overall cost of living.

Quiet Rites For DeMille

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)— Cecil B. DeMille, famed in life for his spectacles and crowd scenes, was buried Friday with simple rites more quiet and orderly than any Hollywood funeral in recent memory.

The Rev. Harry E. Owing Jr., rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, conducted the 15-minute ceremony from the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer.

There was no eulogy, and a crowd of 500 fans kept silent throughout the rites.

Mack Trial Ruling Due Next Week

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews took under advisement Friday a request that the Channel 10 trial involving Richard Mack and Thurman Whiteside be transferred from Washington, to Miami.

Judge Matthews indicated she will rule on that motion, as well as others, within the next week.

Whiteside, a Miami attorney, and Mack, former federal communications commissioner, were indicted on charges they conspired to have Mack sell his vote in the Channel 10 television award. It was awarded to National Airlines.

Mack and Whiteside requested a change in the trial site on the grounds that continuing and widespread publicity in Washington within the past year had created a prejudiced atmosphere which would make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial here.

Defense attorneys also said that a Washington trial would work a hardship on the defendants since virtually all of the witnesses reside in Miami. Also, they said, the expense of a Washington trial would be much greater.

Nicholas J. Chase, Mack's Washington attorney, emphasized that Mack is destitute and that he is "ill of mind and body — and seriously so."

He said Mack is unemployed, that his wife has gone to work and that he is living with his father in Fort Lauderdale.

Government attorneys, however, produced a letter from Dr. Thomas Armour Jr. of Coral Gables stating that Mack is "able to travel anywhere or to stand trial in the District of Columbia."

Armour said Mack is "perfectly clear and competent mentally" and that "I do not find now any physical condition which impairs his being able" to stand trial.

The letter from Armour was dated Jan. 2.

In support of their claim that there is a prejudiced atmosphere in Washington, defense attorneys showed Judge Matthews huge blowups of front page stories which have appeared in Washington newspapers.

Government attorneys retorted an FBI check of Miami papers showed that there was much more publicity on the case in Miami than there was in Washington.

Government attorneys said this would compare to 100 to 150 Washington newspaper articles produced by defense attorneys.

Whiteside appeared in court with his attorneys, Richard Hunt of Miami and Arthur Hilland of Washington. Mack did not show up.

Defense attorneys estimated the trial will last six weeks and indicated they will ask the judge to postpone the trial date now set for Feb. 16 if the judge denies the motion to transfer.

High pressure covering most of the region from the mid and lower Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast accounted for widespread sunshine but continued cold temperatures through Friday afternoon.

Readings in the teens persisted in the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians at midday and freezing levels were noted in the mountains of Tennessee while 40s ranged across the Gulf region.

Blustery winds sweeping across the Great Lakes region into the northeast held temperatures to 10 degrees or lower in many sections and maintained snow flurries and local squalls from Michigan across New York and Pennsylvania into northern New England.

Warmer weather from the northwest and over most of the midsection of the country during the night is expected to nudge into the southeast on Saturday.

Colder weather from the Carolinas into New England over night is expected to linger.

Showers will accompany mild temperatures in the Pacific northwest while snow flurries will be scattered across the mountains from Montana into Colorado.

Dade Plans Taxes For Keys Link

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

MIAMI—It may cost Upper Keys property owners a large chunk of cash for their "connection" to the mainland.

Under a plan revealed by Metro officials Friday for the 45-mile, $56 million causeway system Dade County would collect a special property tax from island owners and use it for construction purposes.

Key to the plan is creation of a "special taxing district" composed of Elliott, Old Rhodes, Sands, Arsenicker and smaller South Dade islands.

County Attorney Darrey A. Davis said he will bring a test suit to determine whether Metro can create a special tax district. He added he hopes for support from the keys property owners, which "will be the sweetest kind of background music." But if the owners protest, Metro will lose its case, he predicted.

Commissioner Ralph Fossey, who owns 40 acres of Elliot Key, said he feared the majority of island owners would oppose the tax unless the county agreed to levy tolls to finance part of the keys causeway.

"At least half the owners would be just as happy if no bridge were ever built out there," Fossey said. But zooming land values if the islands were connected to the mainland might sway the majority, he added.

Fossey estimated that 1800-acre Elliott Key, now worth about nine million dollars, would become a 50-million-dollar property the moment it was connected to the mainland.

The Metro Commission causeway finance committee, under Chairman Walter Weiss, turned to property tax financing after consultants advised that bonds for a completely toll-financed north-south causeway system would not be marketable.

The Commission voted Jan. 14 to move at once with financing and constructing the 19.64-million-dollar, 15-mile "Mid-Bay Drive" part of the system. It runs from U.S. 1 at the Broward line to MacArthur Causeway.

Naples Notes

Double Shingle Ethical?

By Tom Morgan
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES LAWYERS who also handle realty sales may have to face a little regulatory problem.

Ben Shuman, counsel for the Florida Real Estate Commission, made a personal inspection while here last week on another matter and noted four lawyers with real estate signs in their windows, an apparent violation of Canon 27 of the Florida Bar.

MORGAN

Shuman was interested both from the realty and legal viewpoints. The State Bar says it is unethical for a lawyer to be a real estate broker in the same office with his law practice although "under certain circumstances" it is quite proper to share a reception room with another broker.

The bar is pretty starchy about such matters. It won't even let lawyers put "attorney at law" on their Christmas cards because that's advertising.

A prominent Fort Myers attorney noted the signs some time ago but gave up the matter when he learned that two of the violators then were president and grievance committee chairman, respectively, in the local bar.

Rock-Proof

Those wanting to "get the facts" on rock vs. shell-based streets need only take a look at Page Park near Fort Myers.

Rock-based streets there were put in by the Army about 1943 and have had no maintenance since. They are used daily by heavy gladiolus trucks and have no patches or potholes after all these years.

As Dr. Francis Ford points out, however, Naples is prevented from trying out rock streets because its shell streets won't carry trucks big enough to haul rock cheaply.

Man Held In Slaying

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A heavily tattooed "born to raise hell" man is under arrest as the second suspect in the robbery-slaying near here Oct. 7 of James E. Harrison, 31, Indian River City.

The FBI in Knoxville said it had taken in custody James E. Leach Jr., 21, on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Leach was the hitchhiker companion of Roy Olson, 23, when Harrison picked them up between Jacksonville and Lake City.

George Dickinson Touches Up Doll Piano

He Builds Tiny 'Antiques'

Retired Businessman Enjoys His Doll Furniture Hobby

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A doll who yearns for the grace and elegance of the traditional will be delighted with the furniture handmade by George Dickinson.

Making antique doll furniture is the hobby of George Dickinson, a retired business man. Former owner of George's Paint and Hardware Co., he sold out that and other business enterprises for reasons of health.

As he got better, time began to hang heavily on his hands. One day a year ago he watched his wife try to contrive a doll bed out of a shoe box for a small niece.

"Let's see if I can't make one out of wood," he said. And by trial and error, he completed a cunning doll bed that delighted the child.

That started the hobby, and now he works at it most of the day and often far into the night. His workshop is in the garage of his home at 5517 Hobart Ave. Principal tools used are a band saw, punch press and drill press, power driven.

He used scrap lumber and odd bits of this and that. He finds much excellent material at the city dump. People bring him bits of wood and upholstery material.

Mrs. Dickinson makes the mattresses and covers for the beds and upholsters the davenports.

He makes old fashioned cradles, pianos with stools that twirl, tables, chairs, fourposter beds with testers, and practically everything that a good doll housekeeper would like in her home. A traditional home, that is.

City Pays Half

'Pop Up' Station Dispute Settled

Herald Bureau

NAPLES—The city's refusal to pay $1,039 in extra costs on the "pop-up sewer lift station" was amicably settled Friday at a special meeting with Bunnell Piling Co., contractors on the job.

The city agreed to pay half the cost, the approximate amount it saved by differences in depths of trench cuts. No agreement was reached on whether the debt had been agreed to by the city and both sides had conflicting testimony.

Vince Wood of the Bunnell firm pointed out $14,000 in work had been cut from the project and handled by the city "and that hurt."

After the settlement, and after Bunnell's representatives had left, Manager Fred Lowdermilk said the city had done the separate $14,000 bid project for $3,500 by changing the route.

Settlement of the question clears the way for restarting the $1.59 million Tahitian Lodge project of Dudley R. Gallahue. The work has been shut down since August, 1958, for lack of a sewer connection.

The extra cost was incurred when "boiling springs" lifted the pre-fabricated station out of the ground.

City Won't Provide Water Line

NAPLES—According to present thinking the City of Naples will not build a water line into East Naples to serve the new Shadowlawn Elementary School.

The School Board had scheduled discussion of the proposal for next Wednesday but Council jumped the gun at a special meeting Friday.

Mayor W. Roy Smith said the city couldn't run the line but it could furnish water to a line run by the school system and meter the water where it entered the line.

A city line already serves subdivisions bordering East Naples within the city limits but the school is to be about a mile further on.

Man Dies Of Injuries

FORT PIERCE — Louis Kolich, 70, of 3245 South Federal Highway, died of injures suffered in a collision between his truck and a Highway Patrol car on Jan. 16.

The accident occurred on U.S. 1 inside the city limits.

Officer W. R. McCain, who investigated, said Kolich came out of a gas station and attempted to make a U turn.

Marco Range Contract Let

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Defense Department said a $1,247,403 contract was being awarded Thursday for construction of the Eglin Gulf Test Range facility off Naples.

Aides to Sen. Spessard Holland said he was informed the contract would be awarded by Army Engineers to Jefferson Construction Co., of Miami.

The project will be built on Marco Island.

Refunded Bond Issue In Package

Delayed Study Brings Action

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — Preparations for a big refunding sewer revenue certificate issue to finance a loop sewer main circling the heart of Naples business section were begun at a special session Friday by City Council.

No estimate of total amounts were made in the absence of engineering studies but Council guesses ran from $500,000 to $1.25 million.

The new issue would refinance an outstanding $200,000 issue, repay $136,000 owed the general revenue fund of the city, and permit the new construction which may cost $432,000 according to $12,000-a-block cost estimates made by City Manager, Fred M. Lowdermilk.

The special session on the trouble-plagued sewer system was called to resolve difficulties in extra payments for the "pop-up lift station," now safely anchored. Precipitating the start on refinancing action was the word that engineering studies will not be ready until Feb. 15.

To refinance, the city must notify present certificate holders of its intentions by Feb. 1 in a New York financial paper and pay off the certificates on the next interest date, April 1.

Despite the urgency of the question, no action has been taken since early December awaiting the engineering report promised in mid-January by Black and Associates, Tallahassee sewer and water consultants. Then the city got word the report won't come until Feb. 15.

Councilmen quickly called in Chester A. Lucas, fiscal agent, and asked for immediate refunding action to begin. Lucas told the Council that the bond attorneys would not approve financing the new issue on the basis of assessments against property owners benefited.

Lucas urged a utility tax, pointing out 150 Florida cities now have one. He also urged pledging Florida Power and Light Co. franchise payments which netted $24,587 last year and have the cigarette tax revenue, or $25,000.

The manager opposed the utility tax and the mayor went against using the utility franchise funds "unless necessary."

"We want to find what we can do with the latest amount pledged," declared Mayor W. Roy Smith.

Including the $200,000 sewer revenue certificates the city now has $1,645,000 in total debt outstanding.

The new sewer lines would run from 10th St. and First Ave., South, southward to encircle the Fifth Ave. business section with a loop south along Eighth St. to 12th Ave., South, and back up Third St.

Albury Fee OKd in Suit

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — City attorney Hilary Albury has been designated to defend the city in the lawsuit filed by the anti-utility tax petitioners.

The City commission designated Albury, who is also a defendent in the suit, as counsel at a special meeting Thursday night.

No specific payment was mentioned, but the authorizing resolution said Albury "shall be paid a reasonable fee, in addition to his annual compensation . . ."

The lawsuit seeks to have Circuit Court here determine the validity of the citizens petition to repeal the utility tax. The city has rejected the petition as having insufficient valid signatures.

'About the Sportiest Car There Is'

Traffic Jam? He Takes to Air; Soupy? Wings Fold for Highway

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — For a while in Friday's rain, Molton Taylor was undecided whether to fly his airplane to Miami or drive it.

Then the rain lifted and he spread his wings and took off from Broward International Airport, landing about 20 minutes later at Miami.

There he folded the wings into a neat trailer and drove his Aerocar off to Dinner Key Auditorium to be exhibited at the International Foreign and Sports Car Show.

"It's about the sportiest sports car there is," said Taylor, who designed and builds the things in a plant at Longview, Wash.

"Look at all those planes there on the field. Half of them have to stay right on the ground in this weather—they don't have the radio equipement to take off.

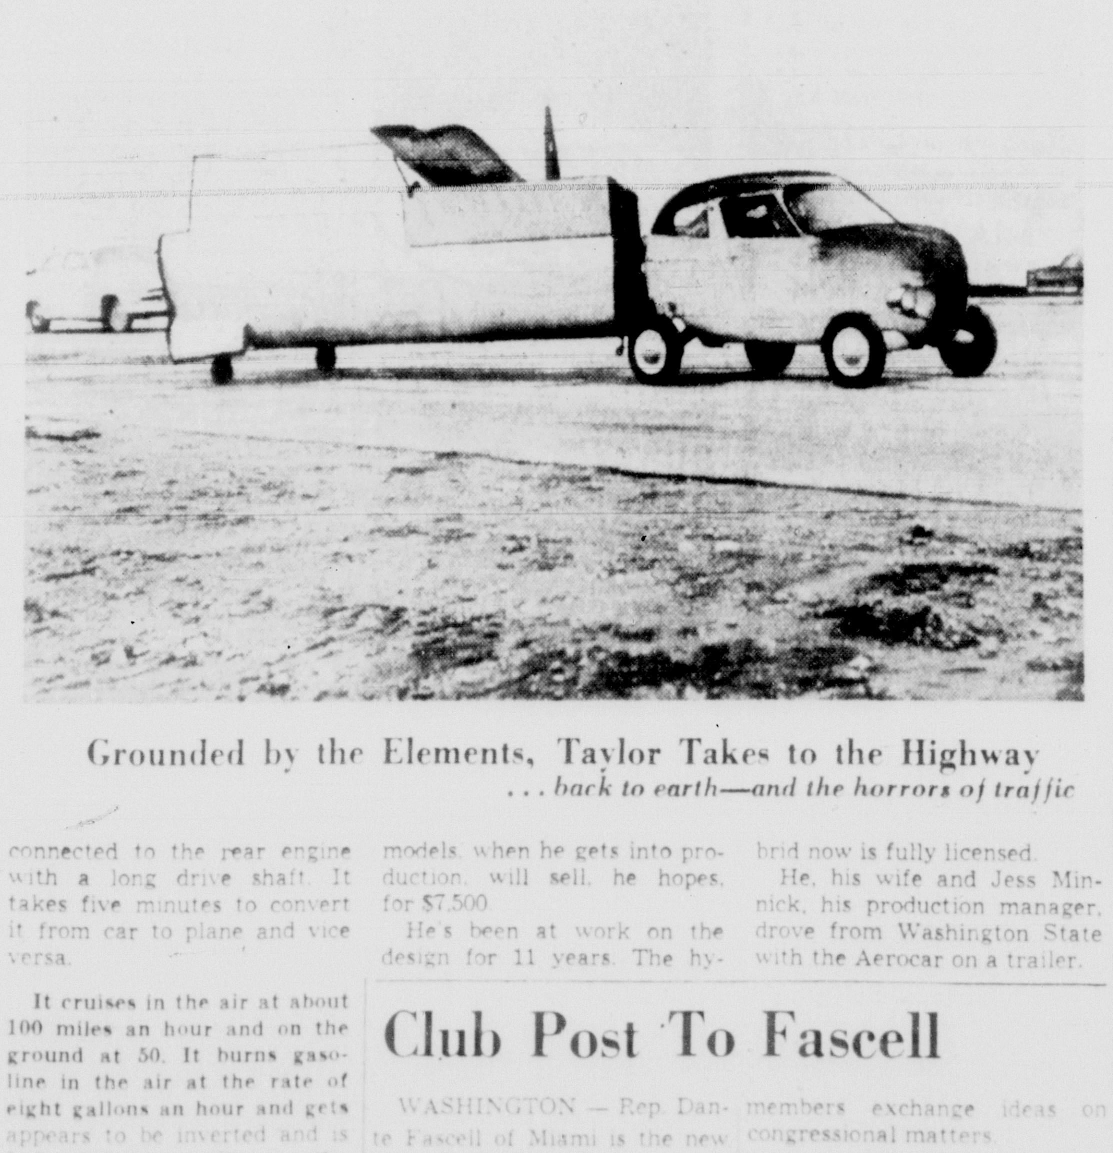
"But I can drive or fly, it doesn't matter . . .

"If I drive and the weather gets better, then I can fly. If it gets bad, I can come down and drive.

"It's the only mode of personal transportation that is faster between two random points than a modern car."

Taylor's car seats two. It has a 150-horsepower Lycoming engine and weighs, with wings, 1,400 pounds. With the wings unbolted and left at home, it becomes a 1,000-pound car with an outsize engine.

"Then it's got a smaller weight-to-power ratio than any sports car," he said.



Grounded by the Elements, Taylor Takes to the Highway
. . . back to earth—and the horrors of traffic

The propeller is mounted behind a tail assembly that connected to the rear engine with a long drive shaft. It takes five minutes to convert it from car to plane and vice versa.

It cruises in the air at about 100 miles an hour and on the ground at 50. It burns gasoline in the air at the rate of eight gallons an hour and gets appears to be inverted and is 1 5 miles to a gallon on the ground. It has a range in the air of 300 miles.

It has a three-speed gear box with reverse and a fan for the air-cooled engine. It has complete sets of car and airplane instruments.

Taylor has built six which he'll sell for $15,000 each. They're handmade. Production models, when he gets into production, will sell, he hopes, for $7,500.

He's been at work on the design for 11 years. The hybrid now is fully licensed.

The club has a meeting about once a month during which members exchange ideas on congressional matters.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

Betty Grable Rudy Vallee Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

Cuba Has Legal Circus With Death in the Wings

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

His wrists handcuffed before him, his false teeth nibbling on his upper lip, Sosa stood in his blue prison garb in the blazingly lighted center of Havana's Sports Palace and took the verdict without any outburst.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

The Tavarezes came to this country from the Dominican Republic two years ago. They lived for 18 months in Miami before coming here.

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth. The alleged kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, has been committed to a hospital for mental examination.

The Tavarezes have two other children, Carmine Josephine, five, and Doris, three.

Tavarez, 30, is a $45-a-week factory worker.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

Pompano Beaches Fading

More Broward News, 1B, 1C

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The three-mile stretch of this city's oceanfront is disappearing at an average rate of about 13 feet a year, and one of the chief causes is the Hillsboro Inlet.

Since February 1954, as much as 112 feet of beach has eroded at some points. From February 1954 to October 1957 an average of 48 feet of oceanfront has eroded.

And prospects are that the erosion will continue at the same rate unless something is done about it.

William H. Morgan and Ahmet Ardman from the University of Florida's coastal engineering laboratory have just completed a study of the beach.

The figures and facts they assembled will be taken to Gainesville for further study. A detailed report on the erosion problem and possible remedies will be made to the city, probably by April 1.

The degree of erosion thus far is based on aerial photographs from 1954, and an on-the-ground survey in February 1957.

What the completed report will recommend is not known for certain, but the experts suggested stablization of the inlet, and some form of artificial nourishment for the beach south of the inlet were necessary steps to combat the erosion problem.

Some way to transfer the sand from the north to the south side of the inlet would be desirable.

The worst case of erosion has been at the foot of SE fourth St., where 112 feet of beach have washed away since 1954.

At the end of Atlantic Blvd., on the public beach, 72 feet of beach have been lost during the same period. At the north end of the public beach, 93 feet has been washed away.

There were a few individual bright spots in the erosion picture, too. For instance, at NE 15th St., 24.3 feet of beach has built up since October 1957. At the south city limits, where 60 feet had eroded from February 1954, to October 1957, 38 feet have been gained since.

Castro Calls Off Telecast

Second Trial Is Postponed

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — The second of Havana's spectacular "war crimes" trials was abruptly postponed Friday. Fidel Castro demanded an end to television and radio broadcasts of the trials in the city's huge Sports Palace.

Several hours after the defendant at the first trial, which ended early Friday, was sentenced to death, it was announced that the second trial scheduled for Friday afternoon would be postponed until today. The announcement said the defendant, Batista Army Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, was ill.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

The 13-hour trial Thursday of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was fully broadcast. Some 30,000 spectators jammed the Sports Palace stadium to jeer and roar at the defendant who was accused of 108 murders and burning 120 homes in Oriente province.

Shortly after midnight, when most of the crowd had left, the three-man court of bearded rebels convicted him and sentenced him to death for murder, looting, robbery and damage to public property.

Sosa Blanco was taken to Cabana fortress to await execution. He said he would appeal the death sentence.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

His three sisters visited him at his cell in a dimly-lighted corridor. They brought him a rum bottle filled with coffee.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

U.S. Aid Ordered By Ike

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(UPI)— The worst floods in 46 years smashed through a levee into Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday, covering one third of the historic city and driving 10,000 persons from their homes.

Another flood, the worst on record, forced the evacuation of 20 per cent of Meadville, Pa., and filled the city's hospitals with refugees suffering from exposure.

President Eisenhower Friday declared the flood stricken regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania as disaster areas and authorized immediate federal aid.

The president took the action in response to urgent pleas from Govs. Michael V. Disalle of Ohio and David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania.

"The distress suffered by the people in the stricken areas is of deep concern to me," the president said, "and I am hopeful that the situation may rapidly improve."

The American Red Cross announced it was rushing aid to the 11,000 families victimized by flood waters in the five-state area of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and New York.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, National Red Cross president, called the floods a "major disaster."

He said 82 shelters had been set up in stricken areas and that 6,000 persons already had received food or lodging. Gruenther said the Red Cross would move quickly to rehabilitate families who still need medical or other assistance when the immediate emergency ends.

More flood threats on ice-clogged rivers built up in New York State and Kentucky in the wake of the most bitter storm of the year. A sub-zero cold wave increased the misery of millions and iced the eastern flood-waters.

Damage from the storm and floods neared 100 million dollars and the weather death count passed the 100 mark.

A count since the start of the great storm Tuesday showed 107 deaths from the Rockies to the Appalachians blamed on weather-caused traffic acci-

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Vincent C. Giblin was taken into custody by Coral Gables police Friday on charges of resisting arrest after he claimed he and his wife were "immune" from being stopped and ticketed for a traffic violation.

He later said the officer who arrested him was in "contempt of court."

A Gables motorcycle policeman said he stopped Giblin and his wife, Virginia, who was driving in their car in the 1200 block on Blue Rd. after a radar clocking device set up in the area showed them traveling 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Seymour Anderson, the policeman, said the judge became "highly indignant" at being stopped. Anderson said following an argument the judge took over the wheel of the car from Mrs. Giblin and raced 20 blocks before he and his wife were again stopped.

The judge was taken to the Gables police station in a squad car. There he told Police Chief William G. Kimbrough:

"In my opinion I am immune from arrest in view of the fact that I was en route to open Circuit Court which begins at 9 a.m." (The arrest slip showed the Giblins were stopped at 9:05 a.m.)

The judge was charged with "failure to obey a police officer" and "interfering with a police officer's duties."

Water Bars Rescue of Trapped 12

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

An Exclusive Interview With Batista

Unhappy Life of a Dictator Without Country

He's hated in his own country and scorned by the rest of the world.

What's ahead for Fulgencio Batista, the onetime strong man of Cuba who had to start the new year by fleeing for safety to another country?

An unusual insight into the ex-dictator's unhappy life in his Dominican Republic refuge was gained by George Beebe, Herald managing editor. The setting for the exclusive interview was vastly different than the last time they talked aboard Batista's palatial yacht.

Batista tells of his plans and thoughts in the first of Beebe's absorbing series which starts in Sunday's Herald.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

Betty Grable Rudy Vallee Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

NOTES — Teenagers attending the Gables Theater Record-hop this morning will hear Bobby Gaye and Dannis Mathis and their Rock and Roll combo . . . Florida Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists will meet on Sunday in the McAllister Hote. Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Latest financial rumor out of Havana is that present Cuban currency won't be devalued—it will be completely recalled, in exchange for a new issue.

Cuba Has Legal Circus With Death in the Wings

By JAMES BUCHANAN

Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

His wrists handcuffed before him, his false teeth nibbling on his upper lip, Sosa stood in his blue prison garb in the blazingly lighted center of Havana's Sports Palace and took the verdict without any outburst.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

The Tavarezes came to this country from the Dominican Republic two years ago. They lived for 18 months in Miami before coming here.

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth. The alleged kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, has been committed to a hospital for mental examination.

The Tavarezes have two other children, Carmine Josephine, five, and Doris, three.

Tavarez, 30, is a $45-a-week factory worker.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

Pompano Beaches Fading

More Broward News, 1B, 1C

By CLARENCE ZAITZ

North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The three-mile stretch of this city's oceanfront is disappearing at an average rate of about 13 feet a year, and one of the chief causes is the Hillsboro Inlet.

Since February 1954, as much as 112 feet of beach has eroded at some points. From February 1954 to October 1957 an average of 48 feet of oceanfront has eroded.

And prospects are that the erosion will continue at the same rate unless something is done about it.

William H. Morgan and Ahmet Ardman from the University of Florida's coastal engineering laboratory have just completed a study of the beach.

The figures and facts they assembled will be taken to Gainesville for further study. A detailed report on the erosion problem and possible remedies will be made to the city, probably by April 1.

The degree of erosion thus far is based on aerial photographs from 1954, and an on-the-ground survey in February 1957.

What the completed report will recommend is not known for certain, but the experts suggested stablization of the inlet, and some form of artificial nourishment for the beach south of the inlet were necessary steps to combat the erosion problem.

Some way to transfer the sand from the north to the south side of the inlet would be desirable.

The worst case of erosion has been at the foot of SE fourth St., where 112 feet of beach have washed away since 1954.

At the end of Atlantic Blvd., on the public beach, 72 feet of beach have been lost during the same period. At the north end of the public beach, 93 feet has been washed away.

There were a few individual bright spots in the erosion picture, too. For instance, at NE 15th St., 24.3 feet of beach has built up since October 1957. At the south city limits, where 60 feet had eroded from February 1954, to October 1957, 38 feet have been gained since.

Castro Calls Off Telecast

Second Trial Is Postponed

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — The second of Havana's spectacular "war crimes" trials was abruptly postponed Friday. Fidel Castro demanded an end to television and radio broadcasts of the trials in the city's huge Sports Palace.

Several hours after the defendant at the first trial, which ended early Friday, was sentenced to death, it was announced that the second trial scheduled for Friday afternoon would be postponed until today. The announcement said the defendant, Batista Army Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, was ill.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

The 13-hour trial Thursday of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was fully broadcast. Some 30,000 spectators jammed the Sports Palace stadium to jeer and roar at the defendant who was accused of 108 murders and burning 120 homes in Oriente province.

Shortly after midnight, when most of the crowd had left, the three-man court of bearded rebels convicted him and sentenced him to death for murder, looting, robbery and damage to public property.

Sosa Blanco was taken to Cabana fortress to await execution. He said he would appeal the death sentence.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

His three sisters visited him at his cell in a dimly-lighted corridor. They brought him a rum bottle filled with coffee.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

U.S. Aid Ordered By Ike

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(UPI)— The worst floods in 46 years smashed through a levee into Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday, covering one third of the historic city and driving 10,000 persons from their homes.

Another flood, the worst on record, forced the evacuation of 20 per cent of Meadville, Pa., and filled the city's hospitals with refugees suffering from exposure.

President Eisenhower Friday declared the flood stricken regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania as disaster areas and authorized immediate federal aid.

The president took the action in response to urgent pleas from Govs. Michael V. Disalle of Ohio and David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania.

"The distress suffered by the people in the stricken areas is of deep concern to me," the president said, "and I am hopeful that the situation may rapidly improve."

The American Red Cross announced it was rushing aid to the 11,000 families victimized by flood waters in the five-state area of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and New York.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, National Red Cross president, called the floods a "major disaster."

He said 82 shelters had been set up in stricken areas and that 6,000 persons already had received food or lodging. Gruenther said the Red Cross would move quickly to rehabilitate families who still need medical or other assistance when the immediate emergency ends.

More flood threats on ice-clogged rivers built up in New York State and Kentucky in the wake of the most bitter storm of the year. A sub-zero cold wave increased the misery of millions and iced the eastern flood-waters.

Damage from the storm and floods neared 100 million dollars and the weather death count passed the 100 mark.

A count since the start of the great storm Tuesday showed 107 deaths from the Rockies to the Appalachians blamed on weather-caused traffic acci-

By PHIL FORTMAN

Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Vincent C. Giblin was taken into custody by Coral Gables police Friday on charges of resisting arrest after he claimed he and his wife were "immune" from being stopped and ticketed for a traffic violation.

He later said the officer who arrested him was in "contempt of court."

A Gables motorcycle policeman said he stopped Giblin and his wife, Virginia, who was driving in their car in the 1200 block on Blue Rd. after a radar clocking device set up in the area showed them traveling 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Seymour Anderson, the policeman, said the judge became "highly indignant" at being stopped. Anderson said following an argument the judge took over the wheel of the car from Mrs. Giblin and raced 20 blocks before he and his wife were again stopped.

The judge was taken to the Gables police station in a squad car. There he told Police Chief William G. Kimbrough:

"In my opinion I am immune from arrest in view of the fact that I was en route to open Circuit Court which begins at 9 a.m." (The arrest slip showed the Giblins were stopped at 9:05 a.m.)

The judge was charged with "failure to obey a police officer" and "interfering with a police officer's duties."

Water Bars Rescue of Trapped 12

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

An Exclusive Interview With Batista

Unhappy Life of a Dictator Without Country

He's hated in his own country and scorned by the rest of the world.

What's ahead for Fulgencio Batista, the onetime strong man of Cuba who had to start the new year by fleeing for safety to another country?

An unusual insight into the ex-dictator's unhappy life in his Dominican Republic refuge was gained by George Beebe, Herald managing editor. The setting for the exclusive interview was vastly different than the last time they talked aboard Batista's palatial yacht.

Batista tells of his plans and thoughts in the first of Beebe's absorbing series which starts in Sunday's Herald.

And what of Cuba and the man who replaces Batista?

We're Letting Reds Lead Missile Race—Symington

Predicts 4-1 Edge In 2 Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) said Friday the Eisenhower administration is allowing Russia to pull away in the missiles race. In two years, he predicted, Russia will have a 4-1 edge in long range rockets.

"The coming year may afford us our last chance to initiate any real effort to catch up with the Russians in the most important fields of modern weaponry," Symington said in a speech to the Senate.

The Missouri senator, long a critic of administration defense policies, challenged statements by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a news conference Thursday.

McElroy said then "we do not believe that Russia has an ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) capable of operations against this country at this time." He also discounted reports that Russia will have 300 ICBMs by next year.

Symington said McElroy's remarks imply "a great deal more combat readiness on the part of the U.S., than is justified by the very few ICBMs this country will have available for retaliation in the next two years."

He suggested that McElroy's statements and others like them may be "released for public consideration primarily to support a restricted budget position."

Symington said the U.S. has successfully test-fired ICBMs and set up production lines that could produce more; adding:

"The reason we are not planning full production of ICBMs is because this administration is not planning to spend the necessary funds."

Symington, who often has accused the administration of penny pinching on defense, gave notice he will try to boost military budget allotments above totals asked by President Eisenhower.

"During the next few years," he said, "adequate defense requires more money than estimated in the President's budget."

Eisenhower has asked $40,945,000,000 for defense in the fiscal year starting July 1. This is an increase of 145 million over estimated spending for defense this year.

McElroy, appearing before a House appropriations subcommittee Thursday, said "the nation is prepared to meet the threat it faces today." He said that during the past year this country has made good progress in missile development, defense against missiles, and antisubmarine warfare.

He said in prepared testimony that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "have gone on record with me that they consider this budget adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration (the coming fiscal year)."

Today's Special on Ohio Supermarket--Flood Waters

Thousands Flee Two-State Floods

At Chillicothe, a storied, 163-year-old city of 27,000 which served as Ohio's capital between 1803 and 1807, the rain-swollen Scioto River swept out of its banks at a height of 32.5 feet, 16.5 feet over flood stage, and crashed through a levee guarding the business section.

The icy river surged over a third of the city. It spread so quickly that many families were unable to reach safety on foot. Their only escape was by helicopter, army ducks, rowboat or high-wheeled cattle trucks.

The 'copters hovered over the worst-afflicted areas, plucking residents from front lawns which had suddenly turned into islands. The 'copters also helped direct rescue operations by radio and dropped food and medicine to city employes who had stuck by the city's flooded-out sewage plant.

Practically every able-bodied man in the city, along with National Guard troopers and Army and Navy reservists, fought the floods throughout the day.

The refugees were housed in churches, schools, lodge halls and private homes.

The waters of French Creek spilled into the northwest Pennsylvania town of Meadeville at six feet over flood stage and sent 1,300 families — 20 per cent of the town's population — running.

Four Army ducks helped in the evacuations and helicopters stood by for action if needed. The ducks concentrated on families who refused to leave their homes until they were surrounded by water.

Meanwhile, new floods and blizzards struck upper New York State in a sequel to the raging storm which swept the nation's midcontinent earlier in the week and gorged rivers with record rainfalls.

Weather-wise Watertown, N.Y., reported its worst blizzard of the winter, with more than a foot of wind-blown snow blocking roads, closing schools, and cutting visibility to zero. A foot more of snow was expected and snowbound motorists began finding refuge in farmhouses in Jefferson and Lewis Counties.

Floods accompanied the upstate New York snows. Ice on the Hoosick River threatened to destroy the last covered bridge still in use in Rensselaer County, while the Delaware River was bloated to a width of 500 feet.

Pilots Strike In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, — (AP) — All major Mexican airlines were grounded Friday by a pilot walkout. Both domestic and foreign flights were halted.

Thousands of passengers, including many tourists, were stranded. Airlines immediately asked the government to take action.

Pilots said they are not striking — that they merely refuse to work until certain benefits are granted. They asked no wage increases.

Expecting an airline move to use substitute pilots, the union circulated pamphlets at the International Airport warning passengers this could be dangerous. They said substitutes lack experience.

Soupy Sky 'Stacks Up' Airliners

Airplanes were stacked a mile high at a half-dozen "hold" points around Miami Friday, circling with grumbling passengers and waiting as long as two and a half hours to be guided by instruments to souped-in Miami International Airport.

At one point during the rush hours Friday afternoon, the control tower at the airport said 32 planes were being held in the sky waiting to land at three-minute intervals.

Some planes which were low on gas were diverted to landings at other airports, and there were delays in outgoing traffic also, the tower reported.

The airways traffic jam resulted from the thick overcast. Under instrument flying conditions, an official at the control tower explained, aircraft are required to stay at different altitudes and circle in widely separated areas when they arrive at their destination.

"In clear weather, one plane can see the one in front of him in the landing pattern and follow it on in," an official explained. "When we go on instruments, things get complicated and it takes longer."

Pan American World Airways said four passenger flights and one cargo flight were diverted to Nassau to wait out the jam-up over Miami. Two PAA flights to Havana were canceled due to bad weather there.

Between landings every three minutes, outgoing planes were taking off. A plane was landing or taking off every minute and a half most of the day Friday.

"We've got them stacked up to 18,000 feet in some places," the control tower said.

Ike Names Group to Eye Costs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower set up a special committee Friday to make sure government purchases and other federal activities do not fan inflationary fires by driving up prices unduly.

In ordering the move, the President said the committee will help him decide whether the government is being run in such a way as to contribute as much as possible to "reasonable price stability." If not, he said, action must be taken.

The action reflected the President's warning in his recent budget and economic messages that an all-out effort must be made to "restrain the forces that drive prices up and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings."

The new presidential committee will be headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Other members will consist of representatives of at least 10 government agencies.

The President also ordered all heads of federal departments engaged in procurement, stockpiling, farm price support, rate regulation, subsidy and similar activities to re-examine their programs and take any action necessary to help in the fight against inflation.

In establishing the committee, he noted that many government agencies are engaged in activities which directly affect the rise or fall of all prices and costs. But he said there was no central body to ride herd on them.

Government agencies represented on the committee include all those with big procurement programs.

Members will come from the Defense, Post Office, Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce Departments; the Budget Bureau, the General Services Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Aviation Agency, and the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. Officials from other agencies may be added later.

Strike Curb Introduced

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida Friday introduced a bill to permit states to enact laws to protect the public interest from damage resulting from strikes against public utilities.

Florida has such a law but the Supreme Court ruled a few years ago in a Wisconsin case that the Taft-Hartley Law preempted this entire field and voided state laws.

Holland carried his fight for his measure to the Senate floor last session but lost an attempt to have it added to the Kennedy-Ives labor bill.

His Children Had Shots

Truck Driver, 25, First Polio Victim

Dade County recorded its first polio case of the year Friday—a 25-year-old truck driver who had given his two children Salk vaccine shots but neglected to take them himself.

Terrell Howell, of 2255 NW 175th St., was in critical condition in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. He has bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease.

"The doctors say that if he can get through the next 48 hours, he will pull through," said Howell's wife, Alice, 21.

"Neither of us had the shots," she said. "I guess it's because you always think of the kids but not yourself. But I got my first shot today."

She also got booster shots for the two children, Mary, three, and Terrell Jr., one.

Howell, a truck driver for a concrete company, came home from work last Friday night complaining of a headache and a pain in the small of his back, Mrs. Howell said.

"He was weak by Sunday, and by Tuesday he couldn't walk or eat. We had to carry him to the doctor's office, then to the hospital," she said.

Mrs. Howell said that when she visited her husband, "he seemed to feel fine. But being in the iron lung, he is scared. He's never been in a hospital before."

Howell is the county's first polio case of 1959. Last year, there were 30 cases in Dade County, according to County Health Officer Dr. T. E. Cato. Four of them were definitely bulbar polio.

There were two polio deaths here in 1958, Dr. Cato said, but one of the victims developed polio in 1957.

Dr. Cato urged Dade citizens who have not had their shots to get them.

Auto Prices Also Down

Food Sparks Decline In Cost of Living

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The cost of living dropped two-tenths of one per cent in December in the first monthly decline since August, the government reported Friday. It attributed the drop primarily to a dip in food prices.

The decline lowered the Labor Department's consumer price index to 123.7 per cent of the base period 1947-49. The November index equalled the all-time high of 123.9 per cent set last July, and the December index still was 1.7 per cent above a year ago.

The Labor Department also reported that the earnings of the average factory worker after taxes last month reached an all-time high of $79.60 a week for a man with three dependents and $72.10 for a single man. This was $1.20 above November.

The December drop in the cost of living was too slight to affect the wages of 700,000 workers whose pay is pegged by their collective bargaining contracts to the department's price index.

H. E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the lower food prices reflected decreases in the cost of oranges, eggs, coffee, poultry and pork. Also down were prices of new autos, women's and girls coats, suits and dresses, recreation, and personal care.

Riley said food prices probably will rise again this month. But he doubted there would be any substantial change in the overall cost of living.

Quiet Rites For DeMille

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)— Cecil B. DeMille, famed in life for his spectacles and crowd scenes, was buried Friday with simple rites more quiet and orderly than any Hollywood funeral in recent memory.

The Rev. Harry E. Owing Jr., rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, conducted the 15-minute ceremony from the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer.

There was no eulogy, and a crowd of 500 fans kept silent throughout the rites.

Mack Trial Ruling Due Next Week

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews took under advisement Friday a request that the Channel 10 trial involving Richard Mack and Thurman Whiteside be transferred from Washington, to Miami.

Judge Matthews indicated she will rule on that motion, as well as others, within the next week.

Whiteside, a Miami attorney, and Mack, former federal communications commissioner, were indicted on charges they conspired to have Mack sell his vote in the Channel 10 television award. It was awarded to National Airlines.

Mack and Whiteside requested a change in the trial site on the grounds that continuing and widespread publicity in Washington within the past year had created a prejudiced atmosphere which would make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial here.

Defense attorneys also said that a Washington trial would work a hardship on the defendants since virtually all of the witnesses reside in Miami. Also, they said, the expense of a Washington trial would be much greater.

Nicholas J. Chase, Mack's Washington attorney, emphasized that Mack is destitute and that he is "ill of mind and body — and seriously so."

He said Mack is unemployed, that his wife has gone to work and that he is living with his father in Fort Lauderdale.

Government attorneys, however, produced a letter from Dr. Thomas Armour Jr. of Coral Gables stating that Mack is "able to travel anywhere or to stand trial in the District of Columbia."

Armour said Mack is "perfectly clear and competent mentally" and that "I do not find now any physical condition which impairs his being able" to stand trial.

The letter from Armour was dated Jan. 2.

In support of their claim that there is a prejudiced atmosphere in Washington, defense attorneys showed Judge Matthews huge blowups of front page stories which have appeared in Washington newspapers.

Government attorneys retorted an FBI check of Miami papers showed that there was much more publicity on the case in Miami than there was in Washington.

Government attorneys said this would compare to 100 to 150 Washington newspaper articles produced by defense attorneys.

Whiteside appeared in court with his attorneys, Richard Hunt of Miami and Arthur Hilland of Washington. Mack did not show up.

Defense attorneys estimated the trial will last six weeks and indicated they will ask the judge to postpone the trial date now set for Feb. 16 if the judge denies the motion to transfer.

National Summary

High pressure covering most of the region from the mid and lower Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast accounted for widespread sunshine but continued cold temperatures through Friday afternoon.

Readings in the teens persisted in the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians at midday and freezing levels were noted in the mountains of Tennessee while 40s ranged across the Gulf region.

Blustery winds sweeping across the Great Lakes region into the northeast held temperatures to 10 degrees or lower in many sections and maintained snow flurries and local squalls from Michigan across New York and Pennsylvania into northern New England.

Warmer weather from the northwest and over most of the midsection of the country during the night is expected to nudge into the southeast on Saturday.

Colder weather from the Carolinas into New England over night is expected to linger.

Showers will accompany mild temperatures in the Pacific northwest while snow flurries will be scattered across the mountains from Montana into Colorado.

Pot Shots At Veeder

It appeared for a time that Fort Lauderdale had at last come of age in its treatment of city managers.

In Bill Veeder it has a true career man, trained in public administration, apparently with no ambition except to remain in the background, steer clear of alliances and be good at his job.

Now Commissioner Ed Johns and a faction behind him seem to be gunning for Veeder.

We have had other city managers undermined in the past.

But fortunately, as long as Bob Childers, Porter Reynolds and John Russell stick with Veeder, he'll be all right.

Through the smokescreen of discussion over whether Veeder might go to St. Petersburg, two facts should be kept in mind: Veeder says he didn't apply for the job, and the mayor of St. Pete says he didn't apply. That seems to be clear enough . . .

High Standards in Black Leather

WE'D ALL BETTER stop selling those booted and jacketed motorcycle riders short. Because of one group of them, the members of the Gold Coast Motorcycle Club, a couple of deserving South Broward High School students will get a start in college next fall.

The club has created a scholarship fund in memory of Bill Castle, a member who was killed in Gainesville last fall while going to the university, and is building it up with events of various kinds. (One will be a dance in February.) The club works with the Hollywood Recreation Department and has won a citizenship award for its activities.

Bud Treastor of Hollywood, who took up cycling at the age of 40, thinks people should understand that there's a good reason for those leather jackets. They protect the rider from asphalt burns when he takes a spill. The Treastors have a teenage son, Joe, who's a professional racer, and when he goes into a contest he's protected by about $200 worth of leather clothing. The crash helmet alone costs $40 . . .

Death-Trap on Bridge?

MORE ON THE SUBJECT of narrow, arched bridges:

Harry Powell, one of the leaders of the Rio Vista Isles Association, says the span over the Tarpon River at S.E. Ninth St. is a terrible hazard to children, particularly kids on bicycles. An approaching motorist can't see over the crest of it, and when one whips over too fast, as many do, any children who happen to be riding or walking on the other side have to run for their lives, Harry says.

For about five years, to his knowledge, the association has been asking the city to do something about it. Several administrations have expressed sympathy for the situation, but it remains unchanged.

The bridge is used by residents of all the islands from Seventh St. to 15th. They feel there should be catwalk for pedestrians and bicycles, or the approaches should be raised so drivers can see over the hump . . .

AT THE BEACH ROTARY a few days ago Cliff Leech ribbed the members with this one:

He asked them how many feathers on a bird. No one knew. He asked them how many stripes on a bumblebee. No answer. He asked them how many dwarfs Snow White had, and everybody knew that.

"How does it happen," Cliff asked, "that you know things like that but don't know anything about the birds and the bees?"

MDs Outline Emergency Suggestions

Intended To Prevent Mixups

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—The Broward County Medical Association Friday made public a set of recommendations designed to insure prompt treatment and hospitalization of emergency cases.

The recommendations were prepared after the death Jan. 12 of an asthma patient who had to wait nearly four hours before he was admitted to a hospital. They were presented to hospital administrators earlier in the week.

The administrators said most of the recommendations have been in effect for some time. Joseph F. McAlon of Hollywood Memorial Hospital said his hospital for two or more years has gone "way beyond them."

The association recommends that:

A PHYSICIAN evaluate every patient who appears in an emergency room for treatment.

EACH HOSPITAL use its own staff physicians or residents for routine emergency care.

THEY PROVIDE nurses around the clock in emergency rooms.

EACH HOSPITAL check to find out whether beds are available in other hospitals so that emergency cases can be transferred to them after evaluation at the first hospital.

THEY RESERVE a certain percentage of their rooms for the use of critically ill patients and establish a waiting list of elective cases.

Holy Cross, Broward General and Hollywood Memorial all reserve beds for emergency patients, their administrators said.

Administrators Friday said no emergency patient who needs hospitalization will be sent home. Robert M. Gantt Jr. of Broward General said the emergency room there contains four beds which are used for emergency cases when there is no other place to put them in the hospital.

Officials Here On Man-O-War

FORT LAUDERDALE—The Navy's heavy cruiser, the USS Newport News, docked in Fort Lauderdale Friday, bringing with it City Manager William J. Veeder and Commissioner Robert Childers.

Publicity Director Forrest Crane met them at the dock, but little or nothing was said about Crane's ire at not being along on the trip.

Veeder said late Friday he had not discussed the matter with Crane, who was disturbed because Veeder took over his invitation to go on the trip.

"It was a great trip," Veeder said.

Crane chatted with Rear Adm. Lewis S. Parks, to whom he wired regrets at not being able to join the cruise.

The Newport News docked early in the morning. It was joined during the afternoon by HMCS Ottawa, a Canadian frigate.

The two ships, plus the submarine Corporal, here from Key West, will give Fort Lauderdale a naval force of more than 2,100 men this weekend.

The Newport News will be open to the public from 1 to 4 p.m. today, Sunday and Monday.

School Employes Wooed by Union

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — School system employes have been invited to a "get acquainted" meeting at 2 p.m. today by the AFL-CIO Government Employes Union.

William Weld, international representative of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, said the special meeting at Carpenters' Hall, 211 E. Broward Blvd., has been called to "get employes and union members together."

The union announced previously that it was starting a drive to organize school employes other than teachers.

Meanwhile, city employes, who received a charter from the union in October, are making plans to participate in the City Commission election this spring.

"They'll play a big part," Weld said.

When the union was formed, members said negotiations for wage and working hour contracts "may come about in time."

Weld said Friday he couldn't estimate the number of employes already signed up by the school employes' union because the records of applications were not readily available.

However, he said the union had been contacted by a number of school employes who asked for representation. He said low salaries are one of the points at issue.

4-Day Mayor Out; New Vote Planned

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

MIRAMAR—Balloting for a mayor to replace Charles Knapp, who resigned after four days in office, will take place next month, the Town Council decided Friday in an unofficial meeting.

At the hurriedly-called session, the board agreed to accept Knapp's resignation — although one member first argued the mayor "is a fine person for the job and has been pressured into bowing out."

Date of the special election will be set Feb. 2.

At the same time municipal appointments, including the controversial building inspector's post, will be discussed.

Knapp became the center of a stormy controversy Monday after he named David Mericle to replace Buddy Arbuckle as building inspector.

Arbuckle refused to resign. He was supported by W. J. Powers, defeated candidate for Mayor, and Councilman John Marini.

It appeared doubtful Friday that any of Knapp's new appointments would be retained.

P. D. Kennedy Jr., named council president by Knapp, said he would not accept the job "because I would be holding two positions and I don't believe that is fair."

Kennedy also is city attorney.

Councilman Marini, who also is building inspector now, said he would accept the council president's job. Marini said the council has indicated it will name him.

Knapp supporters, who tried to persuade the mayor to withdraw his resignation, said Friday the effort failed.

According to Ferris, Knapp feared his presence would hopelessly widen the breach in the politically-split council.

Which Twin? Just Ask The FBI

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

The FBI has guessed, correctly, which twin is the one accused of robbing a Pompano jeweler — a U.S. commissioner said in Miami Friday.

O'BRIEN

Identity of Donald Jay O'Brien has been established, Commissioner Roger Davis said.

O'Brien, a handsome Pompano Beach contractor has been named in a warrant charging flight to avoid prosecution.

O'Brien's defense has been that the FBI could have made a mistake in identity. He looks like a lot of people. O'Brien says — including his twin brother, Robert.

At an earlier hearing lawyers for O'Brien brought his twin, Robert, into court to show authorities how easy it is to become confused over identity.

Since that hearing, brother Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach Dec. 20, where he was tackled by officers as he grabbed at a satchel of gems in a salesman's car.

Donald was accused last August of throwing a smoke-bomb into a fashionable Beverly Hills, Calif., store, smashing a plate glass window and scooping out $136,000 in gems.

Shargaa Runs Out Of Time

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Time ran out Friday for Babe Shargaa, master of legal loopholes. He started serving an eight-year term in Raiford Prison.

The 38-year-old two-time loser was sentenced almost three years ago — in March 1956.

Since then he's established a record for the number of motions, hearings and appeals filed to avoid serving time. Attorneys figured the maneuvers cost Shargaa about $35,000. He went to the governor, the Supreme Court, and the State Board of Pardons.

There was a chance Friday the show might start all over.

Shargaa's latest attorney, Ray Sandstrom, said he intends to file a habeas corpus writ challenging the conviction.

Shargaa's trip to Raiford climaxed years of work by law enforcement officers. His first offense — passing a bad check — was in 1941. He was put on probation.

Safe Job: All Work, No Pay

Herald Bureau

HOLLYWOOD — Safecrackers smashed through two walls and cut four locks to reach a safe in a supermarket here Friday morning but didn't get a dime.

They didn't even get into the safe, completely.

Detective F. G. Rohloff said the burglars had planned the operation well except for two things:

There was only $200 in the safe.

They didn't allow enough time to crack it.

Rohloff said the lock cutting occurred as the thieves moved through a series of storage rooms toward the safe at the Sherman St. Kwik Chek.

They were apparently frightened away or didn't have time to finish the job, Rohloff said.

Ground to Air in 5 Minutes

Fly It, Or Drive It--It's a Gasser

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — For a while in Friday's rain, Molton Taylor was undecided whether to fly his airplane to Miami or drive it.

Then the rain lifted and he spread his wings and took off from Broward International Airport, landing about 20 minutes later at Miami.

There he folded the wings into a neat trailer and drove his Aerocar off to Dinner Key Auditorium to be exhibited at the International Foreign and Sports Car Show.

"It's about the sportiest sports car there is," said Taylor, who designed and builds the things in a plant at Longview, Wash.

"Look at all those planes there on the field. Half of them have to stay right on the ground in this weather—they don't have the radio equipement to take off.

"But I can drive or fly, it doesn't matter . . .

"If I drive and the weather gets better, then I can fly. If it gets bad, I can come down and drive.

"It's the only mode of personal transportation that is faster between two random points than a modern car."

Taylor's car seats two. It has a 150-horsepower Lycoming engine and weighs, with wings, 1,400 pounds. With the wings unbolted and left at home, it becomes a 1,000-pound car with an outsize engine.

"Then it's got a smaller weight-to-power ratio than any sports car," he said.

The propeller is mounted behind a tail assembly that connected to the rear engine with a long drive shaft. It takes five minutes to convert it from car to plane and vice versa.

It cruises in the air at about 100 miles an hour and on the ground at 50. It burns gasoline in the air at the rate of eight gallons an hour and gets appears to be inverted and is 1 5 miles to a gallon on the ground. It has a range in the air of 300 miles.

It has a three-speed gear box with reverse and a fan for the air-cooled engine. It has complete sets of car and airplane instruments.

Taylor has built six which he'll sell for $15,000 each. They're handmade. Producion models, when he gets into production, will sell, he hopes, for $7,500.

He's been at work on the design for 11 years. The hybrid now is fully licensed.

Nightlife with George Bourke

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable, Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

* * *

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

Betty Grable

Rudy Vallee

Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall,

Amusements

Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

NOTES — Teenagers attending the Gables Theater Record-hop this morning will hear Bobby Gaye and Dannis Mathis and their Rock and Roll combo . . . Florida Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists will meet on Sunday in the McAllister Hote. Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Latest financial rumor out of Havana is that present Cuban currency won't be devalued—it will be completely recalled, in exchange for a new issue.

Police Shotguns Drop 2 Bandits

4 Nabbed In Stickup Attempt

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD — Broward County criminal investigators sprang a trap on four armed bandits late Thursday night and cut down two of them with shotgun blasts as they tried to flee.

The pair wounded were recovering in Memorial Hospital.

The other two — "teenagers" — were in county jail, charged with a series of strongarm stickups in this area since Monday.

Held in county jail were Edward Russell, 19, of Los Angeles, and Bob Talley, 17, of 7200 Taft St., West Hollywood.

Harry Rever, 21, and Rudolph di Giorgio, 24, both of Bergenfield, N.J., were in good condition at the Hospital.

Chief Criminal Investigator Ben Grigsby said the two teenagers admitted the series of holdups and implicated di Giorgio and Rever. But the hospitalized pair told The Herald the attempted stickup of the 7-11 store on Pembroke Rd. was their first job.

"And the last one," said Rever.

"I was around the back of the place and I heard the others running, so I ran too," he said. "Di Giorgio was behind me and I heard a shot. He started yelling, 'Harry, I'm hit . . . Harry, I'm hit.' Then there was another shot and I went down."

Rever lay in his bed smoking and spoke calmly of being shot.

"I don't know what kind of bullet hit me, but it knocked me off my feet. I started to get up and the cop told me to throw away my gun and not to move. I dropped the gun when I fell."

Rever had been hit in the neck by one buckshot pellet. The rest of the charge missed. The pellet almost struck his spinal column. Di Giorgio was struck full in the back by about 100 birdshot pellets.

Grigsby said the deputies had been following the four since 6 p.m. Thursday. They suspected them of the holdups. The deputies hid in weeds in front of the market until the bandits made their move just as the place was closing up.

Russell threw down his gun and dropped to his knees shouting "don't shoot" when the firing started, Grigsby said.

Talley left the get-away car, which had been parked down the street, when the shooting began but returned an hour later and was arrested, Grigsby said.

Rever said they bought their .22-caliber pistols in a Miami pawn shop. He didn't remember which one.

"We didn't have any trouble. Paid our last $17 for them. The guy threw in a box of shells," Rever said.

Rever said they pulled the holdup to get money for food.

"It wasn't the easiest way to get money — it was the only way. We'd been here three weeks looking for work but no one would hire us," he said.

"We didn't plan this job at all. We just drove around a couple of times and then decided we could knock it off."

Rever said they had had only milk and crackers for supper Thursday night. He denied any part in the other stickups.

Grigsby said the four worked together on:

Armed robbery of a service station attendant in Lighthouse Point Wednesday. They got $75.

Robbery of another service station Thursday, getting away with $76.

Two unsuccessful holdups, one of a milk delivery man Thursday and the other of a Dania appliance store owner.

"When that bullet hit me I made up my mind I'd never do anything like that again," Rever said.

What Happened To . . .

. . . The plan by Pompano Beach Junior Woman's Club to get a community center constructed through public subscription?

Since the idea was unveiled in October, the club has sought support of other clubs and civic organizations. Before they can proceed, however, they want a better idea of what kind of center they need, and how much it'll cost.

To do this, they plan architectural competition. Architects would present their concepts of a community center. The winning entry then would be selected as the basic plan.

A committee from the local chapter of the American Institute of Architects is drafting rules and regulations for the competition.

Alexander's Band Clicks, In Classics -- and Ragtime

By BOB FREUND
Special To The Herald

FORT LAUDERDALE — An engaging and often exciting panorama of the dance captivated members of the Community Concert Association at the War Memorial Auditorium Friday night.

The subscription organization could hardly have opened its concert season with a more sprightly offering. If there is such a classification as "Concert Vaudeville," Bambi Linn and Rod Alexander's "Dance Jubilee" fits the category.

While elements of Broadway and movie-type presentation insert themselves into the proceedings, the overall picture is one of vaudeville, albeit of a "class" nature.

The production is replete with handsome, sometimes gorgeous costuming. The very barest of props keeps the stage free for the maneuvers of the excellent team of eight dancers with which the Alexanders surround themselves.

It is a versatile team. Not only do they dance extraordinarily well in a vary of styles, they also sing. Their vocal equipment does not match their footwork, but within the framework of this catalog of dance, they contribute adequate vocalizing. One ambitious girl dances, sings, and plays the trumpet, almost convincing the audience she is doing every thing at once.

Starting with a full-blown minstrel show opening in which the group's precision was showcased, the entire company coursed through songs and dances of every period in America's rich musical life.

The Floradora, operetta, ragtime, Roaring Twenties, modern ballet as introduced on Broadway, the Castles and Rogers-Astaire mania, all were carefully and tastefully (at, times hilariously) depicted.

Standouts in this reviewer's opinion were the operetta spoof and the Charleston bit. Every character from the Red Shadow to the Student Prince was brought into the lampoon spotlight. The Twenties came in for the usual caricature in dress and dance, with Miss Linn doing the hottest Charleston we have clapped eyes on.

The dull spot in the show was the folk suite. Possibly it is this reviewer's indifference to folk music (unless expertly done) that made such sad items as "Wayfarin' Stranger" seem boring fare. Here the company's vocal shortcomings came into glaring focus. The finale hoedown, however, redeemed some of the gaiety of this act.

In the company, Elisabeth Merey should be singled out for her hilarious gypsy girl. Others were Lou Kristofer, Virginia Vestoff, Margaret Mauran, James Tarbutton, Jack Leigh, Phillis Lear and James Brusock.

The show is a trifle lengthy, and the between-scene narration and the badly-sung Berlin medley could—and should—be cut. Both are unnecessary—and amateurish.

Minor imperfections aside, "Dance Jubilee" is a lively, fresh and imaginative show and, while more serious things are promised by CCA later in the season, this was a sparkling and winning opener.

Board Mulls Pompano Duplexes

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The Contractors Board has decided it wants more evidence before deciding if Fort Lauderdale Contractor Frank Cassoli can be linked to any of the building and zoning violations of 25 duplexes.

The five-man board, in a closed door session Tuesday, decided to seek testimony from property owners involved.

The property owners have been told they're violating zoning by renting out three units in duplex buildings.

Born in Australia, he came to this country as a child. He graduated from Yale in 1907, and become a schoolmaster at Northwood School, Lake Placid, N.Y.

In 1922 he opened a school near the Hillsboro Inlet, which later became the Hillsboro Club.

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

IN A SENSE, TRUE. But there are some good signs everyone should know. Are you generally well-poised so that you don't easily become excited? When you make mistakes, do you get up and go on instead of spending much time and energy regretting them? Can you see others succeed and be honored for it without feeling uneasy? Do you have the habit of happiness? Do you usually enjoy life? These aren't all, but some of the good signs.

Are disobedient children more easily excited?
Yes————— No—————

No. According to one study of 67 four year olds in one nursery school, for instance, the disobedient children were more quarrelsome and cruel. They were more impatient. They were less affectionate and friendly, and had less social poise than many others. But they were not more excitable.

More girls date:
Different boys———The Same Boy———

Different boys. More than twice as many girls who date at all, say they date different boys (67 per cent) than the same boy (21 per cent) according to the University of Michigan study of adolescent girls. The younger the girl, the greater the likelihood that she dates different boys, although more than half (55 per cent) of those over 16 do so, likewise.

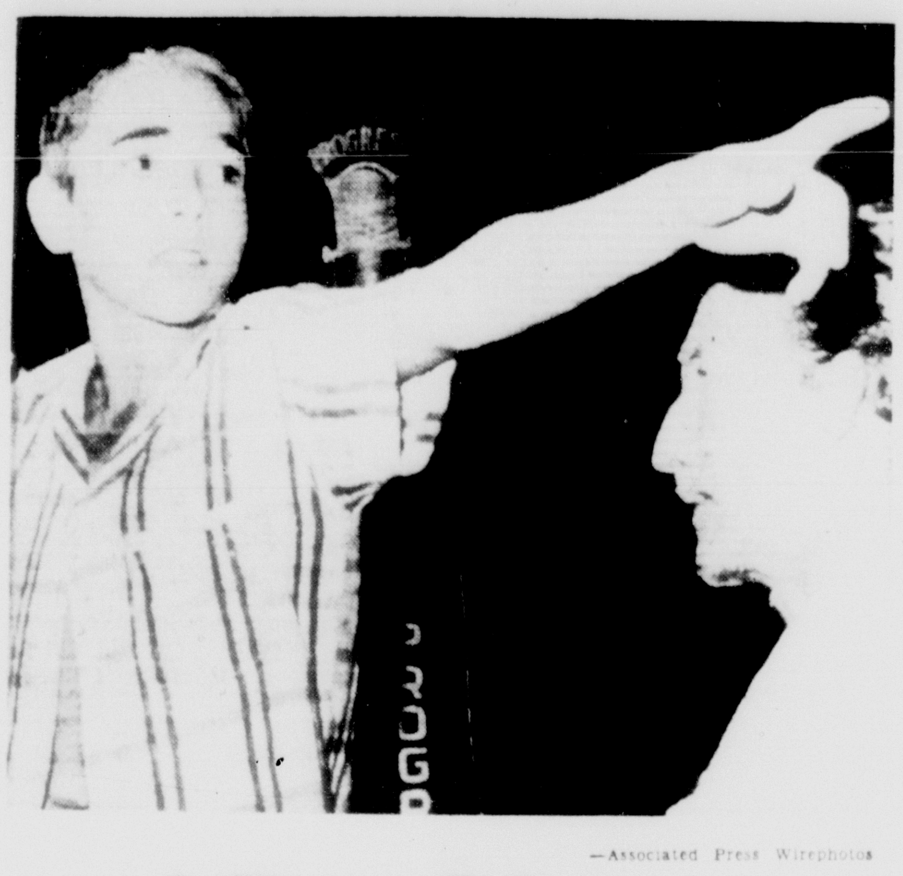
Cuba Has Legal Circus With Death in the Wings



—Associated Press Wirephotos

A Finger Points . . .

. . . Argelio Estrada, 12, cries, 'he killed my father'

. . . At the Accused

. . . Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Flamboyant Cuban justice, which works in circus-type ways, took all of 13 hours Friday to condemn Commandante Jesus Sosa Blanco to die.

It was an odd trial by U.S. standards that ended at 6 a.m. with the expected decision to send Sosa Blanco before a firing squad.

An American judge would have had gavel-banging fits.

U.S. defense lawyers would have had a field day raising technical objections that don't bother these people still in the hysteria of a revolution.

Yet, in its own frightening way, the procedure seemed to mete out justice in this particular case of a once swaggering army major under hated Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

There was little doubt of the outcome of the internationally ballyhooed trial. Even so, the bulk of the testimony weighed heavily against Sosa Blanco, who was accused of slaughtering 108 of his countrymen for the glory of Batista.

Sosa Blanco, while not rating the No. 1 spot on Cuba's "Wanted List," was high enough to become the star of this "big top" performance.

It was staged by Fidel Castro to answer U.S. criticism that his justice was too swift and too sketchy against his former enemies.

Nine hours were spent in the presentation of testimony, four hours by the judges in deliberation of evidence, and on the 13th hour they told Sosa Blanco he had had it.

He knew what it was going to be all along.

So did the 5,000 or so "fans" who had waited from 2 p.m. Thursday until the trial started at 5 p.m. And

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Police and FBI agents, confronted with their second infant kidnaping in a month, Friday sought a short, dumpy woman who dangled the bait of a better apartment before an impoverished mother in a ruse to abduct her ailing, 23-day-old boy.

"Please return our baby," pleaded Mr. and Mrs. Jose Tavarez. "He has been sick for nearly two weeks and needs all the care in the world."

The Tavarezes came to this country from the Dominican Republic two years ago. They lived for 18 months in Miami before coming here.

John Tavarez, 8-½ pounds, suffering from a severe cold and chest congestion, was stolen from the $21-a-month room of his parents Thursday afternoon. His mother, Doraliza Tavarez, 31, had left him in the care of a woman who called herself Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

The kidnaping occurred less than two weeks after police recovered little Lisa Rose Chionchio, snatched from a hospital crib Jan. 2, two and a half hours after birth. The alleged kidnaper, Mrs. Jean Iavarone, widowed mother of eight, has been committed to a hospital for mental examination.

The Tavarezes have two other children, Carmine Josephine, five, and Doris, three.

Tavarez, 30, is a $45-a-week factory worker.

Mrs. Tavarez, near collapse from anxiety, said Mrs. Garcia struck up an acquaintance with her Wednesday when she went to the Metropolitan Hospital to have the baby treated for his cold.

She said she accepted Mrs. Garcia's offer of a ride home in a taxi because it was raining. When they arrived, she said Mrs. Garcia sympathized with the crowded conditions in the tiny one-room apartment and said she would try to find something better for the family.

The woman returned Thursday, told Mrs. Tavarez she had found a larger apartment available in the Bronx, and urged the mother to go look at it immediately. The woman volunteered to babysit with the boy while Mrs. Tavarez was gone.

Mrs. Tavarez traveled by subway to the Bronx. She found that the address Mrs. Garcia had given her is a post office.

Broader Sales Tax Is Urged

LAKELAND — State Sen. Fred O. Dickinson Friday advocated a broader sales tax rather than imposing added taxes where the burden now exists — if and when new state revenues must be enacted.

He told the Lakeland Kiwanis, in an address entitled "Leadership and Florida's Tomorrow," that he would seek repeal of the doubled intangible tax. He said he is "unalterably opposed" to 100 per cent real estate assessments.

"Land," the West Palm Beach legislator said, "is our greatest commodity and over-assessment can encourage depression faster than any one factor."

Dickinson said he "hoped that 1959 Legislature would pass legislation limiting ad valorem tax assessments to 60 per cent."

He called the doubled intangible tax—which was hiked from 1 to 2 per cent—"horse and buggy legislation in the guided missile age."

Its enactment, he said, was "the greatest error in tax measures passed by our legislature in the last session."

The intangible tax, he declared, "offends the very type of people" the state is spending thousands of dollars to attract.

Referring to the integration issue, Dickinson told the Kiwanis "Americans everywhere are beginning to awaken to the peril that faces us if federal usurpation of state powers continues without check."

More Clouds Are Due Today

Weather outlook for today: More of the same.

The clouds will start breaking in time for the stars to peek through tonight, Weatherman Philip Ackerman said Friday.

But otherwise, today will be like Friday, when temperatures dropped to the mid-50s in the early morning, he said.

Castro Calls Off Telecast

Second Trial Is Postponed

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — The second of Havana's spectacular "war crimes" trials was abruptly postponed Friday. Fidel Castro demanded an end to television and radio broadcasts of the trials in the city's huge Sports Palace.

Several hours after the defendant at the first trial, which ended early Friday, was sentenced to death, it was announced that the second trial scheduled for Friday afternoon would be postponed until today. The announcement said the defendant, Batista Army Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, was ill.

Castro, who flew to Caracas, Venezuela, Friday to help celebrate the first anniversary of the revolution which overthrew Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez Jan. 23, radioed Camilo Cienfuegos, the new army chief of staff, that radio and TV broadcasts of the noisy proceedings should be discontinued because they might "damage the spirit of the public."

Castro said he was "preoccupied" with the thought that nationwide broadcasts of the trials might "produce a state of permanent agitation" in Cuba.

The 13-hour trial Thursday of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco was fully broadcast. Some 30,000 spectators jammed the Sports Palace stadium to jeer and roar at the defendant who was accused of 108 murders and burning 120 homes in Oriente province.

Shortly after midnight, when most of the crowd had left, the three-man court of bearded rebels convicted him and sentenced him to death for murder, looting, robbery and damage to public property.

Sosa Blanco was taken to Cabana fortress to await execution. He said he would appeal the death sentence.

He looked haggard and worn as he was taken to his cell, in marked contrast to his demeanor during his trial.

"Don't cry," he told them.

"I'm not crying," one replied. "All life must end some day."

Sosa Blanco bore up bravely.

"I would like to shake hands with him," one rebel guard said admiringly.

U.S. Aid Ordered By Ike

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(UPI)— The worst floods in 46 years smashed through a levee into Chillicothe, Ohio, Friday, covering one third of the historic city and driving 10,000 persons from their homes.

Another flood, the worst on record, forced the evacuation of 20 per cent of Meadville, Pa., and filled the city's hospitals with refugees suffering from exposure.

President Eisenhower Friday declared the flood stricken regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania as disaster areas and authorized immediate federal aid.

The president took the action in response to urgent pleas from Govs. Michael V. Disalle of Ohio and David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania.

"The distress suffered by the people in the stricken areas is of deep concern to me," the president said, "and I am hopeful that the situation may rapidly improve."

The American Red Cross announced it was rushing aid to the 11,000 families victimized by flood waters in the five-state area of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and New York.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, National Red Cross president, called the floods a "major disaster."

He said 82 shelters had been set up in stricken areas and that 0,000 persons already had received food or lodging. Gruenther said the Red Cross would move quickly to rehabilitate families who still need medical or other assistance when the immediate emergency ends.

More flood threats on ice-clogged rivers built up in New York State and Kentucky in the wake of the most bitter storm of the year. A sub-zero cold wave increased the misery of millions and iced the eastern flood-waters.

Damage from the storm and floods neared 100 million dollars and the weather death count passed the 100 mark.

A count since the start of the great storm Tuesday showed 107 deaths from the Rockies to the Appalachians blamed on weather-caused traffic acci-

Giblin, Stopped as Speeder, Tells Officer He's Immune from Arrest

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Vincent C. Giblin was taken into custody by Coral Gables police Friday on charges of resisting arrest after he claimed he and his wife were "immune" from being stopped and ticketed for a traffic violation.

He later said the officer who arrested him was in "contempt of court."

A Gables motorcycle policeman said he stopped Giblin and his wife, Virginia, who was driving in their car in the 1200 block on Blue Rd. after a radar clocking device set up in the area showed them traveling 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Seymour Anderson, the policeman, said the judge became "highly indignant" at being stopped. Anderson said following an argument the judge took over the wheel of the car from Mrs. Giblin and raced 20 blocks before he and his wife were again stopped.

The judge was taken to the Gables police station in a squad car. There he told Police Chief William G. Kimbrough:

"In my opinion I am immune from arrest in view of the fact that I was en route to open Circuit Court which begins at 9 a.m." (The arrest slip showed the Giblins were stopped at 9:05 a.m.)

The judge was charged with "failure to obey a police officer" and "interfering with a police officer's duties."

Water Bars Rescue of Trapped 12

PITTSTON, Pa. —(UPI)— Icy river waters of the flood-swollen Susquehanna River gushing into an anthracite mine blocked all efforts to reach 12 trapped miners Friday.

The miners were sealed in a honeycomb of underground passages Thursday when the weight of the river fractured the rock strata below the river bed and sent water swirling through a 20-foot wide hole in the roof of a tunnel.

Forty-four of the 56 men who were working the subterranean passages at the time managed to find their way to more distant mine shafts and safety in a race against the rising waters. Twenty-eight of them wandered for hours through water chest-deep at times before they found an avenue of escape.

An estimated two million dollars was spent in labor and material during the first 24 hours in an effort to form a makeshift dam below the surface and allow rescue work to resume.

Daniel H. Connelly, state deputy secretary of mines, said rescuers will not be able to enter the flooded shafts "before 48 hours, if then."

But the rescuers refused to abandon hope for the 12 entombed in the water depths.

"We still have hope they went to high ground," Connelly said. He explained the men may have found refuge in air pockets above the rising water level.

An Exclusive Interview With Batista

Unhappy Life of a Dictator Without Country

He's hated in his own country and scorned by the rest of the world.

What's ahead for Fulgencio Batista, the onetime strong man of Cuba who had to start the new year by fleeing for safety to another country?

An unusual insight into the ex-dictator's unhappy life in his Dominican Republic refuge was gained by George Beebe, Herald managing editor. The setting for the exclusive interview was vastly different than the last time they talked aboard Batista's palatial yacht.

Batista tells of his plans and thoughts in the first of Beebe's absorbing series which starts in Sunday's Herald.

We're Letting Reds Lead Missile Race—Symington

Predicts 4-1 Edge In 2 Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) said Friday the Eisenhower administration is allowing Russia to pull away in the missiles race. In two years, he predicted, Russia will have a 4-1 edge in long range rockets.

"The coming year may afford us our last chance to initiate any real effort to catch up with the Russians in the most important fields of modern weaponry," Symington said in a speech to the Senate.

The Missouri senator, long a critic of administration defense policies, challenged statements by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a news conference Thursday.

McElroy said then "we do not believe that Russia has an ICBM (Intercontinental Ballistic Missile) capable of operations against this country at this time." He also discounted reports that Russia will have 300 ICBMs by next year.

Symington said McElroy's remarks imply "a great deal more combat readiness on the part of the U.S. than is justified by the very few ICBMs this country will have available for retaliation in the next two years."

He suggested that McElroy's statements and others like them may be "released for public consideration primarily to support a restricted budget position."

Symington said the U.S. has successfully test-fired ICBMs and set up production lines that could produce more; adding:

"The reason we are not planning full production of ICBMs is because this administration is not planning to spend the necessary funds."

Symington, who often has accused the administration of penny pinching on defense, gave notice he will try to boost military budget allotments above totals asked by President Eisenhower.

"During the next few years," he said, "adequate defense requires more money than estimated in the President's budget."

Eisenhower has asked $40,945,000,000 for defense in the fiscal year starting July 1. This is an increase of 145 million over estimated spending for defense this year.

McElroy, appearing before a House appropriations subcommittee Thursday, said "the nation is prepared to meet the threat it faces today." He said that during the past year this country has made good progress in missile development, defense against missiles, and antisubmarine warfare.

He said in prepared testimony that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "have gone on record with me that they consider this budget adequate to provide for the essential programs necessary for the defense of the nation for the period under consideration (the coming fiscal year)."

Today's Special on Ohio Supermarket--Flood Waters

Thousands Flee Two-State Floods

dents, exposure, exhaustion, floods and tornadoes.

At Chillicothe, a storied, 163-year-old city of 27,000 which served as Ohio's capital between 1803 and 1807, the rain-swollen Scioto River swept out of its banks at a height of 32.5 feet, 16.5 feet over flood stage, and crashed through a levee guarding the business section.

The icy river surged over a third of the city. It spread so quickly that many families were unable to reach safety on foot. Their only escape was by helicopter, army ducks, rowboat or high-wheeled cattle trucks.

The 'copters hovered over the worst-afflicted areas, plucking residents from front lawns which had suddenly turned into islands. The 'copters also helped direct rescue operations by radio and dropped food and medicine to city employes who had stuck by the city's flooded-out sewage plant.

Practically every able-bodied man in the city, along with National Guard troopers and Army and Navy reservists, fought the floods throughout the day.

The refugees were housed in churches, schools, lodge halls and private homes.

The waters of French Creek spilled into the northwest Pennsylvania town of Meadeville at six feet over flood stage and sent 1,300 families — 20 per cent of the town's population — running.

Four Army ducks helped in the evacuations and helicopters stood by for action if needed. The ducks concentrated on families who refused to leave their homes until they were surrounded by water.

Meanwhile, new floods and blizzards struck upper New York State in a sequel to the raging storm which swept the nation's midcontinent earlier in the week and gorged rivers with record rainfalls.

Weather-wise Watertown, N.Y., reported its worst blizzard of the winter, with more than a foot of wind-blown snow blocking roads, closing schools, and cutting visibility to zero. A foot more of snow was expected and snowbound motorists began finding refuge in farmhouses in Jefferson and Lewis Counties.

Floods accompanied the upstate New York snows. Ice on the Hoosick River threatened to destroy the last covered bridge still in use in Rensselaer County, while the Delaware River was bloated to a width of 500 feet.

Pilots Strike In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, — (AP) — All major Mexican airlines were grounded Friday by a pilot walkout. Both domestic and foreign flights were halted.

Thousands of passengers, including many tourists, were stranded. Airlines immediately asked the government to take action.

Pilots said they are not striking — that they merely refuse to work until certain benefits are granted. They asked no wage increases.

Expecting an airline move to use substitute pilots, the union circulated pamphlets at the International Airport warning passengers this could be dangerous. They said substitutes lack experience.

Soupy Sky 'Stacks Up' Airliners

Airplanes were stacked a mile high at a half-dozen "hold" points around Miami Friday, circling with grumbling passengers and waiting as long as two and a half hours to be guided by instruments to souped-in Miami International Airport.

At one point during the rush hours Friday afternoon, the control tower at the airport said 32 planes were being held in the sky waiting to land at three-minute intervals.

Some planes which were low on gas were diverted to landings at other airports, and there were delays in outgoing traffic also, the tower reported.

The airways traffic jam resulted from the thick overcast. Under instrument flying conditions, an official at the control tower explained, aircraft are required to stay at different altitudes and circle in widely separated areas when they arrive at their destination.

"In clear weather, one plane can see the one in front of him in the landing pattern and follow it on in," an official explained. "When we go on instruments, things get complicated and it takes longer."

Pan American World Airways said four passenger flights and one cargo flight were diverted to Nassau to wait out the jam-up over Miami. Two PAA flights to Havana were canceled due to bad weather there.

Between landings every three minutes, outgoing planes were taking off. A plane was landing or taking off every minute and a half most of the day Friday.

At the "hold" points, a plane was circling every 1,000 feet above the 6,000-foot mark.

"We've got them stacked up to 18,000 feet in some places," the control tower said.

Ike Names Group to Eye Costs

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower set up a special committee Friday to make sure government purchases and other federal activities do not fan inflationary fires by driving up prices unduly.

In ordering the move, the President said the committee will help him decide whether the government is being run in such a way as to contribute as much as possible to "reasonable price stability." If not, he said, action must be taken.

The action reflected the President's warning in his recent budget and economic messages that an all-out effort must be made to "restrain the forces that drive prices up and thereby cheapen our money and erode our personal savings."

The new presidential committee will be headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Other members will consist of representatives of at least 10 government agencies.

The President also ordered all heads of federal departments engaged in procurement, stockpiling, farm price support, rate regulation, subsidy and similar activities to re-examine their programs and take any action necessary to help in the fight against inflation.

In establishing the committee, he noted that many government agencies are engaged in activities which directly affect the rise or fall of all prices and costs. But he said there was no central body to ride herd on them.

Government agencies represented on the committee include all those with big procurement programs.

Members will come from the Defense, Post Office, Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce Departments; the Budget Bureau, the General Services Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Aviation Agency, and the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. Officials from other agencies may be added later.

Strike Curb Introduced

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida Friday introduced a bill to permit states to enact laws to protect the public interest from damage resulting from strikes against public utilities.

Florida has such a law but the Supreme Court ruled a few years ago in a Wisconsin case that the Taft-Hartley Law preempted this entire field and voided state laws.

Holland carried his fight for his measure to the Senate floor last session but lost an attempt to have it added to the Kennedy-Ives labor bill.

His Children Had Shots

Truck Driver, 25, First Polio Victim

Dade County recorded its first polio case of the year Friday—a 25-year-old truck driver who had given his two children Salk vaccine shots but neglected to take them himself.

Terrell Howell, of 2255 NW 175th St., was in critical condition in an iron lung at Variety Children's Hospital. He has bulbar polio, the most serious form of the disease.

"The doctors say that if he can get through the next 48 hours, he will pull through," said Howell's wife, Alice, 21.

"Neither of us had the shots," she said. "I guess it's because you always think of the kids but not yourself. But I got my first shot today."

She also got booster shots for the two children, Mary, three, and Terrell Jr., one.

Howell, a truck driver for a concrete company, came home from work last Friday night complaining of a headache and a pain in the small of his back, Mrs. Howell said.

"He was weak by Sunday, and by Tuesday he couldn't walk or eat. We had to carry him to the doctor's office, then to the hospital," she said.

Mrs. Howell said that when she visited her husband, "he seemed to feel fine. But being in the iron lung, he is scared. He's never been in a hospital before."

Howell is the county's first polio case of 1959. Last year, there were 30 cases in Dade County, according to County Health Officer Dr. T. E. Cato. Four of them were definitely bulbar polio.

There were two polio deaths here in 1958, Dr. Cato said, but one of the victims developed polio in 1957.

Dr. Cato urged Dade citizens who have not had their shots to get them.

Auto Prices Also Down

Food Sparks Decline In Cost of Living

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The cost of living dropped two-tenths of one per cent in December in the first monthly decline since August, the government reported Friday. It attributed the drop primarily to a dip in food prices.

The decline lowered the Labor Department's consumer price index to 123.7 per cent of the base period 1947-49. The November index equalled the all-time high of 123.9 per cent set last July, and the December index still was 1.7 per cent above a year ago.

The Labor Department also reported that the earnings of the average factory worker after taxes last month reached an all-time high of $79.60 a week for a man with three dependents and $72.10 for a single man. This was $1.20 above November.

The December drop in the cost of living was too slight to affect the wages of 700,000 workers whose pay is pegged by their collective bargaining contracts to the department's price index.

H. E. Riley, Labor Department price chief, said the lower food prices reflected decreases in the cost of oranges, eggs, coffee, poultry and pork. Also down were prices of new autos, women's and girls coats, suits and dresses, recreation, and personal care.

Riley said food prices probably will rise again this month. But he doubted there would be any substantial change in the overall cost of living.

Quiet Rites For DeMille

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)— Cecil B. DeMille, famed in life for his spectacles and crowd scenes, was buried Friday with simple rites more quiet and orderly than any Hollywood funeral in recent memory.

The Rev. Harry E. Owing Jr., rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, conducted the 15-minute ceremony from the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer.

There was no eulogy, and a crowd of 500 fans kept silent throughout the rites.

Mack Trial Ruling Due Next Week

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews took under advisement Friday a request that the Channel 10 trial involving Richard Mack and Thurman Whiteside be transferred from Washington, to Miami.

Judge Matthews indicated she will rule on that motion, as well as others, within the next week.

Whiteside, a Miami attorney, and Mack, former federal communications commissioner, were indicted on charges they conspired to have Mack sell his vote in the Channel 10 television award. It was awarded to National Airlines.

Mack and Whiteside requested a change in the trial site on the grounds that continuing and widespread publicity in Washington within the past year had created a prejudiced atmosphere which would make it impossible for them to obtain a fair trial here.

Defense attorneys also said that a Washington trial would work a hardship on the defendants since virtually all of the witnesses reside in Miami. Also, they said, the expense of a Washington trial would be much greater.

Nicholas J. Chase, Mack's Washington attorney, emphasized that Mack is destitute and that he is "ill of mind and body — and seriously so."

He said Mack is unemployed, that his wife has gone to work and that he is living with his father in Fort Lauderdale.

Government attorneys, however, produced a letter from Dr. Thomas Armour Jr. of Coral Gables stating that Mack is "able to travel anywhere or to stand trial in the District of Columbia."

Armour said Mack is "perfectly clear and competent mentally" and that "I do not find now any physical condition which impairs his being able" to stand trial.

The letter from Armour was dated Jan. 2.

In support of their claim that there is a prejudiced atmosphere in Washington, defense attorneys showed Judge Matthews huge blowups of front page stories which have appeared in Washington newspapers.

Government attorneys retorted an FBI check of Miami papers showed that there was much more publicity on the case in Miami than there was in Washington.

Government attorneys said this would compare to 100 to 150 Washington newspaper articles produced by defense attorneys.

Whiteside appeared in court with his attorneys, Richard Hunt of Miami and Arthur Hilland of Washington. Mack did not show up.

Defense attorneys estimated the trial will last six weeks and indicated they will ask the judge to postpone the trial date now set for Feb. 16 if the judge denies the motion to transfer.

National Summary

High pressure covering most of the region from the mid and lower Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast accounted for widespread sunshine but continued cold temperatures through Friday afternoon.

Readings in the teens persisted in the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians at midday and freezing levels were noted in the mountains of Tennessee while 40s ranged across the Gulf region.

Blustery winds sweeping across the Great Lakes region into the northeast held temperatures to 10 degrees or lower in many sections and maintained snow flurries and local squalls from Michigan across New York and Pennsylvania into northern New England.

Warmer weather from the northwest and over most of the midsection of the country during the night is expected to nudge into the southeast on Saturday.

Colder weather from the Carolinas into New England over night is expected to linger.

Showers will accompany mild temperatures in the Pacific northwest while snow flurries will be scattered across the mountains from Montana into Colorado.

Peak Still Winter, Though

Hospital 'Season' Is Year 'Round

By ROSE ALLEGATO
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — For Palm Beach County's three hospitals, the "season" is becoming year 'round.

Good Samaritan, St. Mary's and Palm Beach General Hospitals report their patient load is more evenly distributed throughout the year.

The peak, however, with its accompanying waiting list, still comes in the winter months.

Hospitals in the area are nearing that peak now with one—Good Samaritan — already coping with the inevitable waiting list.

John F. Wymer, Good Samaritan administrator, said his 230-bed facility reaches capacity on week days and empties somewhat on weekends. This will continue throughout April, Wymer said.

"Actually we run pretty full year 'round now," Wymer explained.

Wymer said no emergency patients are turned away.

"They are treated and if we have no beds, we transfer them to another hospital in the area. We could put them in the hall but we don't want to unless we have it," he said.

Good Samaritan, he said, now has a "tremendous expansion" program on the drafting board to meet the county's growing needs. The program would add 120 to 130 beds to the present hospital.

Mother Josephine Marie, O.S. F., administrator of St. Mary's said her 250-bed facility would reach its peak Feb. 1. The peak will last six to eight weeks, she said.

"The patient load is more evenly distributed over the year and we stay busier longer each year," she added.

At present, St. Mary's is operating with an 80 per cent occupancy.

She listed a "more stable" population as the reason for the year-round season. Also, St. Mary's is drawing patients from the fast-developing outlying areas, she said.

"We always have a bed for an emergency," she said. "No one is ever turned away."

Only elective surgery and diagnostic cases are placed on the waiting list. Acute medical cases and emergencies supersede other cases, she explained.

Palm Beach General, a 75-bed facility, is also operating at 80 per cent occupancy.

Jack Flood, administrator, said Palm Beach General would reach its peak next month. Between Feb. 15 and May 15, Palm Beach General expects it will have a waiting list or will be using hallways to house patients.

He also assured that emergency patients and acute medical cases will be accommodated even at the peak.

George Dickinson Touches Up Doll Piano

Retired Businessman Enjoys His Doll Furniture Hobby

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A doll who yearns for the grace and elegance of the traditional will be delighted with the furniture handmade by George Dickinson.

Making antique doll furniture is the hobby of George Dickinson, a retired business man. Former owner of George's Paint and Hardware Co., he sold out that and other business enterprises for reasons of health.

As he got better, time began to hang heavily on his hands. One day a year ago he watched his wife try to contrive a doll bed out of a shoe box for a small niece.

"Let's see if I can't make one out of wood," he said. And by trial and error, he completed a cunning doll bed that delighted the child.

That started the hobby, and now he works at it most of the day and often far into the night. His workshop is in the garage of his home at 5517 Hobart Ave. Principal tools used are a band saw, punch press and drill press, power driven.

He used scrap lumber and odd bits of this and that. He finds much excellent material at the city dump. People bring him bits of wood and upholstery material.

Mrs. Dickinson makes the mattresses and covers for the beds and upholsters the davenports.

He makes old fashioned cradles, pianos with stools that twirl, tables, chairs, fourposter beds with testers, and practically everything that a good doll housekeeper would like in her home. A traditional home, that is.

Phone Bill List Complete

Board to See Mott Report

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A list of municipal employes who have had their private home phone bills paid by the city will be given to each member of the City Commission, it was learned Friday.

City Manager James J. Mott has reportedly completed the list and may submit it officially to a regular meeting of the commission Monday.

The list of those who have had private phones paid for out of the municipal treasury was described as "fairly long."

None of those on the list were immediately identified, but it is said to include several employes of the West Palm Beach water system, which is now a municipal operation.

Most of those on the list were said to be on the City Hall staff and may include departmental officials, it was said.

Mayor Horace S. Miller said Friday he "could find no excuse" for charging private home phone bills to the city, even though a municipal employe might transact considerable business at home.

He said "I probably do as much city business over the phone in my home as anybody in the city service, but I don't charge it to the West Palm Beach taxpaper."

Vice-mayor W. P. Holland said, "I had a good idea that the practice has been going on for a long time."

News that the city manager was investigating the phone situation leaked out earlier this week.

There was no direct comment from City Hall itself, or by any departmental heads in other municipal locations.

JUNO BEACH—When the doors of the former Seminole restaurant opens at 11 a.m. Sunday Juno and Juno Beach will experience it's first church service.

The Rev. Roy C. Sampley, retired minister of Jensen Beach, will start the services.

And so a church will be born.

There are no officers, official board members, Sunday School, Youth Fellowship, women's circle, or any groups which make up an organized church.

The Juno Beach church is sponsored by the Stuart and Riviera Beach Methodist Churches.

Preliminary plans were under the direction of the West Palm Beach District of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church.

Preliminary plans were under the direction of the West Palm Beach District of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church.

The church area will extend North to Jupiter and will include the new communities of Sequesta, and Jupiter Inlet Colony.

The southern boundary will go to the northern boundaries of the Village of North West Palm Beach, and the Western boundary will include the residential area West of Juno Beach.

Nearly 35 families have indicated that they will become members of the church, said Rev. Sampley.

The church building is located near the Juno Fishing Pier, and near the banks of a small lake on A1A.

Negotiations are now under way for the purchase of the building and surrounding land by the church.

Rev. Sampley served eight years as pastor of the Jensen Beach Community Church, and just retired last June. He was ordained a Methodist minister 30 years ago.

Rev. Sampley was eighth in his family to become a Methodist Minister.

His wife Mary has shared his church duties. She taught a Bible class for eight years at the Community Church.

Sunday she will furnish the church music.

Cab Permit Dispute to Be Heard

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — City commissioners Monday will referee another round in the fight over taxi permits.

The feud developed when Ace Taxi Co. applied for two permits and charged its competitor held a virtual monopoly with 46 permits. Ace holds only five permits now.

The competitor is Yellow Cab Co. and three other taxi firms it owns and operates. Yellow is opposing the Ace request.

Through its attorney, Phil O'Connell, the firm contends Ace must show the "public necessity" for the extra permits.

Monday's hassle is expected to focus on the fact Yellow is using only 40 of its 46 permits.

Watchman Death Case In Court

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The case of 17-year-old Kenneth Thiery, who is charged with the Oct. 22 bludgeon murder of a night watchman, came up in Circuit Court Friday as a prelude to his trial Feb. 10.

The new development involved a hearing on motions filed by the Ohio youth's counsel, Garlon Davis.

Davis asked the court for authority to inspect the evidence the state will present against the suspect and for a list of witnesses the state will put on the stand for a new trial.

He also moved for a change in the wording of the grand jury indictment returned against Thiery.

State Attorney Phil O'Connell raised no serious objections to the first two motions but argued against Davis' contention that the indictment should be more definite in order to prepare a defense.

Davis questioned the wording "pre-meditated murder."

Judge Culver Smith granted the first two motions but gave Davis until Monday to find authority for his arguments that the wording of the indictment should be changed.

Thiery has been held in jail here since he was seized by city police for the slaying of Joseph K. Brown, a watchman in the downtown Guarantee Bldg. He is charged with beating the watchman to death while trying to rob offices in the building.

Man Found Hanged in Jail Cell

By VENA SCHROEDER

PAHOKEE—William Henry Miller, 48, a Miami metal salesman who was jailed at 8 a.m. Friday after a traffic crash, was found dead in his cell about 2:30 p.m., apparently a suicide victim.

Trooper George Emerson said Miller, a former Pahokee resident, was involved in a crash with a pickup truck on U.S. 441, about three miles north of Canal Point. Elijah Jones, Canal Point, driver of the truck, suffered minor injuries but Miller was unhurt.

The Miamian, charged with failing to yield right-of-way, failed to post bond and was jailed until his insurance company provided surety for his release, officials said.

His body was found by another prisoner. Miller had fastened a belt around his neck, attached it to a door and jumped from a double bunk bed, officials said.

The body is at Williams-Wetherington Funeral Home in Pahokee.

Plea Denied

Sheriff's Ex-Employe Sentenced to Prison

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—Commenting that "dishonesty in government can not be tolerated," Criminal Judge Hugh MacMillan Friday sentenced an ex-bookkeeper in the sheriff's office to state prison for six months to five years on grand larceny charges.

Louis "Jerry" Lynch was charged with stealing $7,554 in county funds and with forging a $150 check. He pleaded not guilty to the forgery offense and trial was set for May 18.

In another case, Ted J. Rinehart, 32, of Miami, reputed friend of jewel thief Harry Sitamore, was sentenced to seven years in state prison. He said he would appeal.

Lynch will be detained in county jail until his May 18 trial on forgery.

Judge MacMillan turned down Attorney Paschal C. Reese's plea that Lynch be put on probation. Reese said the defense was prepared to make $1,200 in restitution.

Lynch was given two sentences of six months to five years to run concurrently on separate grand larceny charges.

Rinehart's sentence stemmed from a conviction for the attempted break-in at the Palm Beach Towers Feb. 23, 1958. He was given two years for the attempted burglary and five years for possession of burglary tools — duplicates of keys to apartments in the building.

Rinehart is also appealing a Palm Beach Municipal Court conviction on vagrancy. Hearing on the appeal is set for Feb. 6.

Palm Beach County Fair Under Way

Herald Service

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County's Golden Anniversary Fair got away to an auspicious if wet start Friday night with dedication ceremonies for two buildings and the crowning of four queens.

Richard D. Hill, first president of Palm Beach County Exposition, Inc., sponsors of the fair, provided bronze plaques for new agriculture and industrial buildings around which revolved the dedicatory ceremonies.

The $25,000 for the agriculture building was provided by Bernie Bensel, pionner Palm Beach County resident, and an equal amount for the industrial building was provided by the Palm Beach County Commission. Its chairman, Lake Lyfal, pledged continued support of the fair.

Janet Buss, 17-year-old Lake Worth High School girl was crowned as "Miss Palm Beach County Fair." Judy Brasfield, of Lantana, was named "Miss Tourism" and Sandy Noel, West Palm Beach, won the crown of "Miss Agriculture." Phyllis Walston, also of West Palm Beach, was named "Miss Industry."

Bus Firm Wins Stay On Damages

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Florida Cities Bus Co. won another stay of execution Friday on a $23,000 damage decision handed down earlier this month.

Circuit Judge James R. Knott signed an order Friday granting the stay until a ruling on the bus company's petition for a rehearing in the case.

Nine union bus drivers discharged by Florida Cities won $23,000 in back pay but were not reinstated. The way was left open, however, for reinstatement through federal boards or other court action.

Sports Cars to 'March'

MAXIE

HERB

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—Loren Palmer is a young teenager with a long memory.

Palmer is the brains behind the stunt sports car race today for the March of Dimes.

He has reasons for dreaming up the money-raising scheme. When only four years old, Loren was stricken with polio. He was under treatment for 18 months and came unscathed out of his bout with the dread disease.

Now an active member of the Thomas Alva Edison Chapter, Demolay, he's the prime mover in the slow sports car race which gets under way on downtown Clematis St. at 2 p.m.

Herb Score, Cleveland Indian pitcher, and Maxie Rosenbloom, one-time light heavyweight champ, will be behind the wheel of the sports cars.

Bandleader Sammy Kaye, now vacationing at a Palm Beach hotel, will come into town to act as a relief driver.

Each car will move ahead one foot for every quarter donated to the March of Dimes. It will take $120 for each car to finish the block-long race. The first one across the line is the winner.

Grable, Newcomers of '28 Add More Class to Beach Week

THIS TRULY has been a week of plenty on the Miami Beach nightlife scene! Skelton, Ellington, Hackett, Daniels and Wyler — and now the finishing touch of the glamor of the glittering show names — Grable, Walters, Whiteman, Richman, Keaton, Vallee and D'Orsay! The last five all in one big explosive package of both promise and nostalgia called "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville, and Grable. Betty Grable, that is, holding down the stellar spot at the Latin Quarter as a solo but supported by Donn Arden's sparkling "Sky High" revue.

The Latin Quarter's E. M. Loew, who as operator of several score movie houses in New England already must have made a lot of money from Betty Grable, is in line to make some more from the lass who made such box-office greats as "Coney Island," Wabash Ave.," "The Dolly Sisters" and so on for Fox.

Miss Grable stepped down from the screen when she was still tops and has been sharing her time between a musician husband and thoroughbred horses. So she comes back to the spotlight as a star. However, she comes not as so many other stars who come to the cafe belt equipped with a reputation and a desire for some easy loot—but with no act!

True, Miss Grable's act trades on her movie reputation to the extent that it reprises some of its highlights, but the difference is that Betty works like the trouper she is to make it a thing of beauty and a joy for everyone of its too few minutes. Assisted by four of her own lads and utilizing the individual talents and the ensemble backing of the "Sky High" production, Betty changes costumes nearly a dozen times as she re-enacts key scenes from her many movie musicals. Gracious, talented, and willing to wear herself to a frazzle to please, Betty Grable is still the star, every inch of her still curvaceous figure.

Old Timers Furnish New Fun

ALTHOUGH all the components of the Deauville's current troupe are still active to some degree in the show business in which they left indelible marks you have to go further back than Miss Grable's heydey to find the year of their blossoming glory. In fact, as the title implies, Harry Richman, Paul Whiteman, Fifi D'Orsay, Rudy Vallee, Billy Gilbert and Buster Keaton were the "Newcomers of 1928"—give or take a year or three.

Betty Grable Rudy Vallee Jackie Miles

. . . three more shiny pebbles on the Beach

"Newcomers of 1928" is the inspiration of a genius—and if he doesn't mind we'll identify him right now. It was Jackie Barnett, sidekick and just about an off-stage half of Jimmy Durante, who conceived the idea of collecting all these established greats. It was also Jackie who whipped up the imaginative act wherein a pair of modern honeymooners bound for the moon in a rocket have missile difficulty which takes them BACK in time—you guessed it, to 1928.

Maybe you can imagine the fun, the nostalgia and the solid entertainment this generates. Whiteman and Roy Bargy (and Lee Martin's orchestra) doing the Rhapsody in Blue; Fifi D'Orsay kidding the fashions; Rudy Vallee and Harry Richman getting their music mixed and essaying each others songs (so what if the tone isn't of 1928 timbre or pitch!); Billy Gilbert as the not so mad scientist, and Buster Keaton in a classic of comedy with Whiteman, Vallee, Richman and Gilbert assisting at a duel!

Around these established stars of long standing Barnett has gathered some probable stars of 1968—or sooner. The Earle Twins, delightful dancers; Kitty Muldoon and Harry Grayson as the lunar honeymooners; Mitzi McCall, Cathy Stuart, Louise Vienna and the new Rhythm Boys in flashback specialty, and a bouncy ensemble of kids of 1958 who hit a mad peak in a jazz ballet localed in a 1929 stock market.

There may be some who will be pained to see that some of the technical perfection has been rubbed off these golden stars of a golden era. To us this just allows one to see, through the 22-karat charm and the personality that shines through these rubbed spots, that theirs was not a gold-plated stardom.

Daniels Show Wins by Miles

THE HERALD'S Gene Miller recently authored a story about the difficulty of obtaining certain forms of insurance on Miami Beach — but there is still such a thing as "show business" insurance and Harry Mufson has it doubled at his cafe Pompeii of the Eden Roc this week in his co-featuring of Singer Billy Daniels and Comedian Jackie Miles.

Both are veterans of the cafe belt and over the years have enlisted an army of faithful followers who are the "insurance" of at least getting off what the pub operator calls "the nut."

Even with the competition of Red Skelton next door the Cafe played host to a comfortable audience at the Miles-Daniels opening.

Both rely mainly on tried and true material which has been given satisfaction for years — plus a few modernizations for the new comers. For instance, Billy injects a fairly new pair in "Come Fly With Me" and "The Masculine Touch," but he moves the crowd to most applause with "Old Black Magic," "Yiddishe Mama," "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Old Man River." As usual he gets fine support from his sidekick of the keyboard — Benny Payne.

Jackie is the master of the underplayed dialected anecdote. He uses no hammy histrionics and though we've been hearing his material for years it seems different every time he tells it.

Lou's Latest Even Tops Follies

LOU WALTERS has dropped the Ziegfeld Follies tag for his second revue at the Carillon Hotel's Club Siam but it is even more beautiful and elaborate than the production bearing the Ziegfeld label. By almost popular and official decree Lou has retained the essence of the feather-decked "A Girl Is Like A Pretty Melody" spectacle and all of the exciting "A Strange Interlude" girl-and-her-shadow dance number but he's imported a complete new set of principal replacements.

Among them are Tun Tun, the dwarfish imp with the velocity and go of an Atlas missile; Richiardi, the magician; Don Garrard, a singer who has a robustly masculine voice and the figure of the mystical Atlas to match; Christine Niky and Judy Reese, who have figures (and Judy can dance divinely too); Lucienne and Ashour, the apache dancers who have been in dozens of Walters' revues, and Irene Hilda, a French cookie billed as the toast of Paris.

All have their appeal, but it is the well-peeled look of the production numbers which pleases most. That, and the inventiveness of Walters productions and the staging of Jack and Marilyn Nagle, who should be doing a show in Vegas once their work here is done.

Walters has out-done himself in his Mardi Gras in Paris finale in which clouds of bubbles and flickering sparklers fill the stage as the whole troupe participates.

NOTES — Teenagers attending the Gables Theater Record-hop this morning will hear Bobby Gaye and Dannis Mathis and their Rock and Roll combo . . . Florida Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists will meet on Sunday in the McAllister Hote. Program opens at 9:30 a.m. More than 100 dance teachers are expected to attend, according to President Charles Roth. . . . Latest financial rumor out of Havana is that present Cuban currency won't be devalued—it will be completely recalled, in exchange for a new issue.

Property Owners Differ On Toll Bridge Proposal

INDIALANTIC — Persons owning beach property in the proposed road and bridge tax district — which would help finance a SR A1A toll bridge over Sebastian Inlet — have mixed opinions about the idea.

Some like the tax district proposal and would welcome the span, others feel "taxes are high enough," and still another opinion was that there are other projects more necessary than the bridge at this time.

In sampling opinions, The Herald found that property owners in the northern section of the proposed district — south of Patrick Air Force Base — feel that SR A1A four-laning from Indialantic to the base was a more pressing problem.

The South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce is backing the proposition to form a special tax district to help finance the toll bridge. The county plans to ask the 1959 Legislature to approve legislation permitting the action. However, voters would have to approve the construction bond issue.

Here are a few of the opinions:

Mrs. Ivar Meland, South Melbourne Beach: "I'd be very happy to have the bridge. Although I am in business, I'd feel the same way if I only owned a home out here. It would be nice to have a route from the south."

William Schneider, South Melbourne Beach: "A bridge wouldn't mean a thing to me. It would be good only for the motel people. Anyway, I'm not in favor of raising taxes."

Charles Niemeyer, Indialantic: "We need more figures on how much it would cost, and then it's time to decide whether you're for or against the proposal. It would add to the attraction of the East Coast, and I don't think the toll would discourage motorists from using the bridge. Many people now are disappointed when they come all the way over here from U. S. 1 and can't go to Vero Beach on A1A."

James Reinman, Indialantic council president: "I don't consider the bridge as an actual need, although it would be an asset to the area. We need A1A four-laned to the base, drainage and sewage before the bridge.

Mrs. Bruce Glass, South Patrick Shores area: "They charge enough taxes now for the results we're getting. I would like to see them four-lane A1A first, and then build the bridge."

Bridge Will Push A1A Toward Vero

MELBOURNE — The spanning of Sebastian Inlet — one of Florida's most famous fishing areas for sportsmen — has been talked about for years by local residents.

Tourists are able to take this scenic route along the Atlantic Ocean from the northern part of the East Coast, but are stopped at the inlet. A bridge over the waterway would allow travel all the way to such points as Vero Beach and Fort Pierce.

James R. Allen, South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce president, also sees the bridge as providing another beach escape route during a time of disaster.

Besides, Allen predicts that beach property values would "double or triple two to three years after the bridge would be in operation." Faster commercial development also would be expected, he said.

However, the first serious effort to build the span was stopped by lack of funds two years ago — when four-laning of U. S. 1 was being pushed. And now this improved freeway is seen as an important competitor to an A1A toll bridge.

Officials backing the toll bridge feel creation of a tax district might help bring down the toll charge — in addition to help sell construction bonds.

The county engaged a consulting engineer, James A. Tuck, to make a feasibility study of the inlet bridge project back in 1956, and he figured a 40-cent toll would be needed.

Tuck estimated the cost would run $1,254,600 and could be paid off by a 30-year bond issue.

payment on the principal would be needed for the first three years, with $46,500 payment on bonds per year starting on the fourth year.

Interest on the total for the first three years would have been $62,730 per year, plus operating cost and expenses of $71,730 to make the total outlay $134,460.

Against this amount, Tuck showed a traffic count of 336,000 cars a year using U. S. 1.

Estimating 10 per cent of this traffic flow for A1A and the proposed bridge, the survey said a 40-cent toll per vehicle would bring in $135,000. Tuck said the bridge would pay for itself.

But the State Road Department could not be convinced and the project was dropped.

Council Won't OK Van Brunt

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Merit System Council refused Friday to give immediate approval to industrial commission chairman James T. Vocelle's plan to create a new and better job for a man bypassed for his division's directorship.

The council discussed at length Vocelle's request for approval of the new classification of assistant director of the employment service, then put off action until next month.

But not once did council members mention that Vocelle intended to give the new job to Dana Leitch, high man in the examination for the director's job, which was given to Harry Van Brunt.

Van Brunt finished 12th among the 13 who took the examination for the director's job.

Vocelle had sought a noncompetitive examination for Van Brunt, who was director of personnel. Merit system director Angus Laird insisted upon a competitive examination.

Mental Health

TRUE ☐
FALSE ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

IN A SENSE, TRUE. But there are some good signs everyone should know. Are you generally well-poised so that you don't easily become excited? When you make mistakes, do you get up and go on instead of spending much time and energy regretting them? Can you see others succeed and be honored for it without feeling uneasy? Do you have the habit of happiness? Do you usually enjoy life? These aren't all, but some of the good signs.

Are disobedient children more easily excited?
Yes——— No———

No. According to one study of 67 four year olds in one nursery school, for instance, the disobedient children were more quarrelsome and cruel. They were more impatient. They were less affectionate and friendly, and had less social poise than many others. But they were not more excitable.

More girls date:
Different boys——— The Same Boy———

Different boys. More than twice as many girls who date at all, say they date different boys (67 per cent) than the same boy (21 per cent) according to the University of Michigan study of adolescent girls. The younger the girl, the greater the likelihood that she dates different boys, although more than half (55 per cent) of those over 16 do so, likewise.
